NEWEST BRANCH OF ARMY TRAINS TO FIGHT TANKS

Young Men Needed for Destroyers.

[The Tribune, co-operating with Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commander of the 6th service command, in a campaign to recruit youths 18 and 19 years old for the different branches of the army, sent a reporter to various camps to describe modern army training for the youth of Chicagoland. This is another of a series.]

BY FRANK STURDY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Hood, Tex., Dec. 2.—Tough young soldiers wearing insignia entirely new in the United States army are proving impressively that for every offensive means of combat a defense can be devised.

Their shoulder insigne, the head of a black panther crunching a tank in its jaws, is as colorful as the fighting tactics taught these men at the headquarters of the tank destroyers here.

Recently granted the right to its own general staff by the war department and in essence a special task force of the army, the tank destroyers were only a year old Dec. 1. On that date in 1941 the Tank Destroyer Tactical and Firing center was activated.

Tactics Specially Planned.

During the preceding seven months an army planning board had been continuously testing guns, vehicles and equipment to implement a more refined and specialized strategy to knock out the tanks against which conventional artillery could not muster sufficient speed or mobility.

The board evolved the tactics some 35,000 men are learning today on the 158,000 acres of Camp Hood's rolling terrain.

They are taught to operate in small, self-sufficient units of two vehicles, each mounting a high velocity, fast firing 3-inch gun, and one supporting car armed with twin .50 caliber machine guns for use against aircraft. Two of these sections form a platoon, used in combat like a little task force, operating behind a screen of reconnaissance.

Strictly Attack Group.

The tank destroyers are not hit and run weapons. The soldiers manning them don't look at it that way. Their motto is "Seek, Strike, Destroy." The only running they are taught is running after tanks, for in a very real sense the tank destroyer is strictly an attack weapon.

The head of the tank destroyers and commandant of Camp Hood is Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce. He was a member of the original planning board.

"We are aware that we have a lot to learn, but we have made great progress in our short life," Gen. Bruce said today. "There isn't a tank in general use on any battle front now that we can't stop.

"Our men are taught to fight tanks even when their gun is knocked out, and they can do it. We use stick grenades [Molotov cocktails], and are developing additional means of coping with our particular enemy."

Gives Armor for Speed.

The basic strategy of the tank destroyer is outspeeding the tank. To get speed and maneuverability, virtually all armor has been discarded. The destroyer now in use is built upon the chassis of a tank. It is called the M-10 here. The armor remaining, except in front, is not expected to stop anything heavier than machine gun bullets or shell fragments. The turret is open to give the crew the greatest possible vision and a better and less cramped shooting platform.

The M-10, Gen. Bruce said, is an expedient adopted because the tank chassis and 3 inch gun were available. A new vehicle, specially designed for the tank destroyers, is now being tested at the Aberdeen proving grounds.

This new destroyer is classed as a military secret, but may be described as a track laying vehicle of remarkable speed over rough terrain, relatively light in armor and with a materially improved track suspension system.

Stresses Light Weight.

Outwardly resembling a tank, the similarity ends there. The speed of the car is due partly to its light weight, partly to the method of applying the motive power of the wheels to the

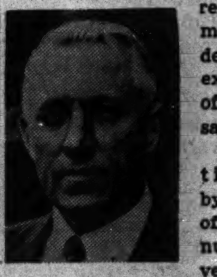
ALL WHO EARN $30 A WEEK UP ARE AFFECTED

Few Cases Exempt; Cuts Restricted.

The most important excerpts from the general regulations issued yesterday governing increases and decreases in salaries under the jurisdiction of the commissioner of internal revenue will be found on page 32. The regulations define executive, administrative, and professional employés and describe conditions under which salary changes may be exempted from the general prohibition.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 [Special].—The treasury today issued detailed regulations implementing President Roosevelt's executive order of Oct. 3 freezing salaries.



Guy T. Helvering.

The regulations, prepared by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering, cover all salaries over $5,000 and other salaries ranging down to $30 a week paid to executive, administrative, and professional persons. All other wages and salaries are under the jurisdiction of the War Labor board and the department of agriculture and are not affected by today's regulations.

Seek to Clarify F. D. R. Order.

The rules are intended to clear up many uncertainties created by the sweeping provisions of the Presidential order and the subsequent orders from the Office of Economic Stabilization.

The regulations ran more than 8,000 words, covering 21 closely typewritten pages. They sought to answer the thousands of individual questions with which the treasury has been besieged since the salary freezing was first ordered by the President.

In general, the purpose of the regulations is to limit salaries in the higher brackets to a basic amount of $67,200 starting in 1943, and hold salaries of most other white collar workers at approximately their present levels.

Burden On Employer.

The regulations make plain that the burden of justifying an increase in salary shall lie with the employer desiring to grant the increase.

Employers face a unique situation. If they raise salaries in a manner which is later declared in violation of the rules they face disallowance of salary expense for tax purposes and will be forced to go to court to prove their innocence. In other words, they may be found guilty by the internal revenue bureau and, instead of being taken to court by the government, they will be obliged to take the government to court to

LOUISIANA GOVERNOR URGES SOUTHERNERS TO QUIT DEMOCRATS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 2 (AP).—Gov. Sam H. Jones of Louisiana today proposed for the third time in less than a week that southern Democrats break from the national Democratic party because it had "treated the south worse than the Republican party ever treated us" on getting war contracts.

Jones made the assertion before a regional meeting of the Mississippi Valley association at which Lachlan Macleay, president of the group, also criticized Washington, D. C. He assailed what he called transportation and gasoline bottlenecks caused by sprinkling the Atlantic coast with war plants while neglecting the Mississippi valley.

Jones declared:

"I can't see why we should adhere to the Democratic party if we are going to be a stepchild. I don't see why we shouldn't form our own Democratic party and join with the people of the middle west.

"They [northern Democrats] call us the nation's economic problem No. 1, but they seem more interested in solving the economic problems of some foreign nations than those here."

Nye Says U. S. Needs Patriots Like Churchill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], one of the most irreconcilable prewar noninterventionists in the United States, was guest speaker tonight at a meeting of the English Speaking union, one of the foremost prewar interventionist organizations in the country.

Nye delighted his audience of Anglophiles when he acclaimed Winston Churchill as a fellow nationalist and commended the British prime minister's recent declaration that Britain intends to keep her empire. He intimated that this country would be much better off if we had more nationalists with Churchill's sound patriotism and solid realism and less quixotic talk about fighting this war to establish the four freedoms thruout the world, to give everybody a quart of milk a day, and to put an end to imperialism.

We are fighting this war, he said, for our national existence.

Assails "Pretty Speeches."

"But we have among us some talented characters who, at the drop of the hat, will make pretty speeches for us about all the things we are fighting for without ever once referring to the real thing," Nye said.

"Even while we are short of enough to provide for our own American needs, some of us go on day dreaming, planning, and talking about getting a quart of milk every day into every stomach on the face of the globe, even tho it might be necessary to keep the American army functioning and ready to hold down the Chinese and others who don't like milk and will not drink milk while [Vice President] Henry Wallace pours it down their throats."

Some Hunt an Alibi.

Alluding to demands by Wendell Willkie and Publisher Henry Luce that Britain give up her empire and stop fighting to hold it together, Nye asserted that some who boasted of the ease with which we could lick the Nazis and the Japs "now desperately need and want an alibi, a goat to blame for the tremendous mess we are in and the tremendous task before us, which will cost possibly millions of lives and the greater portion of our wealth."

"But however long and loud they scream," he said, "there will continue to be Churchills quite properly averring that they were not chosen to their places of power for the purpose of selling out and destroying the British empire. Indeed, there will even be Americans who will go on thinking that America ought to do a little empire building of her own."

FRANCE'S NEWS MEN WHO GAVE STORY OF FLEET SINKING SEIZED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 2.—Because they gave the world the true story of the scuttling of the French fleet at Toulon last Friday, several members of the editorial staff of Havas, the official news agency in Vichy, France, are under arrest for "disseminating false information."

The Havas editors were at Clermont-Ferrand, where the agency has its headquarters, when they received direct news from local correspondents in Toulon by telephone. They knew that publication would be forbidden in France, and thus concentrated on communicating the report abroad, Havas having arrangements with various foreign agencies, German included.

Their report stressed that the French offered resistance to the Germans and that there was a relatively large number of casualties.

Nazis Say Puppet Premier of Greece Is Replaced

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—The official German news agency, DNB, reported tonight that Gen. Tsolakoglu, prime minister of the Greek puppet government, had resigned because of "impaired health." Prof. Logothetopulos, who had been minister of social welfare, and of culture and education, will be the new premier and retain his other posts concurrently, DNB said.

Propose River Taxis to Ease Travel Burden

Cabin cruisers, operating on the river, carrying several thousand passengers daily back and forth between the Union and North Western stations and the Michigan avenue bridge or beyond, were visualized yesterday as relieving some of the strain on the city's overburdened transportation facilities.

This river ferry service may soon become a reality. Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th] said last night he will bring the subject up this morning before a special meeting of the city council committee on local transportation. This meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m., just prior to the council meeting scheduled for today. Orlikoski is also chairman of the harbors, wharves, and bridges committee, before which the question of providing docks for the river boats must finally come.

Just Like Thames.

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the transportation group, said he favors trying the plan.

"If it's found to be feasible I'll do everything I can to coöperate," Quinn said. "They've been running such boats on the Thames in London for a long time. Why not here, especially under gasoline rationing? I'm for it."

"If we're going to do it, the quicker the better," Orlikoski said. "The question about gasoline for such craft has been raised. There should be no trouble about that. There's no shortage of gas; it's all done to save rubber, and rubber is not involved here."

Every one else approached on the subject was immediately for it and ready to do everything necessary to get action. L. W. Hall, hydraulic engineer for the Sanitary district, said the plan is entirely practical even tho it is winter and ice may be on the river from time to time.

Tugs as Icebreakers.

"We have several tugs on the river which can take care of the ice," Hall said. "There are usually only a few days when the ice is really formidable. Last year the river was frozen across only three times. Such cabin cruisers as would carry passengers can have a path made for them by the tugs, just as the fishing boats do all winter."

Allied Flyers Knock Out 23 Zero Planes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 3 [Thursday]—(AP).—Allied airmen have downed 23 Jap Zeros and driven off a naval convoy which attempted to reënforce the entrapped Japs at Buna on the New Guinea coast, the high command announced today.

Allied planes battled thruout yesterday afternoon and last night against the enemy naval force together with its air escort before driving it off. Against the reported downing of the 23 Jap planes the communique reported "our air losses were light."

Advance Along Beach.

The ground fighting for control of all northeast New Guinea continued in favor of the allies.

On the left wing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops, the communique said, have driven in beyond Gona and are advancing along the beach toward the center of the enemy's position at Sananands, between Gona and Buna. On the right the allied troops completed the operation of closing one jaw of Gen. MacArthur's trap by infiltrating into the out- of Buna.

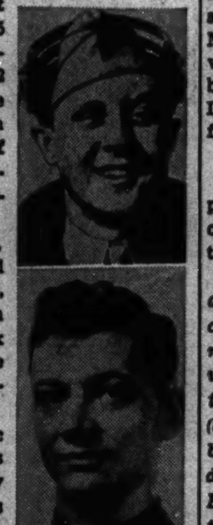
Mop Up Strong Points.

"We are mopping up strong points which were overrun in our attack," the communique added. Artillery bombardment and close bombing and strafing by the allied air units helped in the drive.

The Jap forces, pinned against the sea, were resisting the advance allies "with the greatest fierceness," it was said.

Pilots, 22, Dive 2 Thunderbolts at 725 M. P. H.

Farmingdale, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—How two army lieutenants dived their fighter planes at a speed of 725 miles an hour—more than 12 miles a minute and faster than the speed of sound at high altitudes—was disclosed today.



Lieutenants Harold Comstock [top] and Roger Dyar.

A bystander, if there could have been one, would have seen the planes streak by before he heard their thunderous roar.

The terrific speed — perhaps faster than any human being has traveled before—froze their control sticks, the pilots reported, causing them to resort to the use of emergency cranks to move the elevator tabs and pull their ships out of the dive.

Climbed to 35,000 Feet.

Here's the story, publication of which the Republic Aviation corporation said was approved by the war department:

Lieut. Harold Comstock of Fresno, Cal., and Lieut. Roger Dyar, Lowell, O., both 22 years old, went aloft in Republic P-47 Thunderbolts Nov. 15 for horizontal speed runs at 35,000 feet, then at 30,000, and at 25,000 feet.

Finishing at the high level, both put their planes into power dives to reach the 30,000 foot level.

Breathless Feeling.

Their air speed indicators leaped. The air pounded against their straightened out control surfaces with such force that neither could budge his stick. That, Lieut. Dyar reported, produced an "unsatisfactory condition," adding:

"My body was pushed back against the rear armor plate, and I had a feeling that any second the plane was going to pull away from me and leave me stranded right there, five miles above ground. It's a breathless feeling your stomach curls up."

"When I rolled back on the tabs," Lieut. Comstock said, "the plane shuddered as tho it had been hit by a truck."

Both pilots reported that they retained mental clarity during the dives.

ALLIED TUNISIAN ARMY SMASHES GERMAN ATTACK

British Navy Covers Land Forces.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—Superbly equipped and desert toughened American streamlined armored forces spearheaded allied action today in hurling back the heaviest German counter-attack of the Tunisian campaign as allied troops pressed forward on Bizerte and Tunis under the protection of the British navy and increasing aerial forays.

The allies met and shattered the counter-attack north of the rail junction of Tebourba, which is 20 miles west of Tunis and 35 miles south of Bizerte. Allied headquarters announced that the Germans had suffered "heavy losses." A dispatch quoted a headquarters spokesman as saying that American armored units "played a big part in repulsing the counter-attack."

Report Main Highway Cut.

Reports attributed to the Morocco radio, but not confirmed by any other quarter, earlier had said the allies had cut the main Bizerte-Tunis highway north of Tebourba, thus freeing its hand for a drive on Tunis and complete isolation of Tunis and Bizerte.

[John McVane, a National Broadcasting company correspondent, reporting last night from allied headquarters, said "we are now holding Tebourba by the skin of our teeth . . . the going is very tough," with the axis holding air control and using artillery and parachutists to good advantage. He said Lieut. Gen. Anderson, British 1st army commander, "took a chance and advanced without sufficient air superiority."]

A battle also was reported around Djedeida, 12 miles west of Tunis, and heavy action around Mateur, 28 miles south of Bizerte. The battle in the Mateur-Tebourba-Djedeida sector, where the axis has concentrated the bulk of its forces was believed by London observers to be entering its final phase.

U. S. Planes Knock Out Tanks.

American P-38 [Lightning] fighter planes were reported to have knocked out a number of German tanks in the Djedeida area.

[A London dispatch by another agency reported German and Italian counterclaims of success. The Germans said an allied column trying to work its way around to the rear of the German force south of Mateur (between Mateur and Tebourba) was beaten back with the loss of 14 tanks destroyed and 204 prisoners taken. The Berlin communique had claimed axis troops in counterattacks on Tuesday "threw the enemy out of several villages and dispersed allied parachutists," but yesterday the Berlin radio said allied forces "have reached axis defense lines before Bizerte and Tunis."]

"Royal Navy Provides Cover."

A hint that the British navy soon would be heard from was contained in the allied communique which said briefly, but significantly, that "the royal navy is assisting in the provision of cover for the advance of our forces."

[A London dispatch by another agency said that just what sort of cover was implied was not clear—whether it was meant that the army was advancing along the coastal road (toward Bizerte) under protection of naval guns or whether naval planes were assisting in building up the air superiority which military opinion deems necessary for the final assault on the strongly held naval base.]

"Both German land and air forces are still fighting hard and making no effort to pull out," an allied spokesman said. He reiterated that a hard fight was ahead.

Battle in Southern Tunisia.

A French and American column was reported by the Morocco radio yesterday to have breached the southeastern Tunisian coastal road and reached the sea between Sfax and Gabes [about 200 miles south of Tunis], severing axis communications with Tripoli.

The Morocco radio today said allied troops were fighting a sizable axis force, mostly Italians, between Sfax and Gabes—which are 80 miles apart.

Morocco radio also said American Curtiss planes bombed and strafed the axis held Gabes airdrome and destroyed three German ME-109s and damaged another on the ground. In spite of violent anti-aircraft fire, all the American craft returned safely, the broadcast said.

Planes Assault Axis Bases.

The allied headquarters communique said American and British bombers were keeping up their assaults on the airfields at Tunis and Bizerte. Light bombers and fighters also were operating in support of the forward troops.

American medium bombers, escorted by P-38 fighters, assaulted the Tunis airdrome in the fifth allied raid on that field in 44 hours. At least 12 axis bombers and transports were destroyed on the ground, the pilots reported.

Flying Fortresses have virtually wrecked the Aouina airdrome at Tunis, as well as the air base at Bizerte, it was reported. The bombers continued non-stop raids on Bizerte, where huge fires were set along the waterfront.

The air strength of Malta and the British 8th army in Libya also was directed at Bizerte, and Tripoli and Sicily, the axis bases of reënforcement and supply. A Cairo communique said a southbound axis merchant ship carrying a deck cargo of oil drums was sunk south of Cape Bon, [near Tunis], by aerial cannon fire. The ship blazed brilliantly, exploded and slipped beneath the waves, Cairo reported.

Sweep Sicily's South Coast.

A large fire was started Monday night by the bombing of Trapani airfield in Sicily. Other bases at Picari, Gela, and Comiso were bombed yesterday. A large formation of fighters from Malta swept the southern coast of Sicily before dusk yesterday, meeting only desultory opposition from enemy fighters.

Across Tripolitania at El Agheila the reënforced British 8th army gave signs that it was ready to attack Marshal Erwin Rommel's strong axis defense line.

British artillery has been wheeled into attack position before El Agheila and already has "successfully engaged" German field guns, while patrols probed the enemy strength, a communique said. Air combat increased to a moderate scale over the forward area.

Both the German and Italian communiques told of increased activity on the El Agheila front. The Italians said "there was intense artillery fire against enemy [British] armored car concentrations." The Germans said "dive bomber and fighter formations inflicted considerable loss of material on the British."

1ST NIGHT RAIDER ATTACKS BRITAIN IN OVER A MONTH

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—The first bomb dropped on Britain during darkness in more than a month fell from a German raider over southeast England tonight, causing slight damage to one house.

Listeners said the Vienna radio went off the air suddenly this evening. [Axis radio silence often indicates the presence of British air raiders over Europe.]

British fighter planes today attacked railway cars, enemy troops, and gun positions in offensive patrols over France and Holland. One fighter plane was lost.

KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE.

Albert Brown, 65 years old, colored, of 4958 South Michigan avenue, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a North Western railroad switch engine on the right of way near California avenue and Kinzie street. Brown was a Pullman company porter.

DISCLOSE ALLIES IN TUNISIA NEED MORE AIRPORTS

Fields Already Held Must Be Improved.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The American and British forces already have sufficient fighting and bombing planes in Tunisia, but it is necessary to get enough airdromes and improve them for modern aircraft before an all-out effort to oust the axis from North Africa can be made, an authoritative source here said today.

Concerning the air battles already in progress around Bizerte and Tunis, he said:

"They are just what we want—they help lower the strength of the German air force, already widely dispersed among the African theater, the Russian front, and in occupied Europe."

"At present," this source continued, "the enemy has more well equipped air fields handy to the North African and western war zones, such as those at Bizerte, Tunis, and the Italian islands of Sicily, Sardinia, and Pantellaria. For instance, the enemy can base more planes in Sicily than we can at Malta.

"The enemy has a short supply line from Sicily to Tunis—a ship can cover that 90 mile strip of sea in the night hours, and a plane can travel it in less than an hour. We have an ample supply of fighters and bombers on this front and more are on the way.

"We are getting more airdromes in Tunisia all of the time, but several of these airdromes are unsuited as yet for the operations of short range fighters. These airdromes are 'diamonds in the rough' which we must polish for our use. Our advance has been unretarded as yet, but the big blow will come when the air cover for our ground forces is completely ready."

140 Italians and British Saved in Transport Sinking

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Portuguese navy sloop Alfonso de Albuquerque landed 140 Italian and British survivors today from a British transport reported sunk by an axis submarine 180 miles southwest of Lourenco Marques last Saturday night. Forty-five other survivors, apparently from the same transport, were reported landed at Ponta de Barra, north of Lourenco Marques.

8 U. S. FLYERS CRASH IN DESERT; HELPED BY ARABS

Sheik Forbids Them to Take Payment.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Col. Edson D. Raff.

WITH UNITED STATES TUNISIAN TASK FORCE, Dec. 2.—American fighters, flying in close coöperation with the land forces, have not lost a single pilot—due, principally, to the help of friendly Arabs. Eight pilots, caught by darkness while off their courses, successfully crash landed their planes and now all have returned safely to their base.

The last two arrived yesterday. They are Second Lieut. Arthur V. Cole of Boulder, Colo., and Second Lieut. Robert F. Elliott of Rich Square, North Carolina. Cole previously had a narrow squeak. He strafed an enemy column from such a low altitude that he scraped off one of his twin tails, but made a perfect landing.

Two days ago Cole and Elliott were sent on a mission to find another column. Not finding another, they turned to attack the column partly destroyed the day before. During their strafing operations they were fired on by enemy guns, knocking out one of Elliott's engines.

Arabs Bring Them Eggs.

Starting homeward over unfamiliar ground, they lost their way at dusk, and picked out a level spot to land. Both belly-landed without injury and destroyed their planes.

A group of Arabs gathered quickly, bringing eggs. The pilots tried to give them money and their parachutes, which had been damaged in landing. A few of the natives started to accept, until their sheik forced them to return the gifts.

Then the Arabs provided three asses and a guide. The next day the pilots came bounding into our headquarters.

On the first day of operations here, six planes were lost in the same manner. Two of the pilots returned three days ago after being escorted over the mountains by Arabs. The other four were found by Arabs and brought in by the French.

Colonial Gets Legion Medal.

All of the lost pilots reported that once they were identified as Americans, the Arabs helped them.

Col. Edson D. Raff of New York, who was promoted to a full colonel two days ago, was made a chevalier of the French Legion of Honor today by order of Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud. With his paratroops who are holding the allied right flank drawn up on a country road, a resplendent French general presented the commander of the task force with the medal and then kissed him on both cheeks.

Reporter Is His Aide.

After operating on a shoestring for a long time, Col. Raff now is commanding a real task force, with an adequate staff. For a long period, particularly during the first hectic days of the fighting here, this correspondent was his staff, serving as water boy, runner, and company clerk.

It has been a fascinating experience for me, sharing the battle hazards and the rigorous weather with the soldiers. The nights are bitterly cold. Blankets are at a premium, for paratroops don't carry them into battle.

To top it all, my typewriter, clothing, bedroll, and extra equipment—left behind at Algiers—were destroyed in a bomb raid. This dispatch is being written on a German typewriter found in a gendarme outpost.

Lend-Lease Officials Set Up Office in New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 2.—Lend-lease has reached into new territory with the arrival here of Charles A. Ferguson, Walter Teagle Jr., and Alden J. Smith, to set up an office for selection and expedition of south Pacific needs. Ferguson explained that the new setup was an attempt to apply the system which worked successfully in Australia, and that it was a continuation of the policy which already has opened lend-lease offices in South Africa, India, Turkey, Iraq, and Iran.

HINT DARLAN MAY BE READY TO GIVE DAKAR TO ALLIES

Seen as Strategic Base for War on U-Boats.

Pierre Boisson.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—The allies appeared tonight to be on the verge of acquiring Dakar without bloodshed for use as an anti-submarine base and of obtaining a valuable part of the French fleet there on the bulge of West Africa, which once was considered a potential dagger pointed at Brazil.

The decision throwing Dakar open to allied use was expected to come out of conferences in Algiers among Pierre Boisson, the one legged governor general of French West Africa, Adm. Jean Darlan, and the allied army and navy commands in French Africa.

Eisenhower in Conference.

Conferring with Darlan, as head of the new imperial council he set up to rule French Africa, of which Boisson is a member, were:

Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander in North Africa; Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, his second in command; Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, head of the British and allied naval forces under Eisenhower; Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, and others.

Informed sources believed the use of Dakar by the allies was a certainty, with only the extent to be determined, and naval quarters were quick to point out the advantages. In Dakar's excellent harbor, they said, small craft such as corvettes, destroyers and motor boat submarine chasers could be based and serviced for a war against U-boats since naval facilities there are in first class shape.

Could Shift Rule of Sea.

Furthermore, allied control of Dakar would change the entire balance of sea power in the South Atlantic, where U-boat activity is expected to increase along African supply lines.

Another source said one of the best bits of news that could come from Dakar would be official information that naval units there had come over to the Fighting French.

Units there include three cruisers, three destroyers, and nine submarines.

All these are understood to be in fighting trim and ready to go on active operations on short notice. The battleship Richelieu also is at Dakar but is not in commission.

Darlan's Council Named.

The light French units would be invaluable to the allies in their fight against U-boats.

In organizing his imperial council, Adm. Darlan assumed the functions and title of chief of state for North and West Africa, naming Govs. Gen. Auguste Nogues of Morocco, Boisson, and Yves Chatel of Algeria, and Gen. Giraud and Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret as his council.

A Fighting French spokesman here declared Darlan's creation of an imperial council and his assumption of the prerogatives of chief of state were "a monumental piece of effrontery," but conceded these were logical moves to consolidate his position.

The Fighting French said the Darlan situation was now in the "dangerous stage" because of a tendency to whitewash him and to present his "conversion to the allied cause as a great benefit."

LAVAL REPORTED IN BERLIN TO PLAN FOR NEW REGIME

Hear He Acts to Block Swing to Allies.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 2 (AP).—French Chief of Government Pierre Laval has arrived in Berlin for discussions on formation of a new Vichy government, a Swiss dispatch from Milan, Italy, said tonight.

Laval already has announced formation of "a volunteer African falange" of Frenchmen to fight beside Germany against the United States and Britain, and earlier dispatches said negotiations were under way in Paris and Vichy for the formation of a new government to organize French armament and food production for Germany's benefit.

Destined to Work.

Sources in close touch with Vichy affairs also said that the "new army" of France would have as its nucleus the pro-Nazi "Blue Shirt" organizations of Jacques Doriot, the Paris collaborationist who openly preaches for a French declaration of war against the united nations.

A Marseilles dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve disclosed that the demobilized French soldiers whom the "new army" would replace are being designated for incorporation into labor corps going to Germany.

Soldiers, this paper said, would continue to draw their pay during a period of reorientation to civil life, but if they declined to go to Germany to work thru the remaining period of their enlistment then their pay would be stopped.

Nazis to Call Tune.

Doriot, who has had political differences with Laval in the past, may even go into Laval's new cabinet and bring along Marcel Deat, another determined pro-Nazi leader, in an effort to halt a French landslide toward the allies.

In all the moves to put new life into a Vichy organism ostensibly speaking for the French people, however, it was clear that any major decisions would be made by Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt, Nazi military commander of all France.

DARLAN, EISENHOWER JOIN IN ALGIERS RITES FOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER

ALGIERS, French North Africa, Dec. 2 (AP).—In his first public appearance since officially taking control of French North Africa as head of the imperial council, Adm. Jean Darlan participated today with Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in laying a wreath on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier in Algeria. In the group also was Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud.

Thousands watched as the heads of the allied French and American armies commemorated Napoleon's victory over the Germans in 1805.

Following the ceremony, Eisenhower, Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, his second in the American command, and British Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham attended luncheon with Darlan in honor of Pierre Boisson, a member of the imperial council and governor-general of French West Africa, which embraces Dakar.

'AXIS CAN'T BEAT COURAGE I SAW,' SAYS AFRICA VET

Harold Hoppke, 29 years old, who was a member of the American expeditionary force that stormed and took the French Moroccan port of Safi, was home on furlough yesterday, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Hoppke, 4849 Irving Park road. He is a navy radioman, 3d class, but is attached to the navy's new amphibious fighting branch called the Alligators.

Hoppke said he is sure the war can't last very long in the face of the kind of bravery displayed by American troops who took Safi.

"Both the French and the Arabs were firing at us," he said. "As we came onto the beach they cut loose at us with 75s, grenades, machine guns, and rifles. But we suffered surprisingly few casualties."

LIQUOR TRUCK STOLEN.

Thieves yesterday stole the liquor truck of John Hammond, 2538 West Congress street, while it was parked at 14th and Halsted streets, he notified police. Liquor valued at $200 was on the truck.

HINSDALE FLYER HELPS RESCUE 6 YANKS IN AFRICA

Goes to Aid of Crew Forced Down in Axis Area.

Capt. M. L. Mourne.

TWELFTH U. S. AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Algeria, Dec. 1 (AP).—[Delayed].—An American fighter pilot and the two man crew of a light bomber saved six members of a United States medium bomber's crew, forced down yesterday deep in axis territory near Gabes, Tunisia, after their plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire.

The medium bomber, piloted by Second Lieut. David L. Floeter, Houston, Tex., was in a group which bombed an airdrome, barracks, and railroad yards at Gabes. Several planes were hit by the intense anti-aircraft fire. Floeter's plane received a hit in the engine.

Circling above, Lieut. E. F. Humphrey of Flint, Mich., saw the crash and watched the six crewmen walk away unhurt. He spotted the locality carefully and then flew back to his base.

Flew Escort Plane.

Lieut. Leo Hawel Jr. of Seattle, Wash., volunteered to attempt a rescue in a light United States bomber. Lieut. Humphrey and Capt. M. J. Mourne of Hinsdale, Ill., flew escorting P-38s.

Hawel landed his light bomber on a rough field and took on the six marooned flyers and then faced the problem of getting his overloaded plane into the air again despite the bad terrain and approaching darkness. One important need was a marker at the end of the field to show the end of the improvised runway.

A white robed Arab agreed to stand there as a beacon and a few minutes later the six happy men were being congratulated at their home field.

PARENTS NOT SURPRISED.

Mrs. J. E. Mourne, 806 Wilson lane, Hinsdale, mother of Capt. M. J. Mourne, said yesterday she and her husband were "not surprised" that their son had distinguished himself.

"He would be one of those to volunteer for anything like that," Mrs. Mourne said. "He's not afraid to do anything that any one else would do. We didn't know where he was until we heard the news report about his activity. He will be 29 years old next month."

REDS TEAR HOLES IN NAZI LINES ON CENTRAL FRONT

Smash Ahead Near Rzhev and at Stalingrad.

MOSCOW, Dec. 3 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Red army punched more holes in the German lines between Veliki Luki and Rzhev on the central front yesterday and captured a strategic height southwest of Stalingrad in a continuing joint offensive that killed more than 3,800 Nazis, the Russians announced today.

The toll of Nazis killed and captured in two weeks has mounted to more than 166,000 on the basis of Russian announcements. Hundreds of tanks have been knocked out and vast piles of equipment captured.

The hilltop captured southwest of Stalingrad, which began its 101st day of siege, was not identified in the midnight communique. Earlier the army newspaper Red Star said that Yuzhnaya height had fallen to the Russians. That hill had dominated the southern approaches to Stalingrad and the Germans had used it for weeks both for valuable artillery and observation posts.

Reds Seize More Towns.

Several inhabited localities were reported seized by the Russians, but their names were not disclosed.

The Russians again spoke of "stubborn enemy resistance" on both fronts, but said 2,500 Nazis fell yesterday in two battles between Veliki Luki and Rzhev, where the Red army again "forged ahead."

The Russians said they knocked out or captured 42 German tanks yesterday and that the Red air force destroyed another 20 on Tuesday, as well as 150 trucks.

Northwest of Stalingrad where the Russians are fighting their way down the eastern bank of the Don river behind the Nazi siege army that has been stalemated for 100 days before that Volga city, the communique said the Red army was destroying enemy gun emplacements, dugouts, and blockhouses. Here the Russians reached strong German defenses.

Guns Duel in Stalingrad.

In another sector of this salient between the Don and Volga rivers, the communique said Russian troops beat off German counter-attacks and wiped out 600 Nazis.

Southwest of Stalingrad more than 500 more Germans fell, the Russians said.

Inside Stalingrad only artillery and patrol activities occurred yesterday in the northern factory area, but one enemy infantry company was reported destroyed.

Dispatches said the Germans still were clinging to their positions in the city, altho weakened by the withdrawal of some units to counter soviet advances elsewhere. The newspaper Red Star also said the Nazis were being hammered into gradual retreat on the central front, where many German divisions had lost more than half their men.

Push Nazis Back Five Miles.

Yuzhnaya, whose sister sentinel hill north of Stalingrad, the Kurgan, previously was recaptured, fell after a two day battle in which a German division was routed up to five miles. Seven counterattacks were reported thrown back.

In Russia's new offensive on the northwestern front, in the region west of Moscow, a fortified village on the Rzhev-Vyazma railway was taken and 500 Germans were killed, yesterday's communique said.

German counterattacks northwest of Moscow in the Rzhev-Vyazma-Veliki Luki triangle were growing in violence. Red Star reported several important lines and fortified points were captured.

NAZIS ADMIT REDS GAIN.

The German radio acknowledged "local Russian successes" at Bely [Beloi], well inside the Veliki Luki-Rzhev-Vyazma triangle on the central front, and also at Demyansk, southeast of Lake Ilmen, a sector thus far not mentioned by the Russians. The Germans also suggested third powerful Russian offensive was brewing southeast of Voronezh, between the present active theaters. The Nazis told of a heavy concentration of Russian forces and equipment in the Buturlinovka-Kalach-Pavlovsk triangle below Voronezh.

PROTEST MOVE FOR HAPSBURG THRONE RETURN

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Representatives of seven European nations formerly under Hapsburg rule have wired Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of State Cordell Hull that they "reject categorically the restoration of the Hapsburg throne."

In a statement issued here the signers cited a report that a special battalion of Austrians might be set up within the United States army and that a military committee had been formed under the presidency of Otto, pretender to the Hapsburg throne, to recruit members for the battalion.

The statement declared that the signers "protest against tendencies to give Otto Hapsburg or his agents influence upon the special Austrian unit in the United States army, the establishment of which has been announced." Petitioners were listed from the Austrian republic, the Czecho-Slovakian republic, Hungary, Italy, the Polish republic, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia.

CHICAGO CZECHS RAP STIMSON FOR AID TO HAPSBURG PRETENDER

Chicagoans of Czecho-Slovakian origin joined yesterday in the storm of protest aroused by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson recently when he authorized Otto Hapsburg, pretender to the Austrian throne, to recruit a "free Austrian" battalion for the United States army.

The proposed battalion was attacked by the Czecho-Slovak National Council of America, a Chicago joint board representing four large organizations with more than 400 branches thruout the nation and a total membership of 300,000.

Joseph Martinek, executive secretary of the council, warned that the self-styled archduke will use the Stimson authorization in his fight to reëstablish the Austro-Hungarian empire abolished in the World war.

"Restoration of the Hapsburgs would be a serious obstacle to the future peaceful collaboration of central European nations," Martinek said. "My organization is not against units of freedom loving nationals of other countries fighting as units of the United States army. It is, however, unalterably opposed to the encouragement of a man who seeks to restore a repudiated régime by posing as a friend of human freedom.

207 Norse and British Seamen Freed in Algeria

ORAN, Algeria, Nov. 24 [delayed]—(AP).—The release of 157 unshaven, ill-fed Norwegian seamen and 50 British naval personnel, all of whom had been interned south of Oran for from nine months to two years, was announced today. An allied spokesman said they joined another group of 40 and some 20 Dutch seamen who had been freed previously and that 33 Greeks and Belgians were being released.

LT. COL. WAGNER, WAR ACE, MISSING ON FLIGHT IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner, 26 years old, one of the army's aces of this war, is missing on a flight from Elgin field, Florida, to Maxwell field, Alabama. An extended search is being conducted. Wagner took off from Elgin field Nov. 30.

Lt. Col. B. D. Wagner.

A veteran of the Philippine campaign and later a fighter pilot in Australia and New Guinea, Wagner won the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in the Philippines last December. Later he was awarded the purple heart for wounds received in action.

Wagner, whose friends knew him as "Buzz," entered the war as a first lieutenant, was promoted to captain last January and in April was jumped over the rank of major to become one of the army's youngest lieutenant colonels.

He was born at Emeigh, Pa., and studied aeronautical engineering at the University of Pittsburgh before he became a flying cadet in June, 1937.

ALLIES LACK REAL UNITY ON PLANS, MAAS DECLARES

Terms Invasion of Africa 'Compromise' Move.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Rep. Melvin J. Maas [R., Minn.] today charged there was no real unity of political or military command among the united nations, and termed the American invasion of Africa a "compromise" second front.

Maas, a marine corps reserve colonel who last month said this country's armed forces lacked unity of command in the Pacific, called upon the allies to formulate and announce their postwar plans.

In an address at the National Association of Manufacturers' convention, which opened today, he said:

"Four great political leaders dominate the united nations' war effort: Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill, Mr. Stalin, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Lack Announced Agreement.

"They do not have an announced common agreement upon the major strategy of the war. In the military field there is a war committee in Washington [D. C.]; another in London, with Stalin and his generals directing the war in Russia; Chiang Kai-shek doing the same in China; a war council in Australia, and two leaders of the non-Vichy French.

"There is no real agreement as to timing of the various offensive actions, nor even as to the methods of fighting the war. There is no real unity, in the military sense, of either political or military command among the united nations.

"The Russians want us to create a second front in Europe, to which Churchill will not agree, and the Chinese want us to shift the emphasis of the war to the Pacific. We compromise and go to Africa."

Holds Africa Important.

Maas added that he was "not belittling our efforts in Africa," because "ultimate victory in Europe must depend upon our gaining control of the Mediterranean." He said:

"If the united nations are to win this war they must not only formulate their war aims now, but they must announce them to the world in such a clear and unmistakable manner that they will be fully understood and believed by every one.

"This is not a war to preserve old empires. . . . The time to determine and formulate our purposes and our plan for the postwar world is now, when each is dependent upon the other and, therefore, is compelled by circumstances to compromise local ambitions for a common agreement."

Holds Pacific "First Front."

Maas said a real victory could be achieved only by destroying the causes that produced Hitler and the Japanese war lords.

Maas repeated his November statements, made after his return from a four month tour of duty in the South Pacific, that the battle against Japan constitutes a "first front."

He warned against the assumption that when Hitler is defeated the whole strength of the united nations would be swung to the Pacific.

"By that time it may be too late," he said. ". . . Japan is vulnerable now."

Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, also addressed the convention.

Knox said our intelligence services estimated that Japanese losses in men killed and permanently injured in all war theaters since Pearl Harbor were approximately 250,000, against about 50,000 killed or missing "in all operations" by the United States army and navy.

EDEN SAYS ALLIES MUST BE 'POLICE FORCE' IN PEACE

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—The great military might of the United States, Britain, and Russia must be used in peace to prevent any repetition of aggression, Anthony Eden told the house of commons amid cheers today.

The foreign secretary said legislation to deal with postwar reconstruction problems would be introduced.

"Our aim must be to insure that the coöperation achieved among the allies during the war is continued in the years of peace," Eden declared.

Europe's first need and an essential preliminary to a new, peaceful world order, Eden said, is to "restrict for all time the aggressive power of Germany and Japan."

"I make no mention of Italy," he said. "I do not regard that as a major problem."

MEDAL OF HONOR GIVEN PARENTS OF FLYING HERO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt today conferred the congressional medal of honor upon Capt. Harl Pease Jr., bomber pilot believed killed in a raid on the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, Aug. 6-7.

The President personally presented the medal to Capt. Pease's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harl Pease Sr., of Plymouth, N. H. Young Pease, the President said, displayed "high devotion to duty, valor and contempt for personal danger."

DONATE INSULL'S 3 TON ARMORED AUTO FOR SCRAP

Samuel Insull's three ton rolling fortress, a 6,500 pound armored car built for the utilities magnate by the Checker Manufacturing company in 1928 and purchased in 1932 by local 753 of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union as a shield against gangsters for Steve Sumner, then secretary-treasurer, is scheduled for war service as salvage, William L. McFetridge, Chicago salvage director, revealed yesterday.

The car had been driven 4,000 miles when the union purchased it after Sumner had been forced to pay $50,000 to Murray Humphreys and George [Red] Barker, gangsters, in 1931 to obtain the release of the union's president, Robert G. Fitchie, whom the gangsters had kidnaped. Sumner said he traveled 138,000 miles in the rolling fort between 1932 and 1938 when he quit using it.

The machine, now blocked up in the garage at the rear of Sumner's home, 7348 Constance avenue, was turned over to the salvage drive by James G. Kennedy, union president, and three union trustees, Ray Bryant, Albert Richards, and Gus Moline.

ENGINEER FATALLY BURNED.

A Luncheon Guest

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 [Special].—Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, prime minister of Poland, here at the invitation of President Roosevelt, declared today that the initiative had been taken by the united nations in the European war. But he said that Hitler was prepared to wage defensive war within Europe calculated to exhaust Europe and so encourage a negotiated peace. He warned against that.

The Polish premier was the guest of President Roosevelt at luncheon. President Roosevelt, he said, could count on 100 per cent Polish coöperation in rehabilitating occupied countries.

It was understood that Gen. Sikorski came here to discuss the furnishing of supplies for Polish troops, economic problems of Poland, and political questions that may arise after the war.

Oregon Farmer Wins DFC; He's Decorated by King

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—Roy C. Munson, 28 year old farmer from Halsey, Ore., who piloted Wellington bombers on 27 raids over Germany and Italy and always brought his planes home despite damage, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross by King George. On 13 of his trips, Munson's ships were badly damaged. He joined the RAF in 1941.

WISCONSIN YANK SEES JAPS FLEE ALLIES' BIG GUNS

Snipers Quit Trees 'Like Fleas Off Dog.'

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 2.—Japanese snipers leaped from tree tops "like fleas from a dog" when allied artillery began throwing shells into an enemy area of New Guinea a few days ago, Lieut. Robert A. Dix of Milwaukee, Wis., recalled today.

"The infantry boys had a field day shooting the Japs as they scrambled out of the trees, until it became too dark to see any more," said the Wisconsin officer.

The big guns began roaring soon after the first streak of daylight, and continued intermittently thruout the day, firing at selected targets such as the air strip, air positions, bridges, and strongly dug-in positions which the infantry had asked to be "softened up."

Force Japs to Cover.

A number of other areas occupied by the enemy were worked over from back to front, and then from front to back, so the Japs would have to keep their heads in their holes, giving the Americans a chance to advance.

Artillery is proving of great assistance in driving the Japs out of cleverly dug-in positions where small arms fire has had difficulty in getting at them. In some of the native villages, the Japs have machine gun nests under every house, reënforced with coconut logs a foot thick.

The artillery has been working in conjunction with the air force, which has been doing a great job of bombing and strafing the enemy. In addition to their activities during the day the artillery units fire at intervals thruout the night at areas in which the Japs are known to be bivouacked. This is done to break their morale, as well as to keep them from getting any sleep.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Reply.

Evidence that the big guns are causing the Japs plenty of trouble is seen in their efforts to put them out of action. Ranging on the sound of the allied guns the Japs have been returning the fire with their anti-aircraft guns. Their planes also sneak in whenever the allied fighter cover shifts momentarily in an effort to find the artillery positions and bomb them.

51 JAPS KILLED BY U. S. PATROLS ON GUADALCANAL

Capture Artillery and Machine Guns.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Fighting thru the jungle on Guadalcanal, American troops are carrying on a mopping up operation against scattered enemy groups, the navy reported today.

In one day of patrol operations soldiers and marines knocked out three enemy installations, killing 51 Japanese, capturing three light artillery pieces and six machine guns.

A marine corps patrol fighting along the upper reaches of the Lunga river had the best bag. These marines killed 25 of the enemy and captured two field pieces—a 75 millimeter and a 35 millimeter gun.

Lunga river, west of Henderson airport, leads to the sea at Lunga point, where some Japanese landings have been effected.

Get 16 Machine Guns.

An army patrol located another artillery emplacement and captured a 70 millimeter gun. In that engagement 11 Japanese were killed.

Machine guns were the objective of another marine patrol. This group captured six of the guns—whether in a single nest or scattered in the thickets was not disclosed—and killed 15 Japanese.

Meantime army planes continued strafing and bombing enemy installations on the island in what has become a regular job of finding, then endeavoring to eliminate, enemy installations. On the most recent flight reported the planes located and attacked four enemy positions, the navy said. Results of their attacks were not announced.

Japs "Lose Face," Hide.

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—Japanese patrol parties which have lost face because they have been defeated by United States marines apparently have made little or no effort to rejoin the main Japanese forces, marines returning from jungle fighting reported today.

The marines said that in a number of instances in which they surprised small Japanese parties they found the enemy soldiers had been living apart from the main forces. In many cases the Japs had built crude huts in the jungles. Living off the land, they had not been supplied with arms, ammunition or food.

DUCE 'SQUEALING' ABOUT RAIDS BY RAF, BRITON SAYS

Nazis Report Evacuation of Genoa in 'Full Swing.'

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—Herbert Morrison, British home secretary and minister of home security, tonight accused Premier Mussolini of "squealing" about the RAF raids on northern Italy, and an RAF commentator declared they had caused panic and chaos in northern Italy.

The German News agency, DNB, reported that the evacuation of Genoa was "already in full swing." It added Rome and other large Italian cities would be evacuated shortly.

Commenting on Mussolini's statements in his broadcast speech in Rome on the RAF bomb damage in Italian residential districts, Morrison said:

"When Britain underwent its blitz the British didn't squeal. Mussolini does."

Compares Britain's Damage.

Il Duce said 400 houses were destroyed and more than 12,000 damaged in Turin, Genoa, Milan and Savona. This drew the retort from Morrison that:

"In the London region alone 1,150,000 houses were damaged in nine months of heavy attack—one hundred times Mussolini's figure for his four cities.

"In Sheffield alone, which had only two heavy raids, 85,000 houses suffered some damage. . . . In all Britain 2,250,000 houses have been damaged, of which 150,000 had to be torn down or left unrepaired.

"If Mussolini says the RAF was aiming at residential areas, what would he say the Luftwaffe was doing over Britain?"

Authoritative sources said the close proximity of the Vatican to Rome would not interfere with the RAF bombing of industrial targets in the Italian capital. Prime Minister Churchill warned the Italians last year that if Cairo were bombed Rome also would be blasted. Since then the outskirts of Cairo have been bombed, but Rome has not been molested.

Industry Is Hit Hard.

The RAF commentator said the British air raids on Italy have severely damaged at least three-tenths of Italy's main industrial concentration.

This commentator said that the bombing punishment inflicted on Italy in the last five weeks was equivalent to more than 10 times the destruction loosed on Coventry and indicated the air campaign would continue unabated.

The RAF informant said direct reports from "correspondents" in Italy, naturally not identified, told of panic not only among civilians but also, especially in the Nov. 28 raid on Turin, shattered morale among the authorities with these results:

Inability to cope with a stampede to flee the city; alarms going off all over northern Italy as RAF bombers were reported heading across the Alps; all work stopping, even the managements of many big plants evacuating their offices; currency shortages because of stampedes on the banks.

Duce Cries Defiance.

Mussolini, coughing and puffing defiance, admitted in his 81 minute speech to an applauding chamber of corporations, that Italy had been forced into the conflict by "the belligerents," but assured the people that they now would fight on to the end.

"There now is no longer an external and internal front," he said. "There is only one front.

"All who can leave must leave our cities. A nightly exodus also must be arranged from cities so only fighting personnel remains. We have spent hundreds of millions of lire on shelters that can resist the biggest bombs.

"Churchill asks Italians, 'How long will this last?' I, Mussolini, answer in a most solemn way: Forever, until we have achieved complete victory.

"We shall march side by side with the Germans. Our comradeship with Germany becomes every day deeper and more intimate."

Lieut. J. G. Milburn, 24, Son of Late Polo Ace, Is Killed

Fayetteville, N. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Second Lieut. John G. Milburn, 24 years old, second son of the internationally famous polo player, Devereux Milburn, who dropped dead on a golf course Aug. 15, was killed last night when the plane he was piloting crashed near Waterford, Va. Officials at Pope field said Second Lieut. Francis A. Nance, Robert Nottkember, and Stanley B. Nolander parachuted to safety from Milburn's plane. Young Milburn was married to Ruth Harris a year and a half ago. They had no children. He also is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Steele Milburn.

BELIEVE DUCE'S COUGH INDICATES HE IS A SICK MAN

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Premier Mussolini's coughing and labored breathing on the radio today supported recent reports that he is a sick man. Just how ill the premier is was not, of course, ascertained but obviously he made his long speech with effort.

The Fascist commentators did lip-service to Il Duce by noting that he appeared "vibrant with energy," but listeners outside Italy said he began coughing and breathing heavily within two minutes of the start of his 81 minute speech.

Information from reliable sources in Europe on Nov. 23 said Mussolini was considering an operation for stomach ulcers which developed four years ago. Four days later a reliable South American diplomatic source said in Montevideo that Mussolini was gravely ill and that formation of an emergency government in the event he becomes incapacitated had been discussed. This source also said Mussolini had stomach ulcers, complicated by a heart condition.

U-BOAT SINKS U. S. MERCHANT SHIP IN NO. ATLANTIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The navy announced today that a small United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the North Atlantic about the middle of November. Survivors have been landed at an east coast port.

This brings to 547 the number of allied and neutral ships destroyed by enemy action in the Atlantic since Pearl Harbor. In these sinkings there have been 3,660 persons reported killed, 2,023 missing, and 16,550 rescued.

SENATE GROUP O. K.'S BILL TO LET U. S. SELL SILVER

Westerners Gird for Fight on Measure.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—A long disputed bill to permit the government to sell its unpledged silver for consumption uses emerged from the senate banking committee today, but it will die unless its backers can gain approval of both house and senate by Jan. 2, when congress adjourns.

The sponsors are mainly New England senators.

Senators from western silver states were ready tonight for a finish fight against the bill, despite amendments adopted at their insistence. Sen. Abe Murdock [D., Utah], voted against it in the committee and declared later that every ounce of silver sold by the government would "rob" the people of 79 cents"—the difference between the monetary value of silver, $1.29 an ounce, and the minimum stipulated sale price, 50 cents.

Approves of Amendment.

Sen. John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], who advocates selling surplus silver to industries, expressed belief the amendments "greatly improved" the bill.

As revised, the measure provides that the secretary of the treasury can, upon a recommendation from the War Production board chairman, sell or lease upon terms he deems advisable, any government held silver "in furtherance of the war effort, including but not limited to the making of munitions of war and the supplying of needs contributing to the war effort, and the converting of existing plants to those purposes."

But the average price could not be less than 50 cents per fine troy ounce, and the treasury would be required to maintain silver equivalent to the face amount of outstanding silver certificates.

Tighten Means of Disposal.

Before it was amended the bill would have permitted the treasury not only to sell or lease, but "otherwise dispose of" the silver even to the governments of other countries. Danaher said he interpreted those terms as meaning this country would have given away silver to support the Indian rupee or the currency of any country. He added he did not think other nations would want to buy American silver at 50 cents an ounce, when the world price is around 35 cents.

He said he did not believe the measure precluded use of silver in making cutlery, if such use would serve the war effort. He pointed out battleships need dining equipment, and that war workers are marrying and establishing homes where they need knives and forks.

Chairman Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] said, however, he did not see how the bill would permit the use of silver in jewelry manufacturing.

JAPS ADMIT IT TOOK THEM 6 MONTHS TO MOP UP PHILIPPINES

TOKIO, Dec. 2 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Imperial Japanese headquarters announced today "the virtual termination of mopping up operations in the Philippines" against American and Filipino remnants holding out in mountainous parts of the islands.

[Despite past claims to have wiped out all resistance, the headquarters statement confirmed that survivors from the defending army had waged a bitter if hopeless fight for six months or more after the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.]

Headquarters reports said "the bulk of these American and Filipino marauders have been annihilated." In operations from August until October, it was stated, imperial forces achieved these "outstanding war results": 3,940 enemy bodies abandoned, 2,000 enemy troops taken prisoner, seizure of 33 rapid fire guns, 71 heavy and light machine guns, 105 automatic rifles, 7,458 other firearms, 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition, and 44 motor cars.

ICKES NAMED OIL CZAR; BEGS OFF IN CABINET SHIFT

Given Additional Powers by President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was disclosed today to have been named administrator of the newly created Office of Petroleum Administration for War after he turned down the dual post of secretary of labor and man power chief.

At present Ickes is petroleum coordinator. In the new post, which was created by President Roosevelt, he receives additional authority and responsibility for the planning and control of petroleum activities.

Under the executive order Ickes was given broad authority to order rationing of petroleum products in areas where shortages exist, but William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, retained authority to order gasoline rationing as a means of saving rubber.

Power Over Distribution.

The order gave Ickes broad powers to control distribution of petroleum products in areas where shortages exist, but left actual rationing to be administered by the Office of Price Administration.

Other duties Ickes was directed to perform by the executive order include:

Obtain from war, navy, and state departments, lend-lease, and the Board of Economic Warfare estimates of petroleum needs.

Assure adequate supplies and proper distribution of petroleum and materials to produce petroleum.

Advise affected federal agencies on construction of natural gas transmission lines.

Certify to state regulatory bodies amounts and kinds of petroleum which should be produced in their respective areas.

Ickes' withdrawal from the labor picture was made definite by the White House reorganization of the government's petroleum administration.

Ickes told Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, at an unannounced conference, that he did not have the physical endurance to tackle the other two jobs and pleaded that he be allowed to remain at his present post. If Mr. Roosevelt insisted, he said, he would take the new jobs but expressed the hope that the request would be withdrawn. Mr. Roosevelt said he would not insist.

Shakeup Still Possible.

Under the proposed cabinet shakeup Mr. Roosevelt was to give Ickes the job of revitalizing the labor department; Paul V. McNutt, head of the Federal Security agency, was to have become secretary of the interior, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins was to have succeeded McNutt.

Ickes' withdrawal from the picture does not preclude the possibility of some cabinet shift which will take man power out of McNutt's jurisdiction and turn it over to a man as secretary of labor.

It was believed possible that the post will go to Daniel J. Tobin, head of the American Federation of Labor teamsters' union, who has been a special adviser to the President on Labor problems.

Shortly after the new oil post was given Ickes, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO GUARD.

Harold Bowman, 48 years old, 3309 North Leavitt street, died of a heart attack yesterday in the plant of the Zenith Radio corporation, 6001 Dickens street, where he was employed as a guard.

Japanese 'Money'

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sergt. Stephen Mayer with "occupation" money he took from a dead Jap.

Japanese women are being used as snipers on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons, Marine Sergt. Stephan Mayer, 29 years old, told friends on his arrival to spend a 30 day leave with his parents at 646 Wellington avenue, Elgin.

Mayer, a former truck driver, enlisted in the marine corps 20 months ago and was stationed on Midway Island at the outbreak of the war. Wounded in the fighting there, he recuperated in a Honolulu hospital and then was sent to Guadalcanal, where he spent two months "hiding in fox holes and shooting down Japanese snipers from their perches in trees, just like so many squirrels."

Mayer displayed a bracelet made from the aluminum parts of a Japanese Zero plane shot down by American flyers on the island. He also brought back an Australian 1 pound note and Japanese occupational bills for 10 yen.

While at home Sergt. Mayer will be married to his childhood sweetheart, Miss Rose Mousley, a telephone operator living at 652 Logan avenue, Elgin.

COXSWAIN CITED FOR HEROISM IN AFRICAN LANDING

Coxswain William J. Papp of the coast guard returned to his base yesterday after a two day visit with his wife, Margaret, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Papp, 444 South Jackson street, Waukegan, during which was revealed his citation "for meritorious service in landing of the first assault battalion of the 30th infantry of the expeditionary force having as its objective the capture of French Morocco, and for excellent seamanship and heroic judgment in boat handling under conditions of darkness, strange beach, heavy surf, and gun fire by the enemy. Coxswain Papp, 22 years old, is a graduate of Waukegan Township High school. He enlisted in December, 1941, and was called into service Jan. 7.

Learns Husband Wins Hero Award in Tribune Dispatch

A Tribune story from London, England, contained the first news that Mrs. Helen Gross, 4306 North Keystone avenue, has received of the award of the silver star for "gallantry in action" to her husband, Pvt. Adam E. Gross, a former Chicago welder, she said yesterday. Pvt. Gross is a graduate of Schurz High school and was drafted last May 22. They had been married five years. He has been overseas since early September, Mrs. Gross said. His foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam A. Gross, reside at 5433 Giddings street.

AFL, CIO AGREE TO ARBITRATION ON JURISDICTION

See Plan as Opening Way for Full Reunion.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—AFL and CIO peace committees reached an agreement today providing in substance for arbitration of jurisdictional differences pending full reunion of the two organizations.

The agreement was made subject to approval of the AFL executive council and CIO executive board and with the understanding that unity negotiations would be continued. Another meeting was planned for later this month.

Both sides hailed the agreement as a great step toward complete labor peace and the removal of impediments to war production.

Joint Committee to Act.

Under its terms a joint committee will be set up. It will attempt to resolve jurisdictional differences and, failing that, will try to agree upon an arbiter whose decision shall be binding. If it can not agree on an arbiter within five days, the President of the United States shall be requested to name one.

The framework of the agreement itself left many questions unanswered as to its application to specific cases. Conferees, meeting with newsmen later, declined to discuss it in specific relation to any of the current interunion difficulties, outstanding among which is the Kaiser shipyards case.

Bitter Fight for Control.

AFL unions have closed shop contracts with three yards on the west coast and are fighting bitterly the attempts of the CIO Marine and Shipbuilders' union, thru the National Labor Relations board, to have them invalidated and a collective bargaining election held.

William L. Hutcheson, AFL committee member, referred to questions of that nature as "getting into details." Murray commented that the agreement was a "broad declaration of principles" containing "a certain amount of elasticity which will permit the exercise of good judgment."

Harry C. Bates, chairman of the AFL committee, commented that "this is an honest endeavor on the part of both groups" to settle their differences.

LAUNCH CARRIER IN EAST SUNDAY, 3D IN 15 WEEKS

Camden, N. J., Dec. 2 (AP).—The New York Shipbuilding corporation will launch its third aircraft carrier in 15 weeks here Sunday, the day before the Pearl Harbor anniversary.

The ship will be christened the Belleau Wood in honor of marines who fought in the Belleau Wood battle of the first World war and of marine heroes of this war, the navy said. Mrs. Thomas Holcomb, wife of Lieut. Gen. Holcomb, marine corps commandant, will act as sponsor.

STRIKE CAUSES LOSS OF UNION SHOP COMPACT

WLB Voids Clause in East Alton Walkout.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Labor unions fared badly today in two decisions announced by the national War Labor board. In one decision a union temporarily lost a maintenance of membership clause for calling a strike over "comparatively small" issues. In another, WLB announced it would not permit escalator clauses in labor agreements if inconsistent with its stabilization policy.

Chemical Workers union, local 22574 [AFL], at the East Alton Manufacturing company, a subsidiary of the Western Cartridge company, East Alton, Ill., was the union to lose the established maintenance of membership clause.

Ignored Pleas to Return.

WLB said that if the union convinces it of its "good faith and responsibility" after a six month probationary period, the maintenance of membership clause will be granted again, this time with a 15 day "escape clause."

Members of the union went on strike Sept. 8 and did not return until Sept. 11, after "urgings" by William H. Davis, WLB chairman, and William Green, AFL president. The walkout resulted in the closing down of the Western Cartridge plant, making more than 10,000 employés idle.

Sets a Dividing Line.

The union to lose its escalator clause was the Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers [CIO], which had a contract with the Pyrites company, Wilmington, Del. It lost the benefits of the clause after WLB found that it would have resulted in a general wage increase for the company's 186 employés which would bring straight time rates to more than 15 per cent over the rates paid Jan. 1, 1941.

Dr. Taylor made it clear that the board's decision did not preclude the operation of escalator clauses. He explained that "such clauses will not be given effect to the extent that they provide straight time rates not more than 15 per cent above the Jan. 1, 1942, rates."

Brazilians Probe Freeing of 28 Axis Prisoners

SALVADOR, Bahia state, Brazil, Dec. 2 (AP).—The state government today ordered an immediate investigation of officials recently ousted for an order that freed 28 imprisoned axis subjects. Official reports said 25 former prisoners already had been recaptured, two more surrendered voluntarily, and the other still was missing. Those rearrested, they added, were suspected of espionage.

INDIAN PATROLS WIN IN 2 FIGHTS WITH JAPANESE

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 2 (AP).—Indian army jungle patrols, combing the marshy Burmese coast near the Indian frontier, were reported victors today in two clashes with the Japanese.

In a surprise attack on a Japanese outpost, about three miles northeast of Maungdaw on the Bay of Bengal and 30 miles from Indian soil, at least 20 of the enemy were believed killed and three machine guns put out of action, a communique said.

A small patrol of the same Indian battalion two days later ambushed a large truck carrying 16 Japanese soldiers along the narrow road between Maungdaw and Buthidaung. Only three of the enemy escaped when the truck crashed off the road, the communique reported.

Japanese airdromes at Toungoo, in central Burma, and Akyab on the coast were attacked last night by Wellington bombers, the RAF announced.

GANNETT IN RACE FOR CHAIRMAN OF G.O.P. COMMITTEE

Would Be a Compromise Between Factions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Frank E. Gannett.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2. — Frank E. Gannett, New York newspaper publisher, is a candidate for chairman of the Republican national committee. He stated today that he has consented to the presentation of his name for the office when the committee meets at St. Louis next Monday to choose a successor to Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, who is resigning to devote his time exclusively to his work as Republican leader of the house.

Gannett's name will be submitted as a compromise between the Wendell Willkie and anti-Willkie factions of the party, which have been at war over the chairmanship ever since Chairman Martin immediately after the election last month announced that he would retire.

Schroeder Has Backing.

Martin no sooner had made this announcement than a movement developed for elevation of Werner Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, to the chairmanship. Altho Schroeder said he is not a candidate for the place, numerous committeemen pledged their support, and his friends predicted there would be a majority to draft him by the time of the meeting.

Willkie, however, declared against Schroeder on the ground that the Illinois committeeman had been an isolationist before Pearl Harbor and said he would go to St. Louis in person, if necessary, to compass his defeat. Since that time there has been much discussion of a compromise choice.

Gannett's Statement.

Gannett, following conferences with a number of committeemen and other Republican leaders here in the last few days, issued the following statement:

"In response to many requests from members of the Republican national committee, from members of the United States senate and the house of representatives, as well as from party leaders all over the country, I have consented finally to permit my name to be presented for the committee chairmanship at its meeting to be held in St. Louis on Monday, Dec. 7.

"If selected I will devote my full time and energy to the Republican party. My one motive for continued participation in politics is to bring about the complete and final defeat of the New Deal.

Fights State Socialism.

"I have said again and again that I am ready to do anything in any way I can to protect our country from a state socialism that the New Deal has tried to impose on a free people. The Republican party is the only implement for fighting this menace and I therefore am ready to continue to serve that party in any way. In this critical time it is of utmost importance that all personal ambition be pushed aside and that all unite in further building up our party so that the victory won in November may be completed in 1944."

Gannett served for six weeks preceding the recent election as assistant chairman of the committee. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1940. By that time he had won a national reputation as a leader in the successful fight against President Roosevelt's attempt to pack the Supreme court. Before the country was forced into the war he was a noninterventionist.

Denies He's Willkie Man.

Rumors that Gannett is an undercover candidate of Willkie's were pronounced by the publisher to be wholly unfounded in fact. He said he had not been in touch with Willkie for several months. Recently a newspaper reporter asked Willkie if he considered Gannett satisfactory for chairman and Willkie replied in the affirmative.

Whether Gannett will appeal strongly to western Republicans is a question. The westerners have been insistent that the chairmanship go to the middle west, in which region the marked revival of Republican fortunes was staged in the 1938, 1940, and 1942 elections. When it comes to a compromise the westerners have talked chiefly of Alf Landon of Kansas. Others suggested include John B. Hollister of Ohio, a law partner of Sen. Robert A. Taft who was adviser to Willkie in the 1940 campaign; Harrison E. Spangler, committeeman for Iowa, and Ralph H. Cake, the Oregon member.

Gannett has been identified with the Republican party thruout his career, which he began as secretary to Jacob Gould Schurman, who was a member of the first Philippines commission in 1899. Since that time he has devoted his energies chiefly to the upbuilding of his newspaper properties, now numbering 18 papers and 9 radio stations.

In recent years he has been increasingly active in Republican party affairs, particularly in the formulation of policies of opposition to the New Deal. He now describes himself as a prewar noninterventionist, saying that he did his utmost to keep the country out of the war. His utterances before Pearl Harbor, however, caused him to be classed as an internationalist who favored the Roosevelt foreign policies while combating Roosevelt domestic policies.

He commended himself to Willkie to such an extent that Willkie sought to induce him to run against Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican nomination for governor of New York last spring. Gannett declined.

ICY FIREMEN FIGHT FLAMES; LOSS IS $50,000

Firemen turned into walking icicles in the near zero temperatures last night as spray from their hoses drenched them and froze while they fought a blaze in the building at 1223 Lake street. The brick structure was occupied by the Harrison Corrugated Box company and the Weisman Box company.

The fire apparently started in the rear, and had spread thru the building when the first firemen arrived. Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney estimated the damage at $50,000.

Zero and Below

Temperatures nose dived to below zero at many points in the Chicagoland area last night and a low reading of 6 below zero, forecast for this morning by the United States weather bureau, would give the city it's coldest Dec. 3 in the 71 year history of weather records.

At least some relief was in sight, however, as the bureau forecast slowly rising temperatures this afternoon and tonight, with a decrease in the freezing winds that lashed the city streets.

Homewood reported the lowest reading at an early hour this morning with 4 below zero. It was 2 below in Oak Park. At Evanston and Waukegan the mercury hovered about the zero mark. Winnetka reported zero, it was 1 above at Glencoe, and the reading at Lake Forest was 3 above.

Yesterday became the coldest Dec. 2 since 1893, when the mercury slipped to .8 of a degree below zero at 8:30 a. m. and a 34 mile wind added to the discomfort. A year ago the mercury stood at 44 degrees above zero.

Weather bureau officials explained the unusual fog hanging over the river was caused by evaporation, with water "droplets" freezing as they rose into the air, then falling back.

The Chicago Motor club reported 2,500 calls for emergency aid during the day.

CARR MAY SEEK G.O.P. BACKING IN CITY CLERK RACE

Among Six Mentioned in Pre-Campaign Talk.

In the "wide open" stage of city campaign preparations the choice of Republican candidates for city clerk and city treasurer began to receive attention yesterday.

Awaiting the meeting of the city central committee Tuesday, talk of ward committeemen blossomed with names suggested for these subordinate spots, as well as for mayor. Chairman John T. Dempsey did nothing to discourage the growth of the flock of prospects, reiterating that the Republican party is averse to penthouse selections by political bosses.

Leo E. Carr, who did well as Republican candidate for sheriff in the Nov. 3 election, has not yet returned to his post as chief of the state highway police and is reported to be available as city clerk choice.

Chapman May Try Again.

Also mentioned were Howard Reddy, who made the race for Municipal court bailiff in the recent election, and John W. Chapman, Gov. Green's secretary, who was teamed with Green, then mayoral nominee, for city clerk in 1939. Others were Frank M. Kalteux, secretary of the Illinois Commerce commission, and Henry D. Lindblad, 17th ward committeeman.

Patrick Sheridan Smith, 6th ward committeeman and one of the few Republicans in the city council, has petitions out for mayor, but is reported to have a weather eye open for clerk or treasurer. Smith was city clerk under a former Republican administration.

Possibilities mentioned for city treasurer included Frank Peska, 35th ward committeeman and member of the Illinois Commerce commission; Stanley Pulaski, recent candidate for the Probate court bench, and Raymond J. Peacock, 39th ward committeeman.

Want Business Men's Aid.

Because of nationalistic and religious factors, filling of the second and third places on the ticket is expected to hinge upon the choice for mayor.

Those in the party who argue that a slate composed of politicians cannot inspire a sufficiently aggressive campaign say that business men in the mayoral field might be persuaded to run for the lesser offices.

Among the names added to the already long list for mayor yesterday was Walter Olson of the rug company bearing his name which has been in business for 68 years.

LOCKUP HAVEN FROM COLD HAS BUSINESS SLUMP

War plants may be booming but there is definitely a business slump at the Des Plaines street police station lockup, yesterday's coldest Dec. 2 since 1893 revealed. Ordinarily thronged with vagrants lacking the price of a flop along Madison street when the mercury tumbles, the station's cell room housed only 20 guests Monday night, Jailer Sam Bass said. There were times last winter when 200 slept in the corridor.

Armed services and war jobs have cut down the number of prisoners as well as guests at the station, Capt. John Cartan said. There were only 16 to appear in court yesterday,

So drastic has been the reduction in the unemployed and idle that the city yesterday closed its welfare station at 1426 Newberry avenue, which housed 970 in depression days.

TOWNSEND GROUP CHEERS BRITAIN'S BEVERIDGE PLAN

Advocates Hold Idea Akin to Their Own.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Presentation of the Beveridge report on a revolutionary social security plan for the British people today spurred Townsend plan advocates in this country to new action. They claimed that the Beveridge program of benefits, insurance, and pensions for all from cradle to grave is in reality a British counterpart of their program.

Top leaders of the Townsend organization will meet here next week to complete a final draft of a new Townsend bill to be introduced early in the new congress. Among the leaders attending will be Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 77 year old founder of the movement.

"We are much elated with the Beveridge report to parliament," said Russell Saville, the Townsend group's national director of organization. "It lends great encouragement to the people thruout the world interested in human welfare and security.

Finds Parallels in Two Plans.

"In fact, this report might well be called the Townsend plan of England. Many of the important features of our program are incorporated in the proposal.

"We have asked all along that the United States federalize its whole social welfare program, that it do away with the means [or property qualification] test, which is a national disgrace, and pay pensions in accord with the American standard of living, instead of pauperizing elderly Americans."

Saville said that Townsend supporters in congress will confer on the new measure with Dr. Townsend and Sherman J. Bainbridge, Chicago, general manager of the Townsend organization.

Seek Uniform Pension.

The Townsend program would provide pensions for every citizen upon retirement from employment at 60 years of age, according to Saville.

The preliminary bill provides that the pension's size would be based entirely upon the amount of revenue collected from a 2 per cent gross income tax. The tax funds would be distributed pro rata among the pension's recipients. Saville added:

"Figures prepared by our statistician indicate that the amount of such a pension today, based upon national gross income estimates for 1942, would be in the neighborhood of $80 per month, altho our intention of including blind, physically disabled, chronically sick and widows with children in the next bill might cut this somewhat."

Saville reiterated statements by the organization that the Townsend bill contains no demand for $200 a month.

"This is a misconception gained from the phrase in the old bill which places a ceiling on the amount of pensions it would be possible to receive on the sliding scale basis set forth in our measure," he said.

HUTCHINS SEES BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR COLLEGES—IF

Proposes Industry Extend Use of Schools.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Robert M. Hutchins yesterday forecast, with a few ifs, a brilliant outlook for the country's colleges and universities in contrast to many recent prophets of educational doom. Moreover, the University of Chicago president adjudged the fear of federal control of higher education to be a form of college presidential jitters.

A large if raised in the interview concerned fuller awakening of industry to vast fields of civil research facilities and techniques of the campus of the American university. If industry, he said, explores the use of these comparably with their use in war research, the hazards of a skittish endowment system would be razed.

Cites Fields of Research.

"Industry could make use of research facilities and make contributions to universities which could be charged off as operation costs," said Hutchins, as he cited innumerable fields of research required by the country's business. "I understand that the treasury department would not look with disfavor on such procedure. These contributions, under excess profits laws, would cost the industries themselves very little."

Some of the industries and research projects cited included food distributors and nutritional research; industrial medicine and occupational diseases; population trends research as needed by distributing concerns; future of world trade studies as needed by industries which are international in scope.

"Any concern which could prove its interest in any of these fields of research," said Hutchins, "could charge off contributions for such research service to operations. I have heard that United States Steel recently gave a million dollars to the American Red Cross. That was a worthy gift, but it raises to mind one of our pet research projects here in the field of metallurgy."

Sees Inflation as Factor.

As to the future of the endowment system, Hutchins referred to a magazine article he wrote several years ago, in which he questioned the endowment system's lasting character. A large part of the answer to the question of endowments, Hutchins said, is the if of inflation. If inflation is avoided, endowments will remain, he said. But he added that "capital cannot be given to capital if maximum net incomes are limited to $25,000 a year."

Bequests, Hutchins said, will be about the sole source of replacement of deteriorated portfolios. So far as he can see, there are not going to be any new accumulations of capital, Hutchins then stressed the alternative phrase to "capital gifts to capital." The alternative, he explained, is "income gifts to income." Such gifts are to current college or university operational expense from industrial or personal earnings.

Tax supported colleges and universities, Hutchins added, face a parallel hazard to the voluntary institutions' endowment system, as vast wartime federal taxes are tending to syphon off funds which normally would go to those institutions thru state or municipal taxation channels.

Proposes Higher Exemptions.

Hutchins said the recent fund raising campaign of the university brought in a large number of income to income gifts. He approved the suggestion that corporation tax exemptions for welfare gifts be raised from 5 to 15 per cent and exemptions raised from 15 per cent to 20 or 25 per cent for individuals.

The Midway president then predicted the coming of a brilliant higher educational age:

"The greatest accumulated demand at the end of the war will be for education, and the only one that may be successful. There will, of course, be accumulated demands for new automobiles, washing machines, and all kinds of gadgets which the war has taken away. But no one is sure he will have the money to buy them even if he can get them. With education it is different.

"The 18 year old boy who was deprived of an education and served two, three, or four years, will want his education and he'll get it, and the government will see that he gets it regardless of whether his father can pay the bills or not. The college campus is going to be the great demobilization agency after the war, and during the war it is going to be the rehabilitation center for casualties.

Doubts Federal Control.

"There is no danger of federal control of education if the students are aided by the government, with the money going to the student so that he may attend the college or university of his choice. The great universities are being supported during the war by government and war industrial research, and for teaching war techniques."

Hutchins was far more optimistic about the smaller liberal arts college than many of the presidents of those schools were when they met recently in Philadelphia. He admitted that many are jeopardized by the enactment of the 18-19 year old draft law, and a number of weaker, unaccredited colleges probably will not remain open long.

Including WAACs and WAVES, Hutchins foresaw about 450,000 service men and women assigned to about 350 colleges of the country for intensive specialized studies or for premedical and preëngineering subjects. The schools selected by the war and navy departments, he said, probably will include the 250 institutions listed by the Association of American Universities, together with those approved by accrediting agencies in engineering.

Chicago Enrolls Juniors.

The good small colleges, Hutchins said, will be all right after the war, adding that for a time their fate might be the country's use of their plants for housing and messing facilities. If these, he said, could have adopted the plan of taking high school juniors and graduating them before they are 18 their situation would be better.

Paid a Tribute

HONOR DOCTORS JAMES HERRICK, LUDVIG HEKTOEN

Colleagues Laud Pair for Research Work.

Tribute to two of Chicago's foremost physicians, Dr. Ludvig Hektoen and Dr. James B. Herrick, was paid at the annual meeting of the Institute of Medicine of Chicago in the Palmer House last night.

The two physicians, who worked together in their medical research for more than 50 years, possess two of the five distinguished service medals given by the American Medical association to physicians of the nation.

"We cannot hope to add to the honors already given these men," declared Dr. Wilber E. Post, president of the institute, "but we do wish to acknowledge our appreciation for their long record of persistent devotion to human welfare. They were among the founders of this organization and the only men who have served continuously on its board of governors since its inception in 1915."

Laud Work of Physicians.

Tribute to Dr. Hektoen was paid by Dr. James P. Simons, professor of pathology at Northwestern university, a student and a former associate of Dr. Hektoen. J. Christian Bay, librarian of John Crerar library, paid the tribute to Dr. Herrick.

Outstanding among the achievements of Dr. Hektoen is his research in blood transfusions. He is first credited with matching the blood types of donors with that of patients and is the author of scores of papers on his bacteriological research. Dr. Herrick is an authority on diseases of the heart and other internal organs and is credited with the discovery of the heart disease, coronary thrombosis.

The two physicians joined their efforts soon after their graduation from medical college, Dr. Hektoen being graduated in 1887 and Dr. Herrick in 1888.

Surveyed New Frontiers.

Dr. Hektoen entered the research field of bacteriology and immunology, Dr. Simonds pointed out, at a time when pathology was stale. Bacteriology represented "a new frontier and offered an opportunity for an original and profound thinker."

"He investigated with remarkable courage," said Dr. Simonds, "and his relations with those with whom he worked were marked by kindness, patience, and helpfulness."

Dr. Hektoen and Dr. Herrick were among the research pioneers who had to practice medicine to earn sufficient money to carry on their invaluable research, Bay pointed out. "Dr. Herrick began life as an Oak Park boy, but later moved from local to national fields. He possesses that power of carrying youth into old age and he has taught us that if we are to fulfill our great tradition we must 'do what we must.'"

STATE TO GIVE NIGHT SERVICE ON INJURY CLAIMS

Offices of the State Industrial commission will be kept open until 9 p. m. the nights of Dec. 17 and 18 to enable war workers to receive payment on any pending injury claims before the Christmas holidays, it was announced yesterday by Alfred J. Borah, chairman of the agency's board, at 205 West Wacker drive.

Borah said also that traveling representatives of the commission would start holding night sessions on their next downstate schedules and that if the plan worked out night hearings would be held regularly after Jan. 1, both in Chicago and elsewhere thruout the state.

"This extension is for the benefit of defense workers only," Borah said, in revealing that his office is handling 35 per cent more work this year than last. The increase he ascribed to increased employment of inexperienced help with a resultant jump in industrial accidents.

VICTORY TO END MONOPOLY, SAYS MACKENZIE KING

New York, Dec. 2 [Special].—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada said here tonight that victory in the war for freedom means not only destruction of Nazi and Japanese domination but the establishment of a new order on a world basis in which there will be no monopoly of power by any country or any class. The Canadian prime minister spoke at a dinner given in his honor by the Society of Pilgrims in the United States.

"In the modern world, nationalism is the strongest political force and industrialism the strongest economic force," he said. "If men are to be truly free, both nationality and industry must be made to serve, and not to enslave, mankind." He added that the new order must be governed by a universal rule of law based on human rights and not on the rights of property, privilege, or position.

TELL HOW FLYING X-RAY WILL SAVE TROOPS AT FRONT

Radiologists Hear of New Air Corps Equipment.

A newly developed air corps X-ray machine which has won the praise of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for its front-line service in the North African campaign, drew the interest yesterday of delegates to the annual convention of the Radiological Society of North America in the Drake hotel.

The machine, capable of being set up in the field in a few minutes after being transported by airplane in three small cases to any fighting front, was developed by Lieut. Col. Alfred A. DeLorimer of the army medical school at Washington, working in coöperation with officials of the Picker X-ray corporation. The telegram from Gen. Eisenhower, received only a few days ago by Picker officials, attests to the success of their efforts.

Records Depth of Bullet.

Wounded soldiers are placed, still on their stretchers, on the X-ray machine and within 40 seconds a bullet or a piece of shrapnel can be located by an iodine mark on the body, and its depth recorded so that the surgeon knows exactly where to probe for it.

A larger field unit which requires a tent darkroom was developed more than a year ago and more than 3,000 of these have been delivered to the army, as well as several hundred to Russia under lend-lease arrangements. The more compact air corps unit answers the need of X-ray still closer to the actual fighting line.

The larger field unit fits into three army size trunks and can be assembled by trained army technicians in six minutes. Army medical officers attending the convention said X-ray machines of a crude type were used to a limited extent in the first World war but that in this war the lives of many soldiers will be saved by the accurate and early information given as to the location of bullets and shrapnel by the X-ray.

Tells of 30 Million Volt Unit.

Prof. Donald W. Kerst of the University of Illinois described a new X-ray machine he developed which produces 30 million electron volts—far more powerful than present X-ray medical machines which develop a maximum of 400,000 volts.

Prof. Kerst said the machine, which he calls the Betatron, is patterned after a high voltage "atom smasher" which he made two years ago for research in atomic physics. No tests have been made as yet on living tissue.

One advantage pointed out by Prof. Kerst is that the higher voltage machine appears to have its maximum effect about 1½ inches below the surface, whereas present X-ray machines have their greatest effect on the surface and decrease as the rays pass thru the body.

In treating malignant growths in deeper tissues, the Betatron may cause less damage to the skin and near surface tissues, he said.

WELDER TO FACE COURT TODAY IN CURTIS SLAYING

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 2 [Special].—Florencio [Frank] Alcalde, 29 year old shipyard welder, will be arraigned in Palo Alto tomorrow on a charge of murdering Bernice Curtis, 28, former Chicago woman, whose body was found in a field near Stanford university Nov. 23. She had been beaten to death, apparently with a rock found near her body.

Sheriff William J. Emig of Santa Clara county said the arraignment will be held in Palo Alto instead of San Jose for the psychological effect of holding the legal proceedings as near as possible to the scene of the crime. Alcalde has been in police custody here since Saturday and was named yesterday in a formal murder charge. He has maintained that he never met Miss Curtis and that he spent the evening of the crime playing cards with his father.

In nearby San Mateo county authorities are reopening their investigation of the slaying there in 1935 of Kathleen Robinson, a laundry worker, said to have been Alcalde's sweetheart. Alcalde was once charged with murder in this case but won a dismissal at a preliminary hearing.

REVISE TRACTION SYSTEM TO CARRY GAS RATION LOAD

Zero Cold Throws Extra Task on Experts.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Traction company engineers last night buckled down to the task of straining Chicago's antiquated and inadequately equipped transit system to carry the extra load heaped on it by federal regulations designed to save rubber.

With two days' experience in wartime traffic under gasoline rationing, staggered hours, and bus route curtailment, the engineers asserted their primary job is to revise operating schedules to parallel the new changes in passenger traffic flow.

Thus far the traction companies have attempted to meet the demand for increased service by throwing in every piece of available equipment during the hours of peak traffic. However, the engineers admitted that this near capacity use of equipment can be continued only for a short emergency period because breakdowns will send cars and buses to repair shops.

Rolling Stock Old.

Except for the Chicago Motor Coach company, which has modern equipment, the traction system's rolling stock is old, consisting of many cars 30 years or older.

Impartial surveys of the system have revealed its inadequacy even under peacetime conditions. Only last April the Chicago Surface Lines proposed to buy 200 new streamlined street cars, 100 new trolley buses, and 100 new gasoline buses. However, the War Production board blocked this improvement by denying priorities and the Office of Defense Transportation decreed that Chicago must limp along on its present equipment.

As the result of gasoline rationing and the drastic restriction on the use of buses, Chicago's transportation system will be expected to carry considerably more than 1 billion passengers in 1943 compared with an estimated 970,000,000 for 1942. The all time traffic peak was 1 billion 168 million passengers in 1927.

Cold Aggravates Burden.

A preliminary review of yesterday's traffic on the transit system disclosed continued congestion, delays, and discomfort for passengers during the morning rush hour and a somewhat alleviated condition during the evening peak. The strain on the system was aggravated by bitter cold which combined with gasoline rationing to force motorists to leave their autos at home and use public transportation.

A spot check of the Milwaukee avenue line at 5:30 p. m. showed cars were filled rapidly in the loop, but were able to take on additional passengers. Crowds at street corners waited only a few minutes because cars were spaced frequently to handle the rush hour load.

Elevated trains and buses also were crammed with homegoers, but moved along on schedule. The heaviest traffic appeared between 5:10 and 5:30 p. m. and around 6:10 p. m. Bus traffic moved more easily because of the sharp decrease in passenger car movement.

Auto Traffic Slumps Sharply.

Motor traffic on the city streets slumped as much as 70 per cent, largely because of the extreme cold which damaged batteries, froze radiators and door locks and cracked engine blocks. The Chicago Motor club received more than 3,000 calls for emergency service during the day.

Worried motorists scrambled to buy anti-freeze solutions. They found most stores had limited supplies of the more expensive permanent type fluids and fairly adequate stocks of alcohol.

Charles E. De Leuw, Chicago metropolitan area co-administrator of mass transportation for the ODT, declared that the experience under the staggered hours program in the central business district would be studied before plans are made for extending the program to industrial and business districts in outlying sections.

Convinced Plan Helps.

"I am convinced that the staggering of work hours in the loop area mitigated the strain on the transit systems caused by gasoline rationing and bus curtailments," De Leuw said.

First figures on increased traffic under gas rationing became known yesterday. The Chicago Surface Lines reported that on Tuesday, the first day of gasoline rationing, the system carried 2,588,000 passengers, 6.3 per cent more than on Monday and 15 per cent more than a year ago. In recent months the street car company's traffic has gained 9 per cent over a year ago.

The elevated lines reported passenger traffic Tuesday rose 14.68 per cent over Monday's total to 579,893 passengers, 11.47 per cent above the total for the corresponding day in 1941. The Chicago Motor Coach company had not tabulated its results.

Police Commissioner James P. Allman said the police department is studying changes in traffic conditions to see how much it can reduce the present force of 451 patrolmen assigned to traffic. They would be assigned to other work, such as crime prevention.

SPENDS $1.50 TO HAVE SIXTH TIRE REPAIRED; GIVEN 20 CENTS FOR IT

Mrs. Wanda T. Bowman, 1030 Grove street, Evanston, is going to save the check she received from the federal government for her sixth, or surplus, tire, turned in before gasoline rationing. The check is for 20 cents. Mrs. Bowman is the widow of Lieut. Col. Orville S. Bowman.

When Mrs. Bowman was instructed to turn the tire over to the government as part of the mileage rationing program, she had the tire repaired and refurbished at a cost of $1.50 so that whoever might get it in the future would have a first class piece of rubber. The garageman said the tire was good for 5,000 miles.

That's why she is saving the check for 20 cents as a memento of the home front in World War II.

Twenty cents is the usual rate being paid by the federal government for tires considered fit only for scrap, W. H. Rueter of the Defense Supplies corporation said, when he was told of Mrs. Bowman's experience.

OPA TELLS HOW TO USE GASOLINE RATION BOOKS

Watch Time Limits on 'A' Book or Suffer.

Michael F. Mulcahy, OPA director for the Chicago metropolitan area, asserted yesterday that gasoline hoarding was lost labor because the hoarder is required by OPA regulations to deduct any hoarded gasoline which he uses from his gasoline ration by canceling the proper number of coupons.

For the guidance of motorists using gasoline coupon books for the first time, Mulcahy offered the following tips:

"A" BOOK.

This book contains four pages of eight coupons each. Each coupon is worth four gallons at present and each page is good for only two months. The first page of eight coupons, marked No. 3 to coincide with the third rationing period in the eastern states, expires Jan. 21, two months from Nov. 22, when gasoline rationing was originally scheduled to start. The coupons may be used singly or all at once. Thus, the motorist can buy 32 gallons between now and Jan. 21, after which he uses the other pages for succeeding two month periods. Mulcahy urged motorists to endorse their ration books and write their license number on the back of each coupon to safeguard against loss or theft.

"B" BOOK.

This book contains 16 coupons, each valued currently at four gallons. Unlike the "A" book in which coupons expire automatically after two months, the "B" book is given an expiration date adjusted to provide only enough supplemental gasoline to cover the mileage for which the motorist has qualified. The expiration date may vary from 3 to 12 months from the issuance date, depending on the individual ration.

"C" BOOK.

This book contains eight pages of eight coupons each and has a life of three months. Each coupon is valued currently at four gallons. However, coupons are removed from the "C" book before it is issued to a motorist if he does not qualify for the maximum allowed. The "C" book is thus "tailored" to cover the mileage requirements demonstrated by the individual motorists. The "C" book is restricted to a preferred list of 20 occupational classifications, including doctors, visiting nurses, certain war workers, and others who are required to travel by automobile to fulfill duties deemed necessary to promote the war and public health and morale.

Norman Smith, Draft Aid, Becomes Captain

Norman W. Smith, former advertising executive, who has been on duty in the Chicago office of the selective service system as registration officer with the rank of lieutenant since last April, was promoted yesterday to the rank of captain of infantry. Capt. Smith, a graduate of St. John's Military academy, was commissioned in the officers' reserve corps in 1930.

THIEVES GET GAS BOOKS; OTHERS DRAIN CAR TANK

Gasoline ration books, including 87 in the A classification, 80 transport books, and several in the B and C groups, and a typewriter were stolen from the office of rationing board 32 at 1952 North avenue Tuesday night, Elvira O'Donnell, board secretary, reported to police yesterday.

George Weathers, 2913 Madison street, the first motorist to report theft of gasoline from his car here since rationing started Tuesday, told police yesterday that 19 gallons of gasoline was siphoned from the tank of his car, parked near his home.

PUT A WAR SAVINGS STAMP ON EVERY CHRISTMAS CARD YOU SEND

This Christmas, Americans will send their families and friends
More than one billion Christmas cards.

A ten-cent War Savings Stamp on each of these cards
Will fill 20 million War Stamp Books, and start a million more!
Enough to put more than 100 million dollars in the U.S. Treasury!
Enough to buy 500 long-range bombers!
Enough to buy 2,500 fast fighter planes!
Enough to buy 1,000 sixty-ton tanks!
Enough to buy 3 heavy cruisers!

In this year of war, there is only one thought in our minds,
Only one hope in our hearts...
To win the Victory that will bring our boys home to us,
And make possible, once again,
"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

So, in this year of war
Let's add a Victory note
To our customary Christmas greetings...
Let's put a War Savings Stamp on every card we send!
On every Christmas card to our families and friends;
On every Christmas message we've planned to send to customers;
On every Christmas card and letter we address
To every Soldier, Sailor, and Marine!

Yes, this year, let's all join in
And make a Christmas Card Crusade for Freedom!
For every War Savings Stamp we buy and send
Will help bring Victory nearer... will help create
A vast reserve of buying power which,
Unleashed by Peace, will bring prosperity and jobs
For all our boys when they come home.

A SUGGESTION FROM CALVERT

HOW YOU CAN JOIN IN... AND HELP TO WIN THIS CHRISTMAS CARD CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM!

Paste the Stamp directly on the greeting card. It may then be cut out or steamed off and placed in a War Stamp Book. Do not paste on outside of the envelope.

Stationery and drug stores can help by selling War Stamps at greeting card counters and displaying reprints of this message (free on request without our name).

Business organizations can help by putting a War Stamp on every greeting card they send to employees, customers, business associates and acquaintances.

Department stores can aid by displaying this message in advertisements over their own names: and by selling War Stamps at greeting card counters.

Factories, schools and theatres can help by displaying this message (reprints free on request without our name) on bulletin boards, in their lobbies, and corridors.

Organizations or companies desiring reprints of this message suitable for their own signature are invited to communicate with Calvert Distillers Corp., 1500 Chrysler Building, New York, N.Y.

MEAT RATIONING BOOKS READY FOR USE AFTER JAN. 1

Plan System of Points on Various Products.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The new "point" rationing system will be applied to meat rationing, which is scheduled to start shortly after the first of the year, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

Meat will be allotted to consumers thru the use of ration book No. 2, the so-called point ration book, copies of which are now being printed for nation-wide distribution. Book No. 2 contains two sets of 96 coupons each, one colored blue and the other red. Each set is divided into four groups of point values which are designated on the face of each coupon.

One Set for Meat.

One set of coupons in book No. 2—either the blue or the red—will be used for meat rationing and the other set for another group of commodities not yet designated by OPA.

Under the point system as applied to meat, each customer will be allowed to "spend" a certain number of points for meat during each month or other rationed period designated by OPA.

Altho details of the meat allotment program hae not been completed, it is expected that a customer will be permitted to use his coupons for any kind of meat he wants within the total point limit.

Points Vary for Types.

Various types of meat, however, will carry different point values, depending on the available supplies of each type, officials said. For example, a consumer will probably have to use more points for a pound of beef or pork than for a pound of veal or lamb. This program is based on the fact that beef supplies for civilians have been cut to 70 per cent of the 1941 total, and pork to 75 per cent, whereas lamb and mutton supplies have been fixed at 95 per cent and veal at 100 per cent.

As a hypothetical example, each holder of book No. 2 might be allowed 48 points for meat in a given month. A pound of beef might require the surrender of five points whereas a pound of lamb might call for only four points. These are merely examples inasmuch as actual point values have not yet been determined, officials said.

When the point system is placed in actual operation, the OPA may change the points for each type of meat, as the supply situation changes, officials explained.

The OPA is having 160,000,000 copies of book No. 2 printed. The four groups of point values in the book are 8, 5, 2, and 1, making a total of 384 points in each of the red and blue sets of coupons.

Officials said the No. 2 books will be made available soon after Jan. 1 thru schoolhouse distribution.

BOMB TOTER AND WOMAN BURGLAR GIVEN PAROLES

James Catuara, who was sentenced to prison in 1933 for a term of 5 to 25 years for transporting a dynamite bomb, is scheduled to be freed on parole Dec. 15. He has served 7 years and 11 months of his sentence.

He was one of 121 convicts granted paroles, effective last month and this month, by the Illinois division of correction in its November parole hearings. Another to be paroled is Mrs. Jean Rosen, sentenced in December, 1935, to a year to life for burglary. She will be freed Saturday after 6 years and 11 months in the women's reformatory at Dwight.

Catuara at the time of his arrest was described as a lieutenant of James Belcastro, known as the "king of the bombers." Police caught him and William Palermo in possession of a seven stick dynamite bomb. Palermo was given a 5 to 25 year term.

Going to War

THE GERTRUDE L. THEBAUD.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 2 (AP).—The famed Gloucester fishing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud is going to war. The trim vessel will be "inducted" Dec. 13 in a public ceremony at Gloucester as flagship of the coast guard's Corsair fleet, 1st naval district headquarters announced today.

She represented the American fishing fleets twice in international races against the Bluenose of Nova Scotia. In her new capacity, she will patrol off the New England coast, today's announcement said.

Her owner and former racing skipper, Capt. Ben Pine, will turn the vessel over to Commander Fletcher Brown, section coast guard officer. The Thebaud's burgee will be hauled down, the coast guard ensign broken out, and then the ex-fisherman, wearing a new coat of warpaint, will depart on a trial run.

MEAT SHORTAGE FORCES 500 SHOPS TO CLOSE DOORS

TradeExpects Another 500 to Quit.

Five hundred of the 5,000 Chicago butchers licensed last January have already been forced out of business as the result of the meat shortage and another 10 or 15 per cent will close shop within the next six months unless conditions improve, George Dressler, president of the Retail Meat Dealers' Association of Chicago, said yesterday.

Their inability to obtain supplies in normal volume has cut profits to the vanishing point, and most of the dealers still in business are living and paying their expenses largely out of surpluses, he said.

Hints at Even Less.

The diversion of civilian supplies to the armed forces and into lend-lease shipments to other united nations has affected all sections of the country, and the effect on butchers is likely to become more drastic as American forces spread to other battle fronts thruout the world, Dressler said.

"The situation is not only critical from the standpoint of the meat dealer, but is rapidly becoming worse and is near the fatal stage," he said. "Reports of business casualties are made to our association daily. Larger shops are affected just as seriously as smaller ones, since the dealers require more supplies to keep in business and meat is becoming increasingly hard to get."

Saturday shoppers buying supplies for Sunday dinners have completely exhausted dealers' stocks of fresh meat as early as 11 a. m., he reported.

Supplies Only 60 Per Cent.

"In the early stages of the shortage packers cut their sales to wholesalers to about 80 per cent of normal," Dressler said. "Retailers now are having difficulty in getting more than 60 per cent of their customary supplies of beef, veal, pork, and lamb."

The government plans formal rationing of meat, but has delayed the program because it has not been able to smooth out many kinks not encountered in the rationing of sugar and other commodities. Consumers in the meantime have been asked to limit consumption to 2½ pounds a week.

Youthful Speeders Pay 'Fines' to Relief Funds

The Navy Relief fund was $400 richer and the County hospital Community Chest was $200 to the good yesterday after a "Boys' day" session in Traffic court before Judge John Gutknecht. Young automobile drivers who violated traffic laws contributed to the funds in lieu of paying fines. Lieut. Com. David Goldenson, naval recruiting officer, sat on the bench with Judge Gutknecht during the session.

PRESS TRUCKS NO DIFFERENT, SAYS ODT REGION CHIEF

Newspaper Deliveries Hit by Gas Rationing.

Harry Gormley, regional motor transport director for the Office of Defense Transportation, said yesterday his office does not consider that trucks used for transporting newspapers require any special consideration in mileage allotments.

The regional official made the statement when asked if his office was carrying out the contention of Washington officials that newspaper trucks, in spite of their use in the public service, should be placed in the same class as beer trucks.

Must Cut Mileage, He Says.

"We must reduce mileage," Gormley said, "and in doing that the rulings must be applied alike to all trucks."

Gormley said his office has not drafted any order for newspapers to "pool" their trucks in making deliveries, pooling "obviously" being impossible because newspaper trucks always leave loading stations with capacity cargoes.

"However," he said, "I don't see how any industry is going to meet required mileage reductions without pooling—and there is another cut coming."

Gormley said there have been instances in which the ODT has required pooling of trucks. The plan to limit milk deliveries to every other day, he added, would bring about that end. In one instance, he said, florists have been required to pool deliveries.

Milk Decision Awaited.

Plans for making milk deliveries every other day to conserve tires and gasoline will await a decision next week by the Office of Defense Transportation, Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers of Chicago, said yesterday.

Potter had just returned from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with ODT officials and argued in favor of the plan to cut deliveries in half. Peter Hoban and Thomas Haggerty, officials of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, also were in Washington to present the union's case against the plan.

Potter said the ODT heads would confer with dealers and union leaders from all parts of the country, and a decision would be announced after that meeting.

'ROMEO BANDIT'S' BROTHER NAMED AS BANK SLAYER

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 2 [Special].—Robert L. Loftus, 44, of Rockford, Ill., brother of Donald Loftus, the "romeo bandit" who was captured in Mishawaka, Ind., in 1933, was identified by a woman in court here today as the masked gunman who killed William E. Tennell, bank teller, in La Crosse, Ind.

The woman, Miss Lillian Younggreen, assistant cashier at the bank where Tennell was killed in a holdup June 26, 1933, stepped from the witness stand, pointed to Loftus, and said "I am positive——" Here she was stopped by Defense Attorney Lewis E. Kunkle, who warned her that the prosecution had only asked that she point to the man.

Earlier she told how two bandits came into the bank in 1933. One covered her with a gun, she said, while the other, whom she identified as Loftus, told Tennell to raise his hands. As he did so the bandit shot him. They then rifled the cash drawers and fled. Loftus recently was released from the Illinois state prison and was brought here to stand trial on the murder charge.

GROUP FIGHTING AP SUIT RECEIVES FRESH SUPPORT

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 2 (AP).—The committee of newspaper officials who joined the defense in a government suit against the Associated Press received additional messages of support and commendation today.

The committee was formed by Associated Press member papers from smaller cities and declared that the important issue in the litigation was the "preservation of an unbiased, factual news report that is the foundation of a free press in the United States."

Telegrams indorsing the committee's stand have been forwarded by newspaper executives from coast to coast to Edward E. Lindsay, chairman of the committee and editor of the Decatur Herald and Review. The suit charges the AP with monopoly.

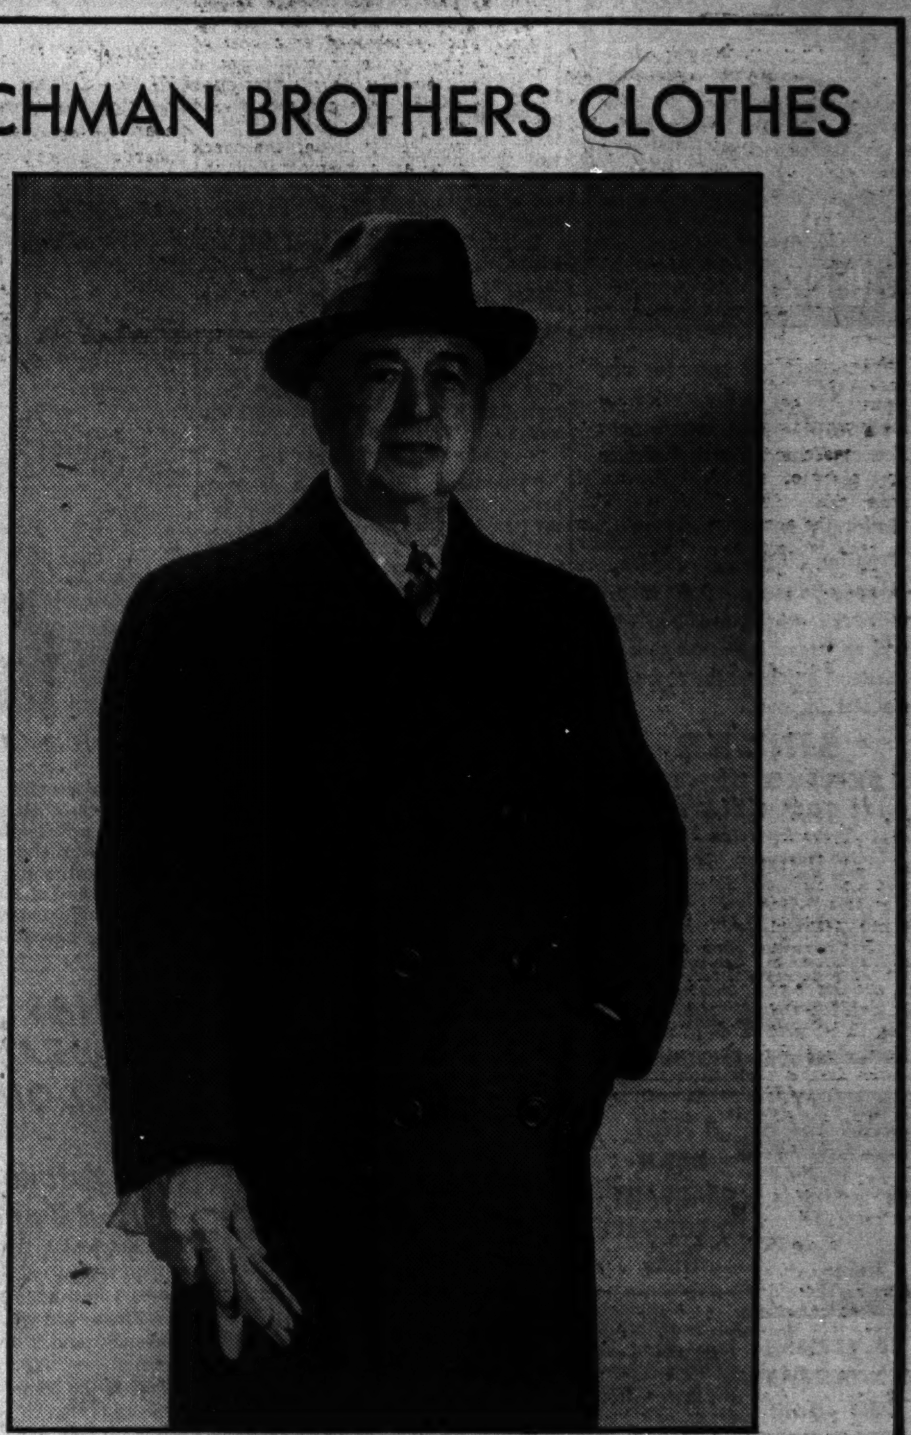
RICHMAN BROTHERS CLOTHES



My 15th

Richman Brothers OVERCOAT

I bought my first Richman coat just fifty years ago. Like the 1942 model I'm wearing, it was a warm, rugged, good looking garment . . . and I wore it a long time in pride and comfort.

Since then, I've worn no other clothes. This one is my fifteenth. I've always been well fitted; always got plenty of wear; always received full satisfaction while saving a good deal of money.

Can you blame me for saying I like Richman Brothers Clothes? At their present low prices, I think they are exceptional values.

TRUMAN URGES HORSE SENSE IN FUEL RATIONING

Gets Administrator Mixed Up at Hearing.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2 (AP).—Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], head of a committee delving into the government's methods of rationing fuel oil and gasoline, exclaimed at a hearing today that "there has been nothing but errors to come out of this whole thing."

Ralph C. Kanaar, regional fuel oil administrator from Dallas, was testifying as to the basis on which fuel oil allotments were made in this area.

"It seems to me we could use a little horse sense and set up a basis that would work in this area," Truman told Kanaar. "It's not working now."

Gets "Factors" Mixed Up.

"The basis taken was a 43 year period," Kanaar said. "That was figured in Washington——"

"That's only the average temperatures you're referring to," Truman interjected. "Why didn't you base it on actual consumption? Our information is that you cut some persons 53 per cent. Did you base that on your information 43 years ago?"

"We're using a number of factors," Kanaar replied. He explained the formula by saying all homes were classed as "efficient" or "moderately efficient" and the square feet of floor space considered.

Professor Called an Expert.

"Then we apply the number of people living in the home and make out the table," he said. "It was made out in Washington by some of the outstanding engineers of the nation."

"Name one," said Hugh Fulton, committee counsel.

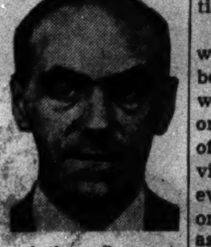
"Well, there's Joe Dean."

"Who's he?"

"I think he's a professor in some university," Kanaar said.

Truman has asked heads of the oil industry to give their version of the midwestern fuel oil situation, he said today.

NAZI SABOTEURS' AID IN NEW YORK GETS 45 YEARS



Anthony Cramer.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Anthony Cramer, 42 year old Yorkville mechanic convicted of treasonably aiding two of the eight Nazi saboteurs landed by submarine in the United States last June, today was sentenced to 45 years in prison and fined $10,000.

After sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, Defense Counsel Harold Medina said he would appeal.

At the trial of Cramer, who was convicted Nov. 18, the government charged he gave aid and comfort to Werner Thiel and Edward J. Kerling after they landed by submarine on the Florida coast, intent on destroying units of the nation's aluminum industry.

Cramer had faced a possible maximum penalty of death.

SEEK TO ENROLL SMALL BUSINESS IN BOND BUYING

A corps of 7,500 volunteers started a campaign yesterday to enroll small businesses in the pay roll savings plan of war bond buying, and the Illinois war savings staff pushed its campaign to get more than 10 per cent of pay rolls into bonds by the end of December.

The volunteer workers, directed by A. E. Bryson, will visit neighborhood stores, garages, barber shops, and all places still untouched by the pay roll bond buying plan. Bryson estimated the small business pay roll in Chicago exceeds 40 million dollars monthly.

Pay roll deductions for war bonds have been installed by 5,902 Chicago companies, including 99 per cent of the firms employing from 100 to 500 workers. Of the companies employing less than 100 workers, only 58 per cent use the pay roll bond buying method.

OPA HAS IDEA: LET DEALER RUN FUEL OIL RATION

Plan Advanced to 'Cut Red Tape' Here.

Fundamental flaws in the fuel oil coupon system—designed for users in the east and unsuited to midwestern conditions—are causing confusion, inefficiency, and waste in Chicago rationing.

This is the complaint of oil dealers, who say that the coupon system being forced on Chicagoans was worked out in the east, where fire ordinances prohibit the home storage of more than 275 gallons by any individual householder. In this section every householder under existing fire ordinances is allowed to store twice as much oil.

Plan to Cut Red Tape.

The oil dealers say that what may have worked along the Atlantic seaboard brings only confusion in Chicagoland. For rationing planned around a 275 gallon basis, coupons designed on that basis have been sent here by the federal burocrats.

Local officials of the Office of Price Administration and Michael F. Mulcahy, rationing boss in the metropolitan area, have taken cognizance of the oil users' difficulties and point a way for the householders to cut the red tape.

They suggest that householders who have tanks holding only 250 to 500 gallons turn their ration books over to their oil dealers and "let the dealers have the headaches."

How Plan Would Operate.

The dealer, it is explained, may credit coupons unused during one fixed period to the next period. In this way the consumer leaves to the discretion of his oil man the time and extent of deliveries. Mulcahy on this point says:

"Rubber must be conserved, deliveries curtailed as much as possible. The dealer can control these things better if he has the power to regulate deliveries than when subject to the consumer's call. Small lot deliveries are wasteful, anyway."

Five fixed periods for the coupons' use have been established—Oct. 1 to Dec. 16; Dec. 3 to Jan. 19; Jan. 6 to Feb. 22; Feb. 7 to March 26, and March 13 until Sept. 30. Thus no coupon expires until two weeks after the next becomes valid.

SENATORS RAP RAILROADING OF PANAMA PACTS

Accuse Administration of Treaty Subterfuge.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. Hiram Johnson

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The Roosevelt administration's proposal to carry out a series of agreements with Panama without ratification by a two-thirds vote of the senate was assailed in a minority report from the foreign relations committee today as "an encroachment upon constitutional and representative government and a dangerous precedent for similar undertakings on a much larger scale during and after the present war.

The minority report, submitted by Sen. Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] and Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], recommended that the pending joint resolution authorizing the Panama agreements be rejected and that the subject matter be returned without prejudice to the state department for renegotiation and resubmission to the senate in treaty form.

Set for Debate Today.

The resolution is expected to encounter strong opposition when the senate begins debate on it tomorrow. It is reported that Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], and Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], Sen. Wallace H. White [R., Me.], and possibly other members of the foreign relations committee will join the opposition. Even if the senate passes the measure, it may not become law at the present session, since the house has not approved it.

The resolution: [1] Transfers to Panama the physical properties and responsibility of administration of the water and sewage systems constructed by the United States in the cities of Panama and Colon; [2] conveys to Panama the right, title, and interest in and to lands belonging to the United States in the cities of Panama and Colon; [3] assumes the indebtedness of Panama [$2,700,000] to the Export-Import bank for loans covering Panama's share of a highway in Panama.

Separate Agreement.

A separate agreement was concluded with Panama last May, involving the leasing of various properties to the United States and the construction by the United States of sundry military works in Panama. Altho this so-called "military agreement" does not require approval by the American congress, it specifically provides for ratification by the congress of Panama.

"The congress of the United States is ignored in this particular agreement and told, in effect, that congress is no longer of any force or effect in agreements which its government may enter into internationally, while those governments with which we make the international agreements are under requirements to submit them for ratification to the representatives of the people," states the minority report.

Fear Loss of Respect.

The report said "every step proper should be taken to remove possible sources of irritation and misunderstanding . . . between our country and the Republic of Panama . . . but irritation is a condition that can prevail on the part of the United States, as well as upon the part of the government of Panama."

It declared that Panama's coöperation would be continued and Panama will "respect us more if we will retain some self-respect for ourselves." The report added:

"The resolution sets a precedent that is dangerous, for there are other countries which could aptly demand in this hour of emergency like treatment. More than that, it would seem to very definitely set a price upon friendship."

Woman Pamphlet Writer Called Before U. S. Jury

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Lois de Lafayette Washburn, Seattle, Wash., was ordered to appear today before a federal grand jury understood to be investigating seditious activities. Mrs. Washburn, author of a pamphlet "Yankee Minute Men," was subpenaed by William P. Maloney, special assistant to the attorney general.

So they came to Room 283. That's Army Aviation Cadet Headquarters, Old Post Office Building . . . headquarters for opportunity, unlimited.

Now they're winning their wings. Silver Wings. Getting other things, too. Ed Carter expresses it pretty well . . . husky, happy and handsome in his Aviation Cadet uniform . . . he's at Kelly Field . . . "It's more exciting than I thought, this learning to be an Army Flyer. Pay's good, too. And the training they give you . . . it means a swell chance for a good job in peacetime aviation."

Right you are, Ed.

"Then those Silver Wings, and that Officer's Uniform we'll get! A fellow who wears 'em IS somebody. Makes your folks mighty proud of you."

Any other reasons you're glad you enlisted as an Army Aviation Cadet, Ed?

"Yeah. Only they're hard to put in words. It's the way you FEEL about things. Like the feeling you get when you read about our enemies starving innocent people in concentration camps, or making slaves of men and women in conquered countries. Makes you fightin' mad all over; you're glad you're getting ready to stop that.

"Then there's another feeling. Like when you look up . . . and there's Old Glory waving in the breeze. An' she seems to say: 'Ed, you'll be free as long as I'm waving; keep me up here, fellow . . . up HIGH'.

"Those feelings . . . down inside . . . I guess maybe they're the big reason I'm glad I enlisted as an Aviation Cadet. Well, so long. Gotta go 'upstairs' in a bomber . . . learn to lay BIG eggs right on top of Swastikas and Rising Suns."

So long, Ed. You'll learn to lay 'em on a dime.

MOVE TO PROBE JEFFERS' WORK ON ALCOHOL RUBBER

Seek to Learn if Progress Has Been Made.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] announced today that his agricultural subcommittee next week will reopen its inquiry into alcohol production for synthetic rubber.

Sen. Guy M. Gillette.

This group last summer brought to a head congressional protests which charged administration bungling of the rubber program and which assailed conflicts in official public statements and an assignment to the petroleum industry of a near monopoly of the synthetic schedule.

Sen. Gillette declared today:

"President Roosevelt vetoed our legislation, appointed the Baruch advisory committee, and on recommendation of these advisors appointed a rubber director, Mr. William M. Jeffers.

Curious About Jeffers Acts.

"The Baruch committee condemned the muddling as strongly as we did, and then froze the mistakes of the first eight months of the war. Mr. Jeffers has had three months to clarify the chaos; we want to know what he has done or is going to do.

"The Baruch committee three months ago recommended prompt construction of new facilities with a capacity to produce 100 million gallons of alcohol annually. We want to know what if anything has been done about this recommendation. The committee's information is that nothing has been done.

"Nevertheless, I'm told that our half billion dollar plant construction program is sorely wanting of butadiene, a basic synthetic rubber material. We are building mixing plants with nothing to mix in them. Alcohol is the best source for butadiene.

Cites Waste Source.

"Alcohol can be made not only from grains, but also from the millions of tons of waste, sawdust, and culled woods, from our lumber industry and from the sulfite liquor waste that presents a disposal problem at our woodpulp mills. The committee also is going to explore this vast potential source of alcohol which has become available thru recent advancements in wood chemistry."

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Canadian subsidiary, the Ontario Paper company, has perfected the distillation of alcohol from sulphite liquor, and the newspaper has made these betterments available to the entire industry as a contribution to the war effort.

LYNNE ROGERS.

New York, Dec. 2 [Special].—Lynne Rogers, 16 year old art student at the high school of music and art here, wrote the winning entry in the school's contest to select a war song for the soldiers at Fort Bragg, N. C. Its title is "Come On! Yankee Doodle!" The original copy will be sent to Lieut. Col. William McLeod at Fort Bragg. He formerly was chairman of the English department at the school.

WAGE PARLEYS FOR ELEVATED ARE RE-OPENED

New contract negotiations between the Amalgamated Association of Street and Elevated Employés, division 308, and Col. A. A. Sprague and Bernard J. Fallon, elevated lines receivers, were resumed yesterday in the offices of Col. Sprague, William F. Levander, head of the union, announced.

The union, he said, is negotiating for 4,500 elevated employés and is asking a 12 cent per hour blanket increase for employés in the top brackets, a 17 cent increase in the lower brackets, and 15 days' vacation instead of 10. The employés' contract expired May 31 and the new contract will be retroactive to June 1.

300 OF STUDENT BODY AT LOYOLA TO DONATE BLOOD

The Red Cross mobile blood donor unit will be at Loyola university on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10 and 11, it was announced by Joseph H. King, chairman of the Red Cross blood donor service in Chicago.

The university visit was arranged by Arthur Czeslawski, president of the student biological society. More than 300 students already have volunteered to donate a pint of blood each to be used for the armed forces.

James Shannon, 75 years old, 1835 South Ridgeway avenue, completed 50 years of service as a guard at the Bridewell yesterday. Last night 75 fellow guards, officials and their wives held a party in his honor in a hall at 3900 West 26th street, and presented him a gold star.

URGES U. S. DRIVE TO BEAT NAZIS IN BATTLE OF WOOD

Expert Cites Foe's Myriad War Uses of Timber.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—American woodsmen have received a call to arms to modernize their industry and defeat Hitler in the battle of the forests. The call was sounded by Dr. Egon Glesinger, secretary general of the International Forest Products committee, in a new book, "Nazi in the Woodpile," which points out that Germany is using wood for food, clothing, shelter, fuel, explosives, and even tires.

The flyleaf bears an indorsement by Dr. J. Alfred Hall, principal biochemist of the United States forest service.

Glesinger warns that Nazi advancements in chemistry have furthered a preconceived plan to wage war with wood and to dominate the world by dominating its forest products.

Cites U. S. Shortages.

"The United States is suddenly caught short of steel, rubber, textiles, motor fuels and even certain foodstuffs," the book asserts. "Wood can replace metals, can supply textiles, motor fuels, and foodstuffs, and even most of the chemicals needed for synthetic manufacture of rubber can be derived from wood."

From his post abroad with his committee, before he took refuge in Washington, Glesinger watched the German infiltration of European forests precede the military conquests.

He describes Nazi industrial successes attained "by means of greater intensity of effort and a more daring application of their technical knowledge." The quotation is his challenge to America's woodsmen.

Even Sugar from Wood.

He relates that Nazi troops, clad in synthetic cotton and wool produced from wood, are riding in trucks greased with tree stump lubricants, powered by wood-gas or by alcohol made from wood, and with tires containing rubber made from wood produced alcohol. They are eating wood sugars and meat from live stock fattened on wood fodder.

These ersatz materials are mothered by necessity, but are fathered by sound economy, Glesinger insists.

He describes wood as "one of the most promising sources of butadiene and thus of synthetic rubber." The American synthetic rubber program is using mainly petroleum and grains as basic materials.

"Three pounds of wood will produce one pound of a fiber that equals cotton," reads the appendix. "Two pounds of wood will perform essentially the same structural services as one pound of steel or aluminum. Four pounds of wood will drive a motor car as far as one pound of gasoline."

According to Dr. Glesinger, America can win this battle of the forests by increasing the growth in the woods that cover 32 per cent of the United States, by eliminating a 40 per cent waste in logging and manufacturing processes, and by reducing consumption as fuel.

North America's forest area is nearly twice that of Europe and we are completing tests and experiments that promise "new industrial solutions for the conversion of at least part of the 200 million tons of America's yearly wood waste and low grade fuel woods into critical war materials," according to Dr. Glesinger.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

D. C. T. writes: "I am 19 and expect to receive my questionnaire almost any day. I am a high school graduate, and in high school I took all of the science courses, including mathematics and physics. Is there some branch of service where I might get some training in radio or electronics?"

ANSWER: High school graduates who are interested in radio and who are well grounded in mathematics or physics may receive from three to nine months of extremely valuable training in various phases of communications, including electronics, telephone, and radio. The United States army signal corps has established a number of preservice training schools in the central west where men between the ages of 18 and 45 are trained in new secret weapons, detectors, and sound and communications equipment. During the training period the personnel is instructed as civilians, with salaries ranging from $85 to $150 a month, and upon completion of the courses each man is given the regular army basic training before assignment to the signal corps. There are several specific advantages to this training: [1] students completing the training are almost immediately in line for technical ratings or commissions, [2] men receiving this training will be able to find places in civilian life easier after the war is over—and employment at high wages will be available in the areas to be reconstructed as well as in this country, and [3] students will be paid well and given training equivalent to four years in most technical colleges or trade schools. Men who have had college mathematics and physics and/or several years' experience in practical radio and telephone work will be given special consideration and opportunities for rapid advancement. In Chicago the headquarters is room 612, 209 West Jackson boulevard.

E. A. asks: "Does the local board have the right to pass on an appeal addressed and directed to the board of appeals?"

ANSWER: The local board has no authority in the matter of an appeal. If you wish to appeal the local board's classification, communicate with the government appeal agent attached to every local board and he will give you full instructions and assist you in every way. If you prefer, this department will send you an article, "Rights of Appeal," if you send us a large self-addressed stamped envelope. The article outlines all of the steps to be followed in making an appeal.

R. A. asks: "What is the difference between a meteorologist and an airologist? The navy told me an airologist was a meteorologist with wings on. Is that the real difference?"

ANSWER: The two names have essentially the same meaning, meteorology being Greek in origin, while airology is Latin. During the last war the navy sent some of its officers to school to learn forecasting and the man in charge of the program preferred to use the term airology. The army still uses the term meteorologist. Civilian weather forecasting activities include airologists, airographers, and several other specialists.

Transfer Capt. Spalding, Builder at Great Lakes

Virtual completion of the Great Lakes Naval Training station expansion program which increased the capacity from 2,500 to 75,000 men in little more than a year was indicated yesterday by announcement of the transfer of Capt. Ralph D. Spalding, public works officer since August, 1938, to the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard. Capt. Spalding will leave Great Lakes next week.

COMMUNITY FUND TALLY MAY WIND UP DRIVE TODAY

Leaders in Chicago's 12th annual Community Fund campaign will meet at 12:15 p. m. today in the Palmer House to tally contributions received in the last two weeks and to learn if Chicago has reached its goal of $3,750,000.

Subsidiaries of the steel corporation contributed $34,000 yesterday.

If the goal is reached, an all time record for early completion of the drive will have been achieved, Charles Y. Freeman, general chairman, said.

The last official total of $3,005,705 was announced two weeks ago.

REFUSE PAROLE TO ABORTIONIST FOR FOUR YEARS

Early freedom for abortionists met a sharp setback from the state board of paroles yesterday when it decided that Dr. Peter B. Schyman must serve at least five years of his 1 to 10 years sentence. The physician was convicted in 1938 of performing an illegal operation which almost cost the life of a young woman.

The board acted upon a letter from First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley in which he recommended that the doctor should be "required to serve a substantial portion of his sentence." Crowley pointed out that Schyman was sent to the penitentiary at Joliet only after a "lapse of nearly three years after his conviction."

The physician applied for parole in August, when he had served less than a year. The verdict of the parole board was succinct: "Parole denied; case continued until Aug. 19, 1946."

Dr. Schyman was convicted with Dr. Horace B. Hannon. The latter died in 1941 while his appeal was pending.

SLAP TENDERIZES TOUGH GUY EDDIE INTO JUST EDDIE

Plenty tough at 11 o'clock Tuesday night when he appeared at the Royal café at 701 North Clark street with two guns and a desire to kill Tommy Gerald, part owner of the place, Tough Guy Eddie Sturch, ex-convict and small-time Democratic politician, was not so tough when the law finally caught up with him yesterday after what police called a one man Commando raid.

Sturch, a political pal of State Sen. William [Botsy] Connors, terrorized employés of the café and chased patrons into the street, firing a couple of aimless shots at one. Not finding Gerald he left, but returned three more times in search of his man.

On the fourth call he was received by Detectives Richard Martin, George Shannon, and William Kinsella. Martin promptly slapped the tough guy and asked, "Now, how tough are you?"

Sturch's reply as he fell to his knees was a wail. "I love policemen, and I love you so much I'll kiss your hand." Locked up in the Chicago avenue police station, he pleaded, "I'm just a clerk and 1-A in the draft." Police said he had been drinking.

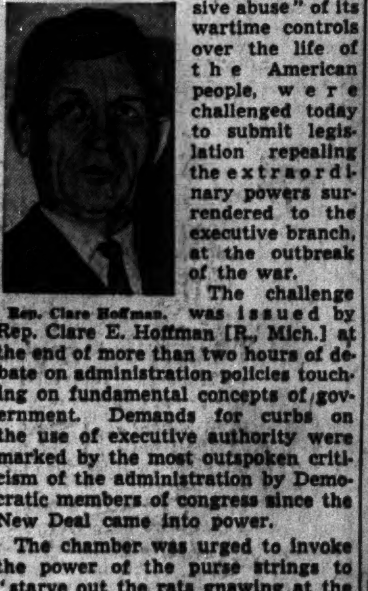
MOVE TO REPEAL F. D. R. POWER PUT UP TO DEMOCRATS

Public Hearings Voted on New Measure.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Rep. Clare Hoffman.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—House Democrats, assailing the administration for "oppressive abuse" of its wartime controls over the life of the American people, were challenged today to submit legislation repealing the extraordinary powers surrendered to the executive branch at the outbreak of the war.

The challenge was issued by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] at the end of more than two hours of debate on administration policies touching on fundamental concepts of government. Demands for curbs on the use of executive authority were marked by the most outspoken criticism of the administration by Democratic members of congress since the New Deal came into power.

The chamber was urged to invoke the power of the purse strings to "starve out the rats gnawing at the foundations of constitutional government." Reminded that reform legislation several times has passed in the house only to fall in the senate, the members suggested earnestly that the senate be refused its operating funds to force that chamber "to listen to reason."

Promises G. O. P. Help.

Rep. Hoffman asserted that the protesting Democrats had said little in their criticism of the New Deal which Republican members have not been saying almost daily since 1932. From their remarks, he continued, the majority members now evidently are aware of the danger and the remedy. Who, he asked, should be blamed if nothing is done?

He promised that any measure designed to reinstate congress as a coördinate branch of the government will receive full support from the G. O. P. Failure to act will result in "a political revolution, the like of which has never been seen on this continent," he warned.

Meanwhile the administration's drive to extend the authority of President Roosevelt was dealt another severe blow when the ways and means committee agreed by a vote of 18 to 5 to hold public hearings on pending legislation to clothe him in additional war powers.

The measure would permit Mr. Roosevelt to suspend by executive decree all laws and regulations governing the movement of materials, property, and information in and out of the country and persons out of the United States.

Passage Now Doubted.

When the measure was demanded by the White House before the election in the expectation of quick passage, the plan was to bring it on the floor after secret hearings. The original measure would also have given the President supreme authority to nullify all immigration laws for the duration of the war and placed no time limit on the life of the new powers.

Opening of public hearings is expected to delay a report to the house for at least another week, after which the house would have to act before senate consideration begins. Many observers stated flatly that the time consumed in rewriting the measure twice with the inclusion of various restrictions has made it impossible to obtain enactment before the end of the 77th congress on Jan. 3, when all pending bills die automatically.

The house debate on the use of the President's war powers began when Rep. Hatton Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, arose to complain over the situation confronting farmers which he said is the result of the myriad executive decrees stripping them of their man power and supplies.

Complains of Restrictions.

One of the most influential veterans of the house, the graying Texan spoke to a respectfully silent chamber. His protest over the present trend of the government was passionately phrased and his words at times rang with a religious fervor.

First he complained of the lot of the farmers, then of the restrictions that have been placed on the lives of all citizens. As a result of this "hamstringing," he declared, there is today sweeping the country an "upsurge of beliefs in democratic principles" that is unequaled at any time since the World war.

"If we had any designs to make it impossible to produce," he said, "we could not have done a better job than we have under this program. That is a serious statement but this is a dangerous situation. It is the people's country, the people's war, the people's problem, and we are the people assembled—their representatives. We've got a job to do in America or our people will go hungry."

Amid a burst of applause, he asserted that "God Almighty always intended that his creatures shall be free and allowed to run their own business."

"Doped with Borrowed Money."

He warned that the nation is beginning to "awake from being doped with borrowed money" and asserted that it is the obligation of congress to lead the way in attempts to return "thru confusion to better times."

In bitter tones, Rep. E. E. Cox [D., Ga.], who followed Sumners to the floor, declared that the south is suffering "indignities, hardships, and humiliations" that compare with the carpet bag rule following the Civil war.

"The people of this country—north, east, south, and west—have reached the point where they are willing to break with tradition and not longer remain bound to any sort of organization being used as an instrument for its undoing," he said.

This was regarded as a warning of a possible bolt by southern conservatives from their traditional Democratic ties, the second such utterance from Cox in a week. He recently served notice that many among the majority members can be expected to join with the increased Republican membership in the next congress in opposition to the New Dealers on domestic issues.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by A. Pozen, 5415 Ellis avenue.]

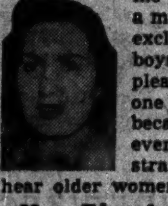
THE QUESTION.

In what former "tomboy" activity do you now indulge without fear of criticism?

WHERE ASKED.

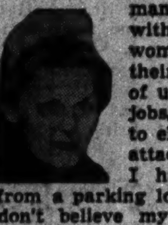
Randolph street Illinois Central station.

THE ANSWERS.

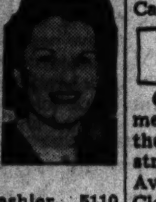


Patricia Schwartz, stenographer, 7834 Phillips avenue—It doesn't worry me to express myself in a manner that once was exclusively reserved for boys. I whistle all I please and I'm sure no one thinks less of me because of it. However, it looks rather strange when I see and hear older women whistle.

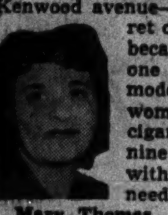
Mrs. Edward Seydel, housewife, Gary, Ind.—I take it for granted that fishing is a game for women as well as men. Formerly it was only the tomboyish type who participated in such sports. I admit I'd enjoy it more if I didn't have to put the worm on the hook.



Marjorie Walldren, cashier, 5805 Ohio street—This might have been a man's world to begin with, but I think the women are taking over their share of it. Many of us have to do men's jobs, which has helped to eliminate the stigma attached. In my work I have to drive cars from a parking lot to the owners. I don't believe my job makes me a tomboy.



Darlene McAllister, 614 East 112th street—A few years ago most of my present day wardrobe would have been considered quite masculine. I like to wear slacks, blue denim trousers, coveralls, and sports clothes that formerly only more daring and outdoors type women wore.



Kathryn Cameron, cashier, 5110 Kenwood avenue—If I refuse a cigaret or a cocktail it's not because I'm afraid some one will think I'm not modern. A picture of a woman posed with a cigaret looks as feminine to me as a woman with a set of knitting needles.

Mary Thomas, photographer, 1430 Hyde Park boulevard—All of the outdoor games and sports in which I indulge would have been considered tomboyish 50 years ago. Now I play baseball, go boating, fishing, and hunting and think nothing of it.

PAID OFFICE RENT FOR MATTINGLY, SAYS MRS. PAYNE

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Caroline G. Payne testified today in her murder trial that she had bought a suit and paid law office rent for Charles O. Mattingly, attorney-examiner for the public service commission, whom she is charged with slaying.

Mrs. Payne, 45 year old former business manager of a local newspaper, told a jury of 12 men of a long friendship with Mattingly, beginning in his student days in Indiana university here.

The defendant, on trial for the second time, testified it was thru her influence that Mattingly entered Democratic politics.

Finally, she said she obtained Mattingly's appointment to the public service commission in 1936. Defense witnesses have testified Mrs. Payne became depressed after Mattingly moved to Indianapolis and apparently avoided her. He was shot five times in the back as he sat in a friend's home here in July, 1941.

21 FEARED DEAD OFF NEWPORT IN NAVY BOAT UPSET

Find 5 Bodies; 2 Seamen Survive Ordeal.

Newport, R. I., Dec. 2 (AP).—A navy boat, filled with men returning from shore leave, capsized in Narragansett bay early today, and between 14 and 21 sailors were feared lost.

Two sailors, J. B. Kelly and L. J. Hinsen, both seamen second class, were known to have survived. Navy officers at Newport said they were uncertain, but believed the boat had carried 16 men. However, a survivor was quoted as saying he thought 23 men were aboard.

Recover Five Bodies.

Jamestown firemen recovered five bodies. The craft, a motor whaleboat, was found wedged between rocks on Conanicut Island, on which Jamestown is located. Its bow and stern were stove in.

The navy public relations office at Newport said it would examine a roster in an attempt to determine exactly how many men were aboard the boat.

Manuel L. Machado, 67 years old, a Jamestown farmer, said he was awakened at 3:15 a. m. by the shouts of a survivor. He found this man at his door, soaked and nearly exhausted.

Cling to Side of Boat.

Machado said the sailor told him the boat had capsized after filling with water in the heavy seas and that he clung to its side until he felt it strike something.

"The next thing I remember, I found myself lying on shore near the boat," Machado quoted him as saying.

The other known survivor spent the night in a haystack. He was taken to Newport naval hospital this morning after being discovered by Norman Caswell of Jamestown.

TUG SINKS, 14 DIE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 2 (AP).—Fourteen men drowned before dawn today as the 89 foot tug Admiral, swept by strong, freezing winds, went down off Avon Point, 15 miles northwest of Cleveland.

Officials of Cleveland Tankers, Inc., which operated the wood-hulled 94 ton tug for the Allied Oil company, said at noon they had abandoned hope that any of the crew, under Capt. John O. Swanson of River Rouge, Mich., had survived. Listed among those missing is Jerry Girard, a utility man, 5314 Crystal avenue, Chicago.

The disaster, Lake Erie's worst since 18 men went down on the Canadian vessel Sand Merchant in a 1936 storm, occurred about eight miles off Avon Point as the Admiral was towing the Cleveco here from Toledo with between 8,000 and 10,000 tons of fuel oil. The sinking, which company officials said they could not explain immediately, occurred only about a mile from where the Sand Merchant went under.

Another 19 seamen aboard the oil barge Cleveco, commanded by Capt. William H. Smith of Cleveland, awaited rescue from their powerless 250 foot craft as coast guard cutters, tugs, and the civil air patrol fruitlessly searched the area for tug survivors.

What About Travel During Wartime Holidays?

The answer to that is a matter of simple arithmetic...addition and subtraction.

War industry has added greatly to essential business travel.

Gasoline rationing has shifted much of the normal highway load to the railroads.

The armed forces here at home have vastly increased in the past year. Many more men will be traveling on leave. Many more families will be journeying to camps to be near their men.

We may also expect an increase in military movements... subtracting further from the number of Pullmans, coaches and passenger locomotives available for regular service.

What all this will mean in terms of crowded trains may prove something far beyond the experience of American travelers. We therefore advise putting off any trip you have to make until after this peak period is past.

However, if you must go, try to leave as long before the holidays as you can and return as long afterward as possible. Carry minimum luggage and allow maximum leeway for train connections.

We'll do our best to provide the necessary accommodations. And we know we can count on you to make the best of this wartime situation.

We're hard at work to speed on their way the men and munitions and raw materials of war. And that's one job all Americans want to see put first... holidays and every day... till Victory is won.

1,440 BOYS PASS ARMY TEST FOR FLIGHT TRAINING

17 Year Old Group Leads in High Schools.

Recruiting headquarters for the navy, including the Seebees, has been moved from the United States courthouse to 321 Plymouth court, half a block west of State street and half a block south of Jackson boulevard. The new telephone number is HARrison 6886.

BY HARRY McCLAIN.

Proof that high school boys 16 to 19 years old are excellent material for army flight training is found in the result of examinations given to 3,134 youths in nine Chicago high schools and the Evanston township school.

Grading of the test papers also gives some idea of the comparative quality of education given by the various schools. That this quality is high is proved by the average grade of the 1,440 boys who passed the test. This average was 97.63 out of a possible score of 150. The army aviation cadet examining board demands a grade of 83 for qualification.

Some Qualifiers Only 15.

Among the qualifiers were a few boys only 15 years old, compared with the 16.89 year average of the 1,440. The largest number of qualifiers were in the 17 year ago group, and only a few were 19 years old or older.

Evanston Township High school qualified 93 of 120 applicants with an average age of 17.06 years and also won the honors for the highest average grade—102.7. Senn qualified 51.7 per cent of 336 applicants, averaging 16.7 years and made an average score of 98.2, the same as Schurz, which qualified 51.08 per cent of 427 youths.

Only 35 per cent of Amundsen's 190 applicants received passing grades, but the 67 youths who passed scored an average of 99.3. The average age of the Amundsen applicants was 16.9 years. Wells High school made the poorest showing, qualifying only 17.6 per cent of 136 applicants. These youths averaged 17 years. Their average grade was 10.3 points above the minimum demanded.

Detailed Results of Tests.

Complete statistics for the 10 schools in which the tests were given are shown in the following table:

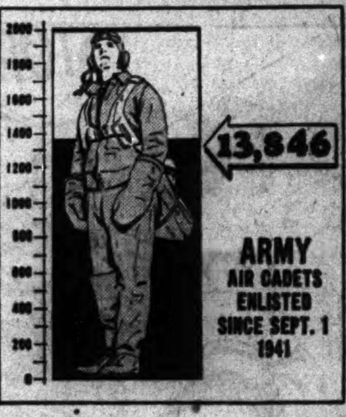
The examinations in Chicago public and Catholic high schools will be continued until all senior boys have had a chance to take the screening test. At the same time tests will be given in Cook county high schools.

Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, president of the aviation cadet examining board, met yesterday with Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools and the heads of 21 county high schools. The principals agreed to have the tests given in their schools and beginning Monday a staff of army officers will start making the rounds.

PARKS TO LOSE ALL WPA LABOR AT NEW YEAR'S

Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, said yesterday he had been informed by Works Projects administration officials that no WPA labor would be available for the parks after Jan. 1. Dunham said the 300 WPA men now utilized by the park district were completing construction projects started before the war. Five years ago, the parks used 25,000 WPA laborers, he said.

Recruiting News



Progress of the army aviation cadet recruiting campaign.

Withdrawal of permission for army volunteers 18 and 19 years old to select the branch of service they desire after Dec. 15 is expected to increase applications for flying cadet training, Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, head of the army aviation cadet examining board, said yesterday. The Dec. 15 deadline will not have any effect upon air force recruiting.

The cadet selection board qualified 92 applicants yesterday and brought total enlistments since Sept. 1, 1941, to 13,846, leaving 6,154 recruits to be obtained in the remaining 28 days of the month to make a quota of 20,000 for Chicago.

Lieut. Comm. Edward F. Addenbrooke, 1249 Cherry street, Winnetka, associate professor of dermatology at Loyola university and associated with the dermatology department of Cook County hospital, yesterday was ordered to active duty and will report to the navy for service Monday.

Continued interest in enlistment in the merchant marine yesterday boosted the total since Nov. 1 to 1,008. The service is seeking 3,500 Chicago men by the end of February to man the nation's freight carrying ships.

PARDON CONVICT WHO DIED IN TEST TO SAVE OTHERS

Sacrifices His Life in Secret Navy Task.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 2 (AP).—Voting a posthumous pardon to Arthur St. Germain, 27 years old, of Haverhill, the Massachusetts executive council revealed today that the young man, serving a long term at the Norfolk state prison colony, had given his life in secret navy tests which may involve the saving of thousands of lives.

In a tribute to the young man, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall declared that St. Germain, with 39 other prisoners at the colony, had submitted voluntarily to tests which "involved the possible saving of thousands of lives, not only on the battlefront, but among society, itself."

Won't Discuss Tests.

Neither the governor nor Corrections Commissioner Arthur T. Lyman would discuss the tests on the ground that they were naval secrets. St. Germain had served 18 months of a five to seven year sentence. State officials said that in view of the heroic nature of the young prisoner's death, they felt that the nature of the offense of which he was convicted should be withheld. They said that the young man's character and record had been good before his conviction.

To the mother, Mrs. Beulah St. Germain, Lyman wrote: ". . . I am not at liberty at the present moment to say much to you. I do want you to know that in my opinion your son gave his life for those in the armed services and for other members of his country just exactly as much as my boy, who is on a destroyer, would if he were to lose his life fighting the enemy. I saw Arthur and spoke to him the afternoon before he died and he had been showing steady improvement and was in relatively good spirits."

Submitted Voluntarily.

In submitting the pardon to the state executive council, Gov. Saltonstall said:

"Arthur St. Germain, with a full knowledge and understanding of possible dangers and risks involved, voluntarily submitted to a vitally important research test that involved the possible saving of thousands of lives not only on the battlefront but among society, itself.

"Now, therefore, as Arthur St. Germain died that others might live, I hereby grant him a full and complete pardon of all offenses."

CHICAGO UNABLE TO CUT BUDGET, KELLY DECLARES

Praises His Own Record to Commerce Group.

Mayor Kelly told the Chicago Association of Commerce, at a luncheon yesterday in the Palmer House, that in his opinion it will be impossible to reduce 1943 city government appropriations from the 1942 level.

The city, he said, is confronted with additional expenses resulting from new wartime measures necessary to protection of life and property and from adjustment of salary and wage rates to the increased cost of living. In the face of this, he said, corporate [operating fund] revenue from licenses and miscellaneous sources will be reduced next year [$784,000, according to City Controler Robert B. Upham's estimate].

Mayor Cites Finance Survey.

The budget could be cut by reducing essential services, Mayor Kelly declared, but to ignore obligations placed on the city would not be "good business, common sense, or sound economics."

The mayor cited a survey by the Municipal Finance Officers' association, based on comparison of 1942 and 1941 budgets, which, he said, showed two of every three cities are spending more for operation and maintenance this year than last.

Apparently pointing to the spring municipal elections, he upheld his administration by comparing the city's present financial situation with the "chaotic" condition that existed when he took office in 1933.

Recalls Troubles of 1933.

The mayor said that in 1933 it was impossible to sell city tax warrants, even at high rates of interest, in sufficient amounts to meet pay rolls and other indebtedness, and that city and board of education employés hadn't been paid in many months.

During the nine years of his administration, Mayor Kelly said, corporate fund indebtedness has been reduced from $22,500,000 to $4,600,000; the city's gross bonded debt has been cut 59 million dollars, or about 44 per cent, and tax warrants outstanding have been reduced from $73,993,000 to less than 35 million dollars.

City Properties Rehabilitated.

While these debt reductions have been accomplished, he said, run down city properties have been rehabilitated and maintained, the city has operated the "greatest fire department, the greatest police department, and the greatest park system of any large city in the world," and Chicago has maintained the lowest water rates of any large city in the world.

At a luncheon next week, Gov. Green is to appear before the association to present accomplishments of the state administration and its financial situation.

ALDERMAN ASKS PENNY CITY TAX UPON CIGARETS

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] suggested yesterday that the next session of the state legislature be asked to pass a law permitting the city power to levy a tax of 1 cent on each package of cigarets sold.

Such a tax, Ald. McDermott told the city council's finance committee, would produce about three million dollars in annual revenue that could be applied on salary increases for city employés. Previously he had advocated 15 per cent wage increases for city workers.

Ald. McDermott was attending a finance committee meeting for the last time. He will resign from the council today to become a member of the board of tax appeals, a position to which he was elected on Nov. 3.

BOARD IN SECRET WEIGHS SLASH IN COUNTY CHARITY

Members Seek Methods to Reduce Budget.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Methods of saving money from the customary appropriations for its impressive array of charity activities were discussed yesterday at what was designated as an executive session of the Cook county board.

To avoid financial disaster—possibly including payless pay days or lack of supplies for its public institutions—the board will have to trim its budget to the estimated revenues of about 18 million dollars. Last year the board went over this figure by about 2½ millions and now has unpaid bills of approximately 5 millions.

Several Methods Discussed.

Clayton F. Smith, president, and Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee of the board, have insisted on a realistic approach to the problem this year; an approach that will pare wherever paring can be done. It was reported after yesterday's closed session, which is something of a novelty with the board, that proposals to cut the cost of blind pensions and civil service jobs were brought up, as well as severe slashes in the personnel of county fee offices.

So-called welfare and charity work exhaust at present more than half the revenues of the county, or more than 9 millions. They must be cut, it has been pointed out, because even a 25 per cent reduction in the office personnel costs [all that any one dares hope for] would provide only $1,500,000 toward a balanced budget.

Consider Reduction in Efficiency.

"We are going to be determined about cutting the office forces," Commissioner Kavanagh said, "even to the point where the public gets less efficient service."

The commissioner added that there were factors making difficult any savings in the conduct of Oak Forest institution with its 3,000 inmates, of whom 1,900 are bedridden; that, while costs of meat there had been cut down somewhat, the milk bill had risen in recent years to $90,000 from $40,000.

"We also have unions asking us for more money for their members," he said. "Among these are some 200 orderlies at the County hospital, whose request is for $25 a month. Their salaries are between $100 and $115 now. We are going to confer with the union leaders on Friday."

The plan to save on blind pensions contemplates the shifting of the whole burden of the county to the federal government.

Legislative Action Necessary.

To make the suggested change, new legislation at Springfield would be necessary, and the county will have to appropriate at least half the regular yearly amount; it may do this and hope the legislative relief will be forthcoming.

The county also will have to find funds for the cost of the mandatory quadrennial assessment of property, not covered in the previous budget. Assessor John S. Clark said yesterday that the minimum cost would be $175,000 to $200,000.

CITY COUNCIL RETURNING TO WORK TODAY

The city council will meet this morning for the first time in nearly a month.

The 1943 budget estimates of City Controler Robert B. Upham will be presented and referred to the finance committee for public hearings. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], finance committee chairman, said the hearings probably would begin early next week after the committee's staff had had several days to study Upham's estimates.

A new zoning ordinance, a drastic revision of the present ordinance passed in 1923, is to be called up for passage, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the council subcommittee which handled its development, said last night. Ald. Lindell predicted it would be passed.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1942.

A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people. To allow it to be fettered is to fetter ourselves.
United States Supreme Court.

EVERY MAN A MR.

The London press has not been taken in by the jocular tone of THE TRIBUNE's recent editorials concerning British titles of nobility. We thought mutual understanding between the two great English speaking peoples would be promoted if, in publications in this country, the titles were dropped whenever to do so would not confuse the reader. Obviously there would be no confusion in any one's mind if we omitted the "Sir" from Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery. Nor would any one be in doubt about the identity of the person described as Gov. Windsor of the Bahamas. These changes in style would promote the idea in American minds that our allies, like us, are fighting for democracy.

We advanced this suggestion lightly, but the British press has concluded that we were in earnest as, indeed, we were. The Daily Telegraph, the property of William Ewert Berry, alias Lord Camrose, devotes considerable space to our heresy. We appear to be undermining something. We hope we are.

Lincoln said this nation could not exist half slave and half free and his words could not have been much weightier if they had been uttered by an earl. Likewise, a nation cannot survive half democratic and half aristocratic. So far as this country is concerned it will make considerable sacrifices to preserve a British democracy, but it doesn't find any great satisfaction in fighting for an aristocratic Britain.

In deference to American opinion we should expect the British to abolish their titles and the privileges that go with them. After all, the deprivation wouldn't amount to much; it isn't as if Camrose didn't have another name that sounds less like soap to fall back on.

In the end the British would be much better off. The same aristocratic system that gives them their fancy titles gave them the brutal burocracies that alienated the people of Malaya, Burma, and India. A good many of Britain's difficulties would disappear if they'd accept our helpful suggestions and we suspect there are a lot of Englishmen who know it.

TRY AGAIN, MR. CAREY.

Peter B. Carey, the sheriff elect, says that he is going to try to find a way to run the office he will assume next week with 50 fewer highway deputies than it now has.

Mr. Carey is taking office under obviously favorable circumstances, since he succeeds the noisome Thomas J. O'Brien. The Kelly-Nash gang has rewarded Blind Tom for his four years of magnificent neglect of duty by restoring him to his old job as a rubber stamp congressman.

In view of his predecessor's record, Mr. Carey naturally had a harder time getting elected than most of the Democratic county candidates, and to get over he found it necessary to make a few reflections on the life and works of the statesman O'Brien. He assured the electorate that he could do better and it was at least conceded that he couldn't do worse.

However, since even comic strip statesmen have their feelings, the incumbent sheriff was a little miffed at the campaign tactics of his successor. He may very well have failed to share with Mr. Carey the secrets of his office, or even such an open fact as that a year ago, when the county commissioners and the circuit judges were crazy with the heat emanating from the Morrison hotel, the sheriff snagged himself an extra 100 highway deputies.

Thus Mr. Carey should try again. Fifty deputies isn't enough. He should shed the whole hundred, and starting from there apply the same 25 per cent cut that the judges' committee on help is asking all county fee officers to make.

The excuse that extra deputies are needed for investigation of suspicious persons and protection of war plants does not hold water. Those extra duties may very well exist, but if they do they should be performed by the state or the FBI, which have adequate revenue, or in the case of plant security, by the plants themselves, which can charge it to the government.

This recommendation isn't based on any high flown theories of political science—merely on the fact that revenue is available for the work elsewhere, while the county government is already as broke as the rest of us are going to be when the New Dealers get thru with us.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE.

The fire department, upon complaint of his neighbors, caught up with one individual who had stored 85 gallons of unrationed gasoline in his garage and forced him to pour it down the sewer. Last week-end saw a tremendous run on the filling stations and hundreds, if not thousands, of motorists, not content with filling the tanks of their cars, had gasoline placed in all manner of containers. Neighbors who know of any such hoards can report them to the fire department without any conscientious qualms about being snoopers. Such storage of gasoline is prohibited because it is extremely dangerous and any one who violates the law is a menace to his neighbors.

BLOCK THAT SNEEZE.

Our colleague, Mr. Orr, says that for his part he left his car in the garage. Glowing with patriotic fervor, he took the train. It was the first time he had employed the common carrier in quite a while and the experience would have been as pleasurable as it was novel save for the sneezing and coughing, without benefit of handkerchief, of the man in the seat immediately behind. Mr. Orr asks us to say [provided we share his views] that the conduct of his neighbor was reprehensible because anti-social.

We do so think. We do so say. The combination of chilly houses and overcrowded cars and buses will mean a lot of illness in this town this winter unless those who have colds observe the amenities of civilized behavior. As a matter of fact, people with colds ought to stay at home, in bed, until the infection is gone. If they can't do that, they ought at least to minimize the risk to their fellow men by blocking that sneeze.

The late Dr. Stock had an idea that might be adapted to such situations as Mr. Orr described. When some cougher in the audience was ruining a pianissimo Dr. Stock would pull out a handkerchief and wave it behind him with his left hand as he continued to beat time with his right. It almost always worked. We suggest that if the persons in the neighborhood of the train wheezers would take out their handkerchiefs and wave them, their protest would be made manifest. In cases of extreme obtuseness, a kick in the shins will help.

WHILE THE RATIONERS PLAY.

When Mayor La Guardia and the other tender flowers on the east coast started their spread of the suffering campaign, it was quickly demonstrated that gas rationing could not be justified in the middle west on the grounds of any gasoline shortage. The administration then fell back on the contention that rationing was necessary to save rubber.

But if gasoline rationing could not be justified on the grounds of a gasoline shortage, how can rationing of furnace oil in this area be justified at all, except that it pleases La Guardia and others like him to see the rest of the country suffering? There is no shortage of furnace oil in Chicago or its immediate area. This city does not need tank cars to supply it, so no transportation facilities are used that might be diverted to relieve the east. Our oil comes by pipe line. The rationing of oil can't save a pound of rubber and the silly regulations which the burocrats have promulgated are actually wasting rubber. They are requiring that the householder take two deliveries when one would do, and are demanding that people convert furnaces to the use of coal of which nearly twice as great a tonnage has to be handled—and not thru any pipe line—in order to supply the same amount of heat.

Some one tells Americans that it will be a good thing for them to reduce the heat in their homes to 65 degrees. That may be all right for healthy adults, altho even they may suffer impaired health in many instances. It is obviously not all right for either young children or older people. Special provision is supposed to have been made for them, but in a number of instances in which higher temperatures are essential, not only to the health but the actual survival of elderly people and invalids, the local rationing boards, handicapped by the regulations promulgated by the crackpots in Washington, have allowed only an extra 100 gallons of oil.

Congress must take charge and put an end to all such rationing cruelties. Congress assumed that the war powers voted to the President would be used wisely. Instead, the New Deal tormenters are using them for the delight of exerting authority while they make merry with the royal exiles in the hectic atmosphere of Washington.

Congress is realizing its mistake. The President's demand for blanket power to annul laws has had a cold reception. If Mr. Roosevelt gets anything in that direction it will be in a strictly circumscribed area in which evidence must be presented to congress that action is necessary. The day of broad grants of power, it is to be hoped, is coming to a close. The new congress meeting next month should audit the grants already made and where they have been abused revoke them. Nowhere has the abuse been greater than in the field of rationing.

SHOES FOR THE ARABS.

Our government has announced that consumer goods of various kinds are being assembled for shipment to North Africa. Paper, foodstuffs, clothing, kerosene, matches, soap, are among the articles to be exported. A dispatch from New York adds that the markets there are being combed for such scarce items as women's stockings and shoes, tho it seems to be generally agreed that the natives in the French colonies and even their grandees customarily go barefoot. Because of that habit, indeed, the Arab women are supposed to have the most beautiful feet in the world.

The quantities of merchandise being assembled do not appear to be important, at least as yet. We should think the price a reasonable one to pay, provided in return we obtain a friendly and coöperative population in the occupied zone.

Assuredly, it will do our cause no harm to let the nations know that when the army of the United States enters a territory the populace benefits. At the same time we can see no need to carry this thing to excess. We don't have to give away anything to anybody who can afford to buy it. Neither do we have to undertake to change the habits of the natives while we have a war to fight. If we must put shoes on the Arabs, we can wait at least until the war is won.

The danger in endeavors of this kind is that they will be taken over by do-gooders of the New Deal moved by missionary zeal. We hope that the plans will be referred from time to time to Gen. Eisenhower for review.

Editorial of the Day

THE LITERAL MIND.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Wartime brings a plethora of regulation, which catapults inexperienced, well meaning, untrained people into positions of authority over their fellows. Rationing is perhaps the most extreme example. The rationing of a commodity in general use is a vast undertaking, calling for the drafting of regulations to apply uniformly to millions of cases and calling also for the services of many, many thousands of persons who cannot possibly have much training for their exacting duties.

Consequently, there are many unfortunate incidents. There is the woman whose husband is in the armed forces in England, whose automobile is in her husband's name. Altho he provided his wife with a power of attorney before he left, a grimly determined rationer refused an "A" card to the woman, waved away the power of attorney, and insisted that the army officer come back from England to sign the application!

Such experiences as this are embittering the victims. But for every such case there are thousands who get along tolerably. There is another type of difficulty, seen in selective service and now again in gasoline rationing. One board follows a rigorous policy, another a casual policy. One hews to the letter of the law, another searches for the spirit. The result is gross inequality between groups of persons in different areas.

The moral, if there is one, is simply that rationing is a wholly unnatural interference with our normal economy, and ought to be limited to the very minimum number of commodities and services. Some we must have. But the fewer items subjected to restraint, the simpler it will be for the nation to survive the ordeal of war.

THE PAINTING DUTCHMEN.

This column is happy to report that Chicago's prize Rembrandt, which has hung in the Art institute since 1894, more than holds its own with other examples of that Dutch master in the current touring exhibition of ancient all-stars from Holland. It's the Rembrandt we would have wrapped up to take home, if permitted—the familiar "Girl at a Half-Open Door." We have always wondered if this chubby maid wasn't taking a sly peek up the street at a sailor.

The war creeps into this peaceful exhibition on the title of a small picture by Frans Hals—"The Rommel-Pot Player." You immediately think of a certain German general who is now on the run in Libya. A rommel-pot appears to be a tin can with a lid bearing a piston, and no doubt the grinning tramp who holds it under his arm can play tunes on it, for he is surrounded by happy children. . . . The art critics, who live in a world of their own, have not yet explained the connection, if any, between the rommel-pot and Gen. Rommel.

Observe Jan Steen's "A Domestic Scene," representing a Dutch mama spreading a lunch for her hungry tribe in the kitchen. This is its first time out of Windsor castle, and George VI. is named as contributor. Its long residence among British royalty has given it an English look, somehow. Maybe the dog in the foreground conveys this suggestion.

Nominated for hanging over the high seat of Sir Bacchus at meetings of the Wine and Food society: Frans Hals' "The Merry Lute Player." The minstrel in this masterpiece is more interested in his glass of wine than in his lute. What vineyard, we wonder, produces a blue-green wine? This picture seems to reside in Chicago; the estate of John R. Thompson is named as lender.

Problem: Find the missing man in "A Delft Courtyard," by Pieter de Hooch. He has been painted out, but the Mellon collection in Washington contains a later version in which the phantom has reappeared in person.

Said a Chicago artist in hopeless admiration of these pictures that have retained their original brightness for 300 years: "I don't know what they used. Apparently it wasn't paint."

UNIFORMS IN THE OFFICE.

Their leaves are short, but none has ever failed
To visit those of us who stay behind;
And in the tales that each one has unveiled
We learn of camps where heart, and hand, and mind
Are trained in all the harsh demands of strife
To fit them for their duties—and their fame.
Clear-eyed, sun-bronzed, they bring a breath of life
To humdrum rooms where days are all the same;
And when they've left we turn again to toil
That must be done, the littered desks piled high;
Yet for a little while our thoughts' turmoil
Sees only marching feet, and flags that fly,
As wistfully we envy those who go
On high adventure where the strange winds blow.

Quizzicuss.

A Voice from the Golden Gate.

Linemaster: Well, sir, I've been in San Francisco now for three weeks and I feel just like the horse I saw in a picture. Tremendous fire at South San Francisco stockyard; picture showed three horses silhouetted by hundred foot blaze; subhead, "Horses unperturbed by blaze." I can just imagine Joe Horse sayin', "Come on, Charley, let's get outa here," and Charley Horse replyin', "Stick around, Joe; this is the first time I've been warm since I hit this damtown." The Quizzical Queen of Crete.

I heard two roisterers chant this song, of origin unknown to them and me:

I shall make a song of the Queen of Crete,
Who had nine panthers at her feet;
Who wore bright brooches in her hair,
And her private life was her own affair.
I shall also sing in a minor note
Of the thong she wore about her throat;
Of the sailor men in the Indian sea
To bring her a bed of ivory;
Of the little Negro diving girls
Who burst their drums to give her pearls;
Of the hewers of stone and the hewers of wood,
And the bones on which her palace stood.
But her private life was her own affair,
And she had bright brooches in her hair,
And a Tyrian purple robe of state,
And lord and slave to decapitate,
And always a lover at the gate.
And always a thong about her throat
(But sing it still in a minor note),
A woven thong at the lady's throat.
But whether she died in her ivory bed,
Or was garroted or lost her head,
The ancient chronicler hasn't said,
But the Queen of Crete is very dead.
The Queen stood here and watched the sea
And her ship come home with ivory,
And her ship come home with laden hold,
With spice, and frankincense, and gold,
And the sea saw all and the sea is deep,
And the sea forgets and goes to sleep.

Pale Horses for Warriors.

Among the famous cavalry regiments mounted entirely upon gray horses was England's Scots Grays, mechanized a few years ago. Another was the First Lifeguard Hussars of the German army, who wore black uniforms with a skull in metal to ornament the busby. They were disbanded after World War I. Until 1900 every German cavalry band was mounted on grays or whites.

THE HEALING POWER OF VITAMIN C.

IF YOU receive a sizable bump or experience a wound of some sort, make sure that your diet contains a generous quota of vitamin C. We Americans scarcely realize how fortunate we are. Our menus are rich in this element. Now and then, however, because of odd eating habits, some individuals may not secure enough. In consequence, prompt recovery from an injury may be impossible. It has been demonstrated beyond question that large amounts of C will speed the repair of tissues.

Altho recent experiments have provided the explanation, the fact was known long ago. In the middle of the 18th century it was noted that sailors subject to scurvy [lack of C] would frequently become incapacitated because old scars would dissolve, with the reappearance of open sores. In addition bones that had mended would loosen.

One of the most devastating conditions in our own Civil war had to do with the absence of an adequate quantity of C from the soldier's diet. Modern concepts of nutrition insure proper proportions of all the vitamins in the rations of our fighting forces.

The concentrated form of C [ascorbic acid] may be administered to patients who have undergone surgery, as well as to those who are convalescing from illnesses. Tests have shown that with deprivation of this material, the healing of a simple incision will be long delayed. In fact, it may not take place because the power of the body to return to normal has been destroyed.

But what a change occurs when this important substance is made available! As the level in the circulation rises, the gluing process begins and may be complete in little more than a week. This holds great significance, particularly to those who have been operated on or who have suffered lacerations.

All we need to do is to furnish eggs, oranges, grapefruit, or tomato juice in such additional quantities as will supply the necessary accessories. In the hospital with which I am associated this has been standard practice for several years. It seems to be strikingly valuable with older persons who perhaps do not digest and absorb nutriments readily.

While C seems to be the chief agent of repair, all classes of foods will be required. We must make certain also that there is an ample allowance of minerals. But more spectacular results follow dosing with C when the need has been discovered.

Not long ago a 54 year old woman went thru extensive removal of diseased organs within the pelvis. Altho her blood appeared to be normal, she did not progress. It was found that the percentage of vitamin C in the vital organs was extremely low. Two glasses of orange juice and a half ounce of cod liver oil were then added to each feeding. Furthermore, ascorbic acid was injected directly into a vein. Within two weeks the incision had closed entirely and the patient stated that she felt better than she had in years.

We can scarcely expect the body to exist, much less take on the extra load of getting well, unless resistance is high. But we should not wait until the presence of an ulcerated area tells us that reënforcements are demanded.

LUNG INFECTION.

Mrs. H. M. writes: My mother has had virus pneumonia for two months. What is this disease?

REPLY.

Virus infections of the lungs do not follow the pattern of inflammation established by bacteria. In consequence, management differs. Heat [diathermy] is usually helpful.

INFECTED EAR.

F. P. writes: Is chronic mastoiditis serious?

REPLY.

Not to be invited or even trifled with. It carries a potential threat. The infection should be cleared up as soon as possible. In this connection, the sulfonamide drugs may be of value.

TRADES IN RATIONED GOODS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—I note that it is a serious offense for a private citizen to give away or sell, even at cost, any surplus of rationed sugar, coffee, etc. I have no doubt that this part of the ration laws is being widely broken, for it is human nature to want to give a relative or friend suffering privation what one has a surplus of. Thus we have one feature of the ration laws which, like some features of the prohibition laws, leads to a disrespect for law.

It seems to me that it would help to prevent hoarding if the rule against giving away or selling a part of their rationed goods were modified. For example, my wife likes grapefruit juice and cereal for breakfast, but drinks no coffee. I like coffee, but do not use fruit juices or cereals. Because of this fact, we find our ration allowance of sugar and coffee ample. This suggests that if every family were allowed to exchange with some other family surpluses of sugar, coffee, meat, etc., so that the needs of each family would be better satisfied, the pressure of rationing would be greatly relieved. CONSTANT READER.

FOUND THE NAVY COURTEOUS.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—I notice in THE TRIBUNE today that AEF Vet accuses the navy construction battalion of being snobby. Maybe so; but here is my experience with the same people: I called relative to the possibility of commissions in the dock loading and unloading unit of the navy and was advised and requested to come down for an interview.

No one could have been more courteous than the officer who received me and the rest of the office personnel. They were all anxious to help me. When I took my physical examination, every person connected with the navy was just as courteous as could be and the officer in charge treated me like a long lost friend. I, incidentally, have no college degree and no political pull. ANOTHER AEF VET.

FUGITIVES FROM FIGHTING.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—I am an employé of the bureau of public debt, United States treasurer's office, located in the Merchandise Mart. We have a large number of young, able bodied men holding key positions and doing work which can be done by any girl of average intelligence. I wonder where and how they get their drag with their draft boards? Is it possible that their clannish bosses are obtaining stays for them by writing a letter requesting that they be deferred because of their necessary work? What a laugh! A GIRL EMPLOYEE.

APPROPRIATE MEMORIAL.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 17.—After the war is over I suggest that the Germans be required to erect a monument and have inscribed upon it: "They that take the sword shall perish by sword." I think the same should be required of the Japanese. W. B. LOWRANCE.

A PLAN INCREASING CONGESTION.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 26.—The staggered work schedule that the so-called experts have adopted to relieve congestion on our transportation system is the worst example of muddling I have ever seen. No better example of the "cart before the horse" can be found.

Closing offices half an hour earlier and leaving department stores open half an hour later gives the office workers anything from three-quarters of an hour to an hour to do their shopping in the evening, as there is nothing in the Constitution that compels an office worker to go home when his work is finished. We will find that 6 o'clock in the evening congestion will be the worst in the history of the city.

If the experts had reversed this schedule, that is, closed the department stores at 5 p. m. and the offices at 5:30 p. m., then the department store employés would be out of the way and the 5:30 p. m. office worker would have no congestion of transportation to face.

OAK PARKER.

GAS RATIONING ON THE FARM.

Francesville, Ind., Nov. 27.—I am farming a 320 acre farm, with 280 acres under cultivation. In 1941 I bought a new truck to help us out with our work. Have just received word from the government that I can't use the truck to drive more than 178 miles in three months or less than two miles a day. I can't use more than 12 gallons of gasoline in three months, which is less than one gallon a week, and I must have the tires inspected every two months, or every 119 miles, to see if I have burned the tread off. No one can tell us if we can have any gasoline to run our farm tractor this coming season. You can find thousands of farmers ready to sell out as we don't know where we stand. T. J. KINGMAN.

GOUGING THE SOLDIERS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—After spending the week-end in a town near Camp McCoy, I am doubly proud to say I'm from Chicago, where the soldiers are given the best we can serve them.

This is just one instance. A menu in a small restaurant formerly read: "Fried spring chicken, 35 cents," but the price for a quarter-chicken has now been changed to 75 cents. By holding the menu to the light, we could read the blacked-out 35 cents.

I think this is pretty mean, because we all know our soldiers never have enough money to spend and highway robbery should be stopped in camp towns. AN ARMY WIFE.

WANTS A MORATORIUM ON FOREIGN WORDS.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 13.—How long, O, how long, must a bored and weary public wait for the news writers and commentators to acquire sufficient command of the English language to express themselves without using Hitler propaganda coinage, such as "strafe," "blitzkrieg," "total war," etc.

Half of the poor fellows can't even pronounce these propaganda words correctly, which makes it all the more irksome. If the English language is inadequate for our expressions, then please let us borrow words from some of our decent neighbors, instead of from Hitler.

JOHN I. SHAFER.

COURTROOM FLAGS.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—During our recent heated election we heard many times from the mental giants in the Kelly-Nash gang that Republicans are lovers of Hitler and the Nazi flag, and that Democrats are the only pure Americans with true love for the American flag.

Send a reporter to the Castle of Iniquities and Inequities called our City Hall. Have him check on the filthy condition of the flags in courtrooms. They are so black from neglect they look like Mussolini's famous dirty shirt.

Yet Ed says his boys love the flag and the rest of us do not.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Thirteen years ago a house was left to five brothers. During this year it was sold and the amount received divided among them, each one receiving $500. Will this $500 have to be included in the income tax form as part of 1942 income? L. B.

No. It is the difference between the purchase price and the selling price that is income. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 38.

1. Orography is the study of which of the following?
   Metals Mountains Insects Plants.
2. Which one of these is inappropriate in this general grouping?
   Garand Enfield Springfield Royal.
3. The "Blue Birds" is an organization whose members are Camp Fire Girls Girl Scouts 4-H Club Girls Bird Lovers.
4. Which one of these furnishes the greatest source of income for the internal revenue department?
   Narcotic licenses Inheritance taxes Income taxes Poll taxes.
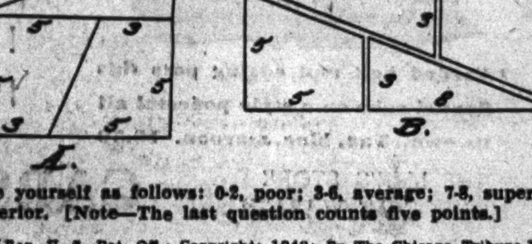
5. Which one of these farm crops to be harvested next summer is already planted? Corn Soy beans Oats Rye.
6. Take a piece of paper 8 inches on each side. Its area is 64 square inches. Cut it along the lines indicated in Figure "A" below. Then reassemble the cut pieces as in Figure "B." But now you have a figure that is 8 plus 5, or 13 inches long and 5 inches wide, making an area of 65 square inches. How do you explain this increase in area?



Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

TANK DESTROYER TROOPS NEWEST BRANCH OF ARMY

Train at Camp Hood with Own General Staff.

track. It will weigh approximately 16 tons, about half that of the M-4 tank.

At present the anti-aircraft support for the destroyer is mounted on a half track vehicle or a weapons carrier, but as the new destroyer gets into quantity production it is planned to adopt it as a chassis for mounting twin .50 caliber machine guns, in combination with an American 37 mm. or a 40 mm. Bofors gun for resisting enemy aircraft. The new destroyer will fire a new three inch projectile.

Direct, aimed fire is the destroyer technique. The gun is a high velocity rifle. Unlike the artillery's howitzer, which has a high trajectory and is usually fired at unseen targets, the three inch gun is sighted in about the same way a rifle is aimed.

Planes to Be Eyes.

For this reason, the light airplane with which Gen. Bruce is experimenting for his force serves principally as an aid in reconnaisance, and not for firing observation as these grasshopper planes are used in the artillery.

The tank destroyers are entirely mechanized. Five men form the crew of the main gun carrier, four to serve the gun and a driver. This is about half as many as handle a similar gun in the artillery. Troops of supply, ammunition and protection ride in an armored jeep expressly developed for the destroyers and in reconnaisance and command cars.

Practically every car is equipped with two way radio of a new secret type.

Men were originally assigned to the destroyer center from other branches. They wear the color insignia of the artillery, infantry, engineers, cavalry and signal corps, but are unified by the shoulder patch. Those who came first are now training enlisted men or instructing in destroyer tactics in the school administered by Brig. Gen. Hugh Mayberry.

1,700 Officer Candidates.

Approximately 1,700 of the school's 5,000 students are officer candidates. The remainder are officers taking advanced courses, or enlisted men being trained as specialists. Officer candidates are being graduated at the rate of 175 each week.

Altho not yet assigned its individual color insignia, which will mean its official designation as the army's fourteenth fighting force, the destroyers have been given the right to enlist men of 18 and 19, who may choose this service when entering the army without first going thru some other branch.

"For tank destroyers we want vigorous, aggressive young men who are seeking something of the unusual in the army and are still in the stage of life where imagination is unhampered," Gen. Bruce said.

All Youngsters Make Grade.

There have been comparatively few 18 and 19 year old candidates in the officer school because they are only now coming in, but in the seven classes that have already graduated, not one candidate in this age group has failed. There are 16 men of 18 and 19 in the officer school at present.

Work of the officer candidates is 15 per cent theoretical and 85 per cent practical. They spend 27 hours in automotive study; 14 in communications; 53 in pioneer [engineers]; 169 in military tactics; 229 in weapons; 90 in administration; 33 in athletics.

VICTIMS OF FIRE BURIED AS GRAND JURY CONVENES

Army, Navy to Probe Cafe Disaster.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 2 (AP).—An assertion that a revolving door cost two or three hundred lives in the Cocoanut Grove fire and testimony that originally fireproofed decorations required annual reflameproofing were given to a board of inquiry today as the toll of lives in the disaster reached toward 500. Latest figures placed the death list at 490. Among the last victims identified was Harry C. McMullen, 724 Jefferson street, Gary, Ind.

While law enforcement officials pressed their plans for presentation of evidence for action by a grand jury, possibly next week, church bells tolled for more than 100 funeral services in various New England communities, some of them marking the burial of two or three persons in the same family.

Had Exits for 1,937.

James H. Mooney, Boston building commissioner, told an investigating board that on the basis of the building laws the Cocoanut Grove provided normal egress for 1,397 persons, and when asked how many exits should be provided for a panic crowd, he answered:

"I don't believe a panic crowd could be handled even if more exits were provided. I think there would have been a great loss of life."

Doubts Exits Were Reached.

Asked how he accounted for the great loss of life at the night club, Mooney said:

"I don't believe most of the people reached the exits."

Meanwhile revised figures of the Boston committee on public safety showed 490 lost their lives in the holocaust and 174 other persons were in hospitals. Only three unidentified bodies remained in Boston mortuaries.

Ruben O. Bodenhorn, Boston, a designer of night clubs, told of the fireproofing of the Cocoanut Grove. He said the decorative materials were fireproofed when installed but required reflameproofing at least once a year.

George J. Hayes of Quincy, a patron, said at the inquest:

"If it wasn't for that revolving door two or three hundred persons could have gotten out."

Commissioner Agrees.

Fire Commissioner William A. Reilly interjected:

"I think you're right."

As reaction to the fire spread, the day's developments included:

District Attorney William J. Foley indicated he possibly would go before a grand jury with evidence early next week.

Several witnesses, guests or employés of the club, told their stories to a separate inquiry conducted by state officials behind closed doors.

Boston army and navy headquarters revealed they would conduct their own inquiries into the disaster.

ACCUSER OF NASH AIDS LATE; VOTE CHARGES HELD UP

Twenty Democratic precinct captains of the 42d ward appeared before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday, but plans for filing formal charges accusing them of writing fake names on a Republican primary election petition were delayed when the prospective complainant, whose name was not revealed, failed to appear on time. Assistant State's Attorney Nathan F. Kinnally told Judge Jarecki the complainant would appear today and the proceedings were continued. If convicted, the men may be imprisoned for one year or fined.

The prospective defendants number 22 but one of them, George W. Dunne, 2434 Berenice avenue, formerly an employé of the Chicago park district, was reported to be in the army, and another, John B. Romano, 1011 Hudson avenue, formerly employed in the city clerk's office, was excused from appearing because he is working in a defense plant.

The men, who are the backbone of the Kelly-Nash political organization in the near north side ward, refused to answer at a previous hearing when asked if they wrote the names on a petition filed in behalf of John Philp, an attorney who sought the Republican nomination for probate judge.

2 ROB MINISTER AND TRUSTEES; NAB $882 IN BAG

A masked robber, armed with a shot gun, entered the basement of the Archer Avenue Christian Reform church, 6059 Archer avenue, last night and forced the minister and 12 trustees to one side of the room while a companion, armed with two pistols, took $882 from a bag on the table. The Rev. Theodore erbulst, 6061 Archer avenue, pastor of th echurch, told police that the money had been collected for church expenses and charity and that the meeting had been called to apportion it.

BABY DIES IN CARRIAGE.

Martin Van Buren.

New York, Dec. 2 [Special].—Martin Van Buren, last surviving grandson of the eighth President of the United States, was found dead today in a chair in the lobby of the Murray Hill hotel, where he had lived alone when in New York for the last 25 years. He was 86 years old and unmarried. He had died of natural causes. When found he had $2,500 in his pocket in $50 bills.

The President's grandson had never engaged in any business or profession, belonged to no clubs and never mingled in society. Altho he had a substantial income, he once remarked that he owned no property and that his possessions consisted solely of three suitcases of clothing.

William Westbury.

Canastota, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—William Westbury, 72 years old, a pioneer in the manufacture of glass by machinery, died today. After working for the American Glass company at Janette, Pa., he patented his own ideas in machine manufacture and at Okmulgee, Okla., built what was said to be the largest factory west of the Mississippi, installed his machines and managed the factory until 1927. Later he modernized factories at Carney, Kas., Fort Smith, Ark., Wichita Falls, Tex., Santa Ana, Cal., and Port Marion, Pa.

Herman Lapins.

Services for Herman Lapins who died yesterday in the Jewish Old People's home, where he had lived for three years, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 5206 Broadway. Mr. Lapins, who was 90 years old, was born in Sweden and came to Chicago in 1881. Under the family name, Lapinsky, which he later shortened to Lapins, he was widely known as a chamois and sponge wholesaler. He retired 10 years ago. Two sons, three daughters, 17 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren survive.

Mrs. Daisy Heist.

Funeral services for Mrs. Daisy Heist, 82 years old and for many years a resident of Oak Park, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at 720 Lake street in the suburb. She died Monday night in her summer home at Lake Gem, Fla. Mrs. Heist was the widow of John Heist, retired laundry company president. A daughter and two sons survive.

H. B. Ramey.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 2 [Special].—H. B. Ramey, 83 years old, a traveling salesman for 35 years and in recent years manager of several apartments in Champaign, died last night. He is survived by three sons—Robert of Peoria, Frank of Champaign, and Capt. Richard Ramey of Selfridge field, Michigan. Funeral services will be Friday.

Mrs. Katharine G. Champe.

Funeral services for Mrs. Katharine G. Champe, wife of Charles Champe, a commercial artist, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in Covenant Methodist church, Evanston. She died yesterday at her home, 2830 Park place, Evanston, at the age of 70 years. She is survived by her husband and two sons.

Prof. Alan Porter.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—Alan Porter, 43 years old, associate professor of English at Vassar college, died last night after a long illness. He was born in Indianapolis and received his education in England. Porter was the author of "The Signature of Pain" and had been a member of the Vassar faculty 10 years.

Lieut. Gen. Jeudwine.

LONDON, Dec. 3 [Thursday]—(AP).—Lieut. Gen. Hugh Sandham Jeudwine, 80 years old, World war commander of the noted 55th division and former director-general of the territorial army, died yesterday at Camberley.

Dr. Herbert H. Foster.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 2 [Special].—Dr. Herbert H. Foster, head of the Beloit college department of education for 20 years, died Tuesday night at his home here. He was 67 years old. He is survived by his widow and a sister.

HOLDS AXIS CAN'T CATCH UP WITH U. S. TANK RANGE

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—American tank design is so far ahead of the Germans that the Nazis "never will catch up," Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell Jr., United States army chief of ordnance, predicted tonight in his first interview since his return from the African war front.

Our M-4 tanks, which the British refer to as the "General Shermans," have a devastating effect on the Nazis at a range of 2,000 yards—700 yards farther than the effectiveness of German tanks, he said.

Praising the manner in which the British 8th army handled the American tanks in its recent offensive against Marshal Erwin Rommel, Gen. Campbell said the German rout was so complete that they "left behind a sample of everything ol' Rommel had, including his shoes." He said he believed he could provide ammunition for any units of the French fleet that joined the allies before the normal ammunition supply on these vessels was exhausted.

DIES OF INJURIES AFTER CAR SKIDS ON ICY STREET

Mrs. Hubert De Lorme Victim of Crash.

Mrs. Pearl De Lorme, wife of Hubert De Lorme, head of a credit and adjustment company bearing his name at 100 North La Salle street, died yesterday in Martha Washington hospital of a skull fracture suffered Tuesday in an accident at Western avenue and Grace street. She was in a car driven by her son, Hubert Jr., 17 years old, when it skidded on the icy pavement and crashed into a street car and a truck. She was 42 years old and lived at 2300 Sunnyside avenue.

Fall from Car Fatal.

Mrs. Alice Parmlee, 45, of 1207 Jackson street, Joliet, died in Safford, Ariz., of injuries suffered Sunday when she fell from her husband's car while reaching for her dog which had leaped thru the door. She and her husband, Harry Parmlee, were on their way to San Diego, Cal. With them were three soldiers.

Kenneth Veemstra, 8, of 15343 8th avenue, Phoenix, died in Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of injuries suffered Tuesday. He had hitched his sled to a truck in 155th street near his home, then while in motion, veered outward and under the wheels of a car. In the car were his own parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Veemstra, with Veemstra at the wheel.

Dies as Car Hits Culvert.

John W. Trigg, 58, an Illinois Central railroad engineer who resided at Wonder Lake, near Ringwood, in McHenry county, was found dead in the wreckage of his car which had left the highway on route No. 120 near the Lake-McHenry county line and crashed into a culvert. Coroner John L. Taylor of Lake county said he would hold an inquest. Dr. Taylor said he believed Trigg fell asleep at the wheel while driving to his home.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 614 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 465 died in Chicago where 18,270 were injured during the same period.

4 HURT AS COACH OF CHICAGO TRAIN LEAVES TRACKS

Four persons suffered minor injuries yesterday when a day coach on the Michigan Central's Wolverine, bound from Chicago to Detroit, was derailed at Waverly road, between Porter and Chesterton, Ind. Indiana state police said an axle of the coach broke. It was the only car of the eight car train to leave the rails. Temperatures ranging about four degrees above zero hampered wrecking crews which were trying to clear the double track line tied up by the wreck.

The injured, all of whom were treated in Porter Memorial hospital, Valparaiso, Ind., are Ernest Bensi, 110 North 6th street, Springfield, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Murray, 408 North Crawford street, West Frankfort, Ind., and Edward Mohan, 508 Maple street, Springfield, Ill. They were riding in cars ahead of and behind the derailed coach.

WOMAN FORGER GIVEN 3 YEARS ON PROBATION

Miss Dorothy E. Haglund of Ottawa, Ill., was placed on probation for three years yesterday by Judge William J. Campbell in the federal District court on her plea of guilty to a charge of forging medical prescriptions for habit forming drugs. She is 37 years old and a nurse. Assistant United States Attorney Mary Bailey told the court that Miss Haglund had forged 53 prescriptions, in the names of three physicians, to get a total of 1,060 drug tablets for her own use. Miss Haglund promised to seek a cure.

STEAM BLAST KILLS ENGINEER.

Thomas Hannasin, 46 years old, 6424 South Artesian avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when a steam pipe burst in the institutional department of the Jewish Children's bureau at 6208 Drexel avenue, where he was a building engineer. He died last night in Columbus Memorial hospital.

LIEUT. NOYES AND WIFE TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Lieut. John High Noyes and his wife, Mrs. Dorothea Felt Noyes, victims of the Boston night club fire, will be held at 11:15 a. m. today in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. Short services will follow at 1 p. m. in Rosehill cemetery chapel. Lieut. Noyes was 40 years old and his wife 39.

The couple resided at 210 South Ridge road, Lake Forest. Lieut Noyes was the son of Ernest Noyes, a retired executive of the Aluminum Corporation of America. He served as a civilian pilot along the north shore with the Civilian Air patrol before his enlistment in the navy last June. After receiving his commission he trained at Cornell university for two months. The couple was living in Cambridge, Mass., where Lieut. Noyes was attending the navy's communications school at Harvard university at the time they were killed.

Mrs. Noyes, who was prominent in war work in the suburb, was the daughter of the late Dorr Eugene Felt, president of Felt & Tarrant Manufacturing Co., and inventor of the comptometer. The couple leaves two sons, John H. Jr., and Nicholas, who live at their Lake Forest home.

WARNS CHARITIES TO OBEY 8 HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN

Attorney General George F. Barrett, in an opinion yesterday, ruled that charitable institutions are subject to the state's eight hour working law governing women. The opinion was written at the request of the Jefferson county state's attorney, who said officials of the Orphans' and Children's home in Mount Vernon believed they were not governed by the act.

"The legislature has made no distinction between charitable and noncharitable institutions, but by its language has directed that the act be applicable to all institutions alike," said Barrett's opinion.

He cited a decision of the Illinois Supreme court in a similar case involving the old 10 hour work law for women. In this case the court held that it made no difference what kind of an institution might be involved.

ILLINOIS BOY'S STEER IS JUNIOR CHAMP AT SHOW

Fat Stock Winner Raised by Youth, 16.

TO Masterpiece, a Hereford raised by T. Richard Lacy Jr., 16 years old, of Kansas, Edgar county, Ill., was named junior grand champion steer of the Chicago Market Fat Stock show at the stock yards yesterday. The reserve junior grand champion, an Aberdeen-Angus, was exhibited by Howard Johnson, 16, and his sister Mildred, 11, of Ida Grove, Ia.

Young Lacy's steer, which weighs 1,135 pounds, will compete today with the entries of adult cattle men in the contest to select the grand champion of the show. Last year he showed the junior champion steer of the International Live Stock exposition, and this animal went on to win the reserve grand championship.

Father Is Cattle Breeder.

Lacy's father is one of the best known cattle breeders in the central west. Each year a large ranch in New Mexico sends his son a calf as a birthday present. The birthday calf this year carried off a blue ribbon in the lightweight Hereford class and Lacy's heavyweight entry won the junior title.

The reserve junior grand champion steer previously had been named best of the Aberdeen-Angus entries. The champion in the shorthorn division was shown by Leo P. Duer Jr., 18, of Charlotte, Ia.

Several important senior contests also were decided during the day. The University of Kentucky showed the grand champion wether, a Southdown, and also the grand champion pen of three lambs. Oklahoma A. and M. college won second place in the first of these events and Purdue university took second place with its pen of lambs.

Other Winners Listed.

The grand championship for carload feeder cattle was awarded to O. J. Hadley of Brady, Neb. His winners were Aberdeen-Angus.

The first blue ribbon of the day's judging of junior events went to Kenneth Disch, 17, Evansville, Wis., for his junior championship pen of three lambs. He exhibited Southdowns, which he bred and raised himself.

The junior champion barrow, shown by David W. Burch, 18, of Divernon, Sangamon county, was a Berkshire weighing 260 pounds. With his mother and a hired hand, young Burch operates a 320 acre farm, keeping 450 pigs, 9 Angus cattle, 2 Belgian mares, and 1,200 chickens. His father died when David was 18 months old.

The show, held in the open yards and in the sheep and cattle sheds of the stock yards, attracted only a handful of spectators, mostly contestants,

Present First Testimony in Stone Conspiracy Trial

A jury in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday heard the opening testimony in the case of four union labor leaders, two contractors, two unions, and a contracting firm accused of conspiring to violate the Sherman anti-trust laws. The government charges the defendants conspired to bar the use of cut limestone from Indiana in the construction of the South Side Vocational school altho it was obtainable at a cheaper price than stone cut by Chicago labor.

2 Men Sought by Police for Cashing Bogus Checks

Police last night were seeking two men who cashed about $500 worth of bogus checks at various currency exchanges after breaking into the C. and C. Canning company, 4122 Lake street, and stealing a quantity of blank checks, a check protector and a typewriter. They had disposed of about a dozen of the checks before noon yesterday, said Detective Walter Kelly of the Fillmore avenue station.

Elgin Hunter Brings Back 200 Pound Canadian Deer

Clarence A. Head Jr., 21 years old, 21 Hamilton avenue, Elgin, will not have any fear about the navy's toughening training, which he will start in a short time. Head returned to Elgin yesterday with a 200 pound, eight point buck deer he shot in the Kenora region of Ontario. He transported the carcass in the side car of his motorcycle. Head made part of the trip north and most of the trip home in subzero weather.

Urge Army, Navy Planes Carry Flashing Lights

The Air Lines Pilots' association, meeting in the Knickerbocker hotel, yesterday adopted a resolution urging that military and naval planes carry flashing head and tail lights as a mark of identification at night to lessen the danger of collision with other craft. The resolution was proposed by Capt. W. S. Shannon of New York, an American Airlines pilot.

4-H CLUB GIRLS RIVAL EXPERTS IN DRESS DESIGN

Model Own Creations at Style Show.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

While sleek, fatted calves and highly burnished beeves opened the 4-H junior feeding contest with a rural style show in the open Stockyards yesterday, a corps of farm girls with an eye to frugality and fashion closed the 21st annual National 4-H club congress with a show of their own in the La Salle hotel.

The girls' style show was the highlight in the closing day's program of the four day congress which heralded the opening of the Chicago Market Fat Stock show.

Acting as both modistes and mannequins, 37 farmerettes from as many states from coast to coast, displayed complete costumes that rivaled one another in both design and wartime economy. At an average of $20 for frock, hat, shoes, purses, and gloves, the young 4-H seamstresses wore tweeds and velvets, wools and ginghams in striking combinations that spoke well for rural sophistication.

Model Wash Dresses and Suits.

Completely at ease before more than 700 of their fellow 4-H club members, the contestants modeled wash dresses and suits, informal party frocks and "best" dresses.

Nine of them pinned blue ribbon awards to their outfits when the show was over. They were Mary Jane Bell, 15 years old, of Daisy, Tenn.; Mary M. Brown, 16; Hutchinson, Kas.; Luree Fuhlbrodt, 15, Blair, Neb.; Dortha Nash, 17, Foster, Okla.; Shirley Nelson, 16, Blue Earth, Minn.; Lavonne Brown, 17, Independence, Miss.; Jean Huffsmith, 15, Portland, Ore.; Elizabeth Whitfield, 17, Jefferson, Ga., and Dorothy Ulmer, 16, Bucyrus, O.

Each miss made her own costume, except for the accessories, but several versatile contestants turned out their own purses and even gloves.

Lavonne Brown, a comely, blue eyed, curly haired youngster, designed and executed with almost a professional touch a two piece, light blue ensemble, consisting of a smartly tailored dress and dressy jacket.

Designs Beret and Purse.

A freshman at Berry college, Mount Berry, Ga., where her dark haired beauty attracts much attention, Elizabeth Whitfield created a stunning black velvet costume for a "very special date" at a cost of $21.23.

A feat of tailoring was the three piece tan herringbone tweed suit made by Luree Fuhlbrodt. It consisted of the classic long jacket, plaited skirt, and casual topcoat.

Another inexpensive outfit was one designed and worn by Jean Huffsmith. With typical feminine whismy, Jean saw some buttons that she liked so she designed a dress to go with them. It was a simple wool crêpe coat dress of cinnamon brown.

A dozen 4-H girls also won $200 scholarship awards for sewing a fine seam. They were Louis Fay Simons, 17, Yuma, Ariz.; Mildred E. Reed, 18, Bristol, Conn.; Eva Mae Jones, 17, Hahira, Ga.; Margaret Webb, 20, Mount Vernon, Ill.; Marjorie Moss, 16, Lawrenceburg, Ky.; Frances Tompson, 20, Cumberland Center, Me.; Virginia Jolson, 18, Blooming Prairie, Minn.; Barbara Krom, 17, Billings, Mont.; Kathleen Balfour, 17, Union, Neb.; Laura Lucas, 15, Lucama, N. C.; Jean Lightburn, 18, Capron, Okla., and Florence Isley, 18, Monticello, Wis.

PUPILS HELPING STEM CHRISTMAS POSTAL FLOOD

Hundreds of high school pupils have already taken their places beside full time employés of the Chicago postoffice in an endeavor to relieve the labor shortage. Ernest J. Kruetgen, postmaster, announced yesterday that many thousands of boys and girls, who must have passed their 17th birthdays, will be working part time hours for the postoffice by Dec. 15.

Most of the girls now employed are used in the letter section to sort mail. Many boys and men will be hired during the next week to work in the parcel post section. Theirs is the heavier job of classifying packages, most of which will be Christmas gifts. Students work after school.

Kruetgen urged again that Chicagoans mail their Christmas cards and gifts early.

KILL JUNKMAN'S HORSE AFTER 14 HOURS IN STREET

Criticize Delay in Ending Beast's Suffering.

Old and weak, its strength sapped by the 14 hours it lay on the icy pavement at 29th and La Salle streets while zero winds whistled around it, a junk wagon horse was put to death yesterday by the Illinois Humane society veterinarian.

James Stewart, Negro, of 2833 Federal street, owner of the horse, who kept an all night vigil and piled blankets and rags over the animal's shuddering frame, watched sadly as a bullet was put thru its brain.

In all of Chicago, where more than 3 million people slept Tuesday night in warm comfort, there was no one to help the junkman and his old horse.

All Pleas for Aid Fail.

The animal slipped on the ice about 7 p. m. Tuesday and fell. Stewart tried to get the horse up and so did persons who stopped to aid the animal as the mercury dropped and the winds blew colder. They got ashes to sprinkle beneath it, and boards, and finally blankets to cover its shivering sides.

Stewart called Sergt. Raymond Green at the 3d district police station about 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Sergt. Green said he called the fire department, which said it had no equipment for raising fallen horses. He said the Anti-Cruelty society told him they had no one working at night.

Then the sergeant called a garage which does automobile moving for the city. They had a tow truck but they told Stewart he would have to pay to use it. He had no money. Besides, two squads of policemen were unable to get the horse to stand up after it had been partly raised. Finally, every one went away leaving the junkman to make the animal as comfortable as he could.

Vet Protests Long Delay.

Dr. George Mackenzie, the Illinois Humane society veterinarian who dispatched the animal about 9:30 a. m. yesterday, said he found it in such a weakened condition that it could not live. He said that aid would have been sent Tuesday night had the Humane society been notified. Sergt. Green declared, however, that he had called the society and had been told that all the junkman could do was to get a veterinarian. Stewart had no money to pay for a doctor.

"The inhumane part of this incident is that this poor old animal had to lie in the zero weather for more than 14 hours without any aid," Dr. Mackenzie said. "It was more than 12 years old, and from its condition as I would say that it should never have been licensed for work. It seems absurd to me that some one couldn't have put the animal out of its misery Tuesday night."

Stewart objected at first to destroying the horse, saying it was his only means of livelihood.

COUNTY SCANS 1,000 TAVERNS FOR FIRE PERIL

Deputy sheriffs are inspecting this week 1,000 Cook county taverns and night clubs outside the city limits and not under jurisdiction of the city fire department for fire hazards, Chief Hugh McCarthy of the county highway police reported yesterday. "Public attention was drawn to danger of fires in night clubs by the tragedy in Boston last week-end," Chief McCarthy said, "but we have made a survey of such places every six months since 1935, when seven persons died in a fire in the Rendezvous roadhouse on Dempster road, Morton Grove."

INDICT SAVACHKA AS DRAFT DODGER UNDER 3 ALIASES

Michael Savachka, principal witness in the $910,000 looting of the retail clerks' union, was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on two counts of violating the selective service act. Assistant United States District Attorney John Owen, who presented the evidence, declared the draft laws indicate such violations should be given precedence over other District court cases, promising a speedy trial for the former $37.50 a week clerks' union secretary.

The indictment, returned to District Judge John P. Barnes, charged Savachka with failing to execute a selective service questionnaire and failing to notify his local draft board of a change in address—presumably when he fled from Chicago to Miami Beach, Fla., with Max Caldwell, the union's business manager, when an investigation of the union's empty treasury was started.

The case was assigned for trial to Judge William J. Campbell. Savachka faces a maximum penalty of five years in jail, a $10,000 fine, or both if convicted.

Must Repost Bond.

Savachka's bond was set at $5,000. He is already at liberty on a $5,000 bond set by a United States commissioner in Florida when he was arrested and returned here. He must appear again at the marshal's office with his professional bondsman to repost the bond. The indictment also named Savachka's aliases—Mike Savachka, Mike Anderson, and John Morby. His residence was given as 5415 Laflin street.

Savachka's true age is 31, altho he registered a second time with a Miami draft board, before his arrest, giving his age as 20 years. He was apprehended there on Oct. 20 on draft evasion charges, and returned here by a deputy United States marshal.

Fugitive 17 Months.

Savachka was a fugitive from June, 1941, until his arrest. He has admitted that he fled at Caldwell's instigation after members of the clerks' union sued for an accounting of their missing funds and the Cook county state's attorney started an investigation.

The suit and investigation were stalled when Caldwell and other union officers insisted that Savachka alone was responsible for the union's books and treasury. Savachka, however, has admitted he was only a stooge for Caldwell, who now lives in the $45,000 Miami Beach home he bought from Frank [the Enforcer] Nitti, Capone gangster, and publishes a weekly Miami Beach newspaper.

Clerk Robbed of Narcotic by Suspected Drug Addict

Norman Bjornson, 2052 Laramie avenue, a clerk for the Chemist Supply company, 4743 Broadway, told police that a shifty-eyed man he believed was a drug addict held him up last night and robbed him of 25 bottles of a narcotic valued at $100 in legitimate trade. Town Hall police said the price of illegal narcotics has soared to exorbitant heights since the war stopped imports from the orient.

STATE PROPERTY TAX IS WAIVED FOR TENTH YEAR

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2 (AP).—For the 10th consecutive year, the state tax rate fixing board today formally waived the levying of a state property tax for 1942. The state abolished the property tax in 1932 with the enactment of the first retailers occupational and sales tax law.

Each year however the board, composed of the governor, state auditor, and treasurer, has fulfilled a legal requirement by meeting to declare a general waiving of the property levy.

Here's Health
Malvaz

GUARD WELL—YOUR HEALTH

Are you one of the many who feel tired, nervous and worn out at the end of the day? Do you feel restless and lack energy? Do you get irritable, easily?

Lots of folks who have no organic trouble feel that way. Perhaps you don't have the proper diet, or maybe it's business troubles, or is it overwork?

Doctors will tell you a pure malt drink is an excellent "builder-upper"—and we suggest MALVAZ because MALVAZ is a delightful energy producer—and everyone should get a lot of good out of drinking it regularly—and often. MALVAZ is a pure Malt food-drink.

If you feel worn out and your nerves are on edge, enjoy the relaxing influence of this fine Malt food-drink, MALVAZ.

Many drink it as a beverage. Try a one or two dozen carton today—Call your dealer or phone CANal 6500.

WE PLANNED FOR TODAY 6 YEARS AGO

Of course, we didn't foresee the war. But we did anticipate a growing America and an accompanying need for faster, more efficient transportation. Moreover, as one of America's great railroads, we accepted our responsibility to meet this need.

Six years ago, we undertook a program of Planned Progress, to increase the efficiency and scope of Rock Island service. To this end we made many improvements. We built giant bridges; reduced grades; eliminated curves. And we reballasted and improved our roadbed, laid heavier rails, put in millions of new ties, to accommodate heavier, faster traffic.

We built one of America's largest fleets of streamlined trains—the famous ROCKETS, and put into service scores of Diesel-powered switch engines. Many modern improvements such as roller bearings have multiplied the speed and power of our steam locomotives. Every piece of rolling stock has been put in top condition.

These improvements . . . plus many more . . . have prepared Rock Island to move the men and materials of war in a precision-like, efficient manner. They make it possible for us to say to shippers that we are able to handle still more freight, despite the millions of ton-miles per day we are already carrying.

As we receive the necessary materials now on order, we shall continue to increase our ability to serve America.

FOR HOLIDAY TRAVEL—heavy troop movements, plus the many men of the armed forces on well-earned furloughs will crowd to capacity all transportation facilities. Others, traveling through necessity, should buy tickets and make reservations in advance, cancelling promptly if plans change.

Hands Given Simple Attention Will Conceal Calendar Age

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Hands, as you know, are one way to tell a woman's age. Until a certain age, 35, they can stand a lot of abuse and still be young looking, but over 35, one's hands are likely to bear telltale signs. They may tell, also, if you've been doing hard work with them. Another thing they may tell is how careful you are of your grooming habits. You could give an imaginary performance. Take your hands the way they are now, as you read this, and, with the rest of you supposedly concealed behind a curtain, push your hands thru holes in the curtain and let the audience guess all about you, from your hands! You might be surprised at some of the guesses. They might not be at all flattering.

Yet there's no reason why you shouldn't have lovely hands at any age, no matter how they are shaped or how much work you do with them. Of course, in the case of some women, arthritis or rheumatism is likely to disfigure the joints, with consequent difficulty in keeping the hands pretty.

Before we describe the fundamental hand care, we want to tell you about the case of a middle aged woman we know. She complained that her hands, always the pride and joy of her life, were getting old and wrinkled. They were fairly soft to the touch, but their wrinkled appearance belied this fact. We asked: "Do you use a hand cream or lotion often?" She admitted she did occasionally, but she would try this simple treatment three times daily, more frequently if she could. She did, and soon was pleased to notice some of the wrinkles disappear.

Well, to get back to YOUR hands. Wash them as you always do, with soap and water, during the day, but at night cleanse them first with cleansing cream or oil, then soak them in warm, soapy water for five minutes. Use a nail brush as they're soaking, to dislodge under the nail dirt. Rinse well in warm water, dry well, and gently massage them with a hand cream or lotion. While massaging, massage the cream or lotion on your finger tips, around the cuticle [pushing it back as you do so] and on up your arms to your elbows.

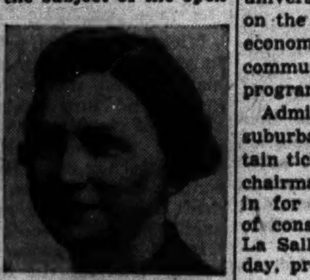
Women in War Work . . . . . By Kate Massee



Mrs. Emma Fleer Muller.

"Girls, Women, and the War Effort" will be the subject of the opening meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Palmer House of the 23d annual two day conference of the Illinois Association of Deans of Women. Mrs. Ruth McCarn of Northwestern university will lead the discussion. Serving on the discussion panel will be Third Officer Doris Epperson of the WAACs, Lieut. Mary Daily of the WAVES, and Mrs. A. K. Amburgh of the American Women's Voluntary Services.

Alice Crocker Lloyd, dean of women at the University of Michigan, will speak on "The Impact of War on the Education of Young Women" at an informal dinner meeting tomorrow evening. On Saturday she will address the conference on "Our Jobs as Counselors." The conference will close on Saturday with a luncheon, with Dr. Preston Bradley as speaker.

Mrs. Emma Fleer Muller, director of personnel at the Chicago Teachers' college, is the retiring president of the association. She will be succeeded by Miss Helen Shuman, who has served as dean of girls at Kankakee High school since 1931. Miss Melba Moore, dean of women at Wright Junior college, is chairman of arrangements for the conference.

Mrs. William H. Stanley, chairman of the consumer information service of the OCD, has announced a series of three morning meetings for consumer wardens to be held on Dec. 9, 10, and 11 from 10 until 1 o'clock in the auditorium of the Peoples Gas building.

The meetings, being conducted primarily for suburban wardens, will be a continuation of a consumer information and share the meat course held last month, and will be open to those city wardens who were unable to attend the previous meetings.

Prof. A. R. Hadopp, head of the social science department at Loyola university, will speak each morning on the place of the consumer in war economy and the function of the community warden in the wartime program.

Admission is by ticket only, and suburban wardens are asked to obtain tickets from their local consumer chairman. City wardens should write in for tickets at the Chicago office of consumer information, 228 North La Salle street, not later than Monday, preferably earlier.

Lieut. Mary Daily, woman officer in charge of naval procurement for the 9th naval district, has announced that 150 Chicago women have filed applications for enrollment in the SPARs, a new women's reserve organization of the coast guard designed to release men for active duty.

Applications for interviews must be made in writing to the recruiting office in the Board of Trade building. Women between 20 and 36 may apply for noncommissioned ratings and women between 20 and 50 for officers' ratings. Married as well as unmarried women may apply, provided their husbands are not in the coast guard. Unmarried women must agree not to marry while in training, and in no case may they marry men in the same branch of the service.

The Office of War Information has announced that women will be accepted, thru the civil service commission, as junior executives with the army ordnance service of the war department. Managerial and administrative salaries of $2,000 a year will be paid women under 40 years of age who are business administration college graduates or who have had a high school education and four years of responsible business experience.

Successful applicants will receive two months' training at Rock Island arsenal, Rock Island, Ill., preparatory to assignment to arsenals and similar ordnance establishments thruout the country. Those desiring to apply should communicate with the civil service commission, room 1107, New Postoffice building, Chicago. Potential eligibles will be interviewed by army officers on Dec. 14.

Jacqueline Cochran.

Women pilots interested in preparing to ferry military aircraft are being recruited for the women's flying training program under the army air force training command. Mrs. Ethel A. Sheehy will interview candidates all day today in room 2340-W at the Palmer House. Applicants are asked to telephone in advance for an appointment.

Jacqueline Cochran is director of the women's flying training, with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex. The training, however, is given at Houston. The course takes four months, and classes start about the middle of each month.

Candidates must be between 21 and 35 years old. They must have a valid pilot's license and be able to pass the army physical examination. Women who have been accepted now average about 150 hours of flying experience. Mrs. Sheehy is interviewing women with upward of 75 hours of flying, inasmuch as they may add hours while awaiting assignment.

Women pilots who fail to see Mrs. Sheehy today are advised to write to Miss Cochran, director, women's flying training program, Fort Worth. They should give age, experience, address, and telephone number. In that way Mrs. Sheehy can get in touch with them for interviews on her next visit here.

Chicago Woman Is Elected B'nai B'rith Council Head

Mrs. Maurice L. Turner of Chicago yesterday was elected president of the Women's Supreme Council of B'nai B'rith, national coördinating organization of the 50,000 women and girls who are members of B'nai B'rith, at its annual meeting in the Palmer House.

Grace Moore at Her Best in Role of Mimi

"LA BOHEME."

Opera in four acts with music by Giacomo Puccini, libretto by Giuseppe Giacosa and Luigi Illica from Henri Murger's "La Vie de Bohême." Presented in Italian by the Chicago Opera company at the Civic Opera house Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, 1942.

THE CAST.

Mimi	Grace Moore
Rodolfo	Armand Tokatyan
Marcello	George Czaplicki
Colline	Virgilio Lazzari
Schaunard	Stefan Kozakevich
Musetta	Dorothy Kirsten
Alcindoro	Vittorio Trevisan
Benoit	Vittorio Trevisan
Conductor	Fausto Cleva

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The only predictable thing about grand opera is that you must not underestimate its vitality. About the time you begin to wonder if it actually may be an anachronism beloved only by the faithful few, it turns in a performance so theatrically sound, so musically irresistible, that it will captivate any audience with eyes to look and ears to listen.

Such a performance was last night's "La Boheme," ideally cast with Grace Moore and Armand Tokatyan at the head of an expert troupe. Since 1942 seems to be a Grace Moore vintage year, it is not surprising that she chose it to sing her finest Mimi. Her voice had a round, golden warmth, an ease of phrasing that knew just when to intensify a beat, and that indescribable quality of timing that seems to pour a voice into the long curve of Puccini's score.

She was happier in the rôle as an actress, too. Somewhere, somehow, since last season she has stopped fighting thru with her shoulders, and has relaxed into the charm of as beguiling a heroine as the opera stage can boast. Sitting at the gay table outside the Café Momus, she was no prima donna waiting for cues, but a pretty girl fresh in love, and still young enough to eat with an appetite. She made this scene a little like Bori's used to be, even to the gay blindfolding of Rodolfo tempted by Musetta's flirtatious ankle.

Since I have been contending for seasons that Mr. Tokatyan is the best Rodolfo extant, it did not surprise me to find him just that last night. His voice is right for the rôle, with the dusky richness, the vaulting range, and above all, the ripeness of tone that gives the narrative a glow and turns the third act into something more effective than a tenor sob scene. He is an actor with imagination, to boot, and enough of a realist to make Rodolfo a bit of a lady killer.

Miss Kirsten's Musetta was disappointing, despite her fresh young voice. She has only skimmed the shrill surface of a rôle which is happier when it captures a mezzo soprano for Mimi contrast. But Mr. Trevisan was his inimitable self, and the three comrades—Mr. Lazzari, Mr. Czaplicki, and Mr. Kozakevich—were in high spirits and good voice. The chorus was lively, the settings were delightful, and Mr. Cleva's conducting had warmth in its heart. I still don't know how a painter can be expected to work out in the snow, as Mr. Czaplicki tried to follow stage direction, but that was a minor question on a good night when the only theater chill was make believe shivering in a Bohemian garret.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Practice All the Time.

After years of faulty diction the girl finally decided something should be done. So she enrolled in an effective speech course. One night last week, after class, a beggar in shabby dress approached her on the street with the usual request for alms. He had a kind face, she relates, and not wanting to hurt his feelings she hastened to explain with much inflection and intonation just how broke she was and would be until pay day [. . . "practice, practice, all the time; particularly on people you don't know" . . . the teacher had said].

Well, her dramatic intonation and dulcet tones were the undoing of the alms seeker. "Gosh, lady," he said feelingly, "if you're that hard up, I have a dollar I was hiding on myself you can have."

He Loves the Ladies.

Of course I brought it on myself . . . and when a letter begins "Being an old bachelor I know absolutely nothing about women," I should know enough to don my air raid warden hat and get ready for the blitz.

"Will you let me answer the question, 'What do you think about women smoking in the office?' Having traveled as a salesman for two big wholesale dry goods houses I had to meet quite a number of women buyers. Most of them did not smoke while buying goods from me. At dinner, after the important job of signing the order was completed, some of them smoked . . . in small towns [Monroe, Wis., for instance]—no . . . in larger towns [Dayton or Cincinnati]—yes. It was okay with me either way—I had the order.

"But to return to the question, I've liked a lot of nice girls—and still do—but I can 'scratch' the girl who comes stalking down Michigan avenue with a cigaret in her hand or mouth. I can, and do respect womanhood when a woman shows she is not trying to be a man.

"So, my answer to the question is irrevocably, NO. Don't ask me why. Probably I have been in [and worked in] 40 offices since I started to work when I was 12 years old and the school of life has taught me a lot of things you can't learn at a university. And this is one.

"To wind up—I was in an architect's office for seven years. There were 63 architects, designers, etc., and we all smoked. No woman entered the room—a whole floor it was. The big boss' secretary was a man. In my time we got out some fine work including the Merchandise Mart, the Pittsfield building, Wrigley building, new Field building, without the help of women but with the help of pipes, cigars, and cigarets. Funny, wasn't it . . . or was it? I think you'd better not sign my name, Ruth, for while I 'love the ladies' still I wish to keep what little hair I have left, so just sign F. J. C."

Feminine Firsts.

Lady Hester Lucy Stanhope was one of the earliest women to act as a secretary in England. When very young she served as secretary to her uncle, William Pitt, then prime minister of England. . . . The real name of Pocahontas, the first Indian princess to become an English lady, was Mataoaka. . . . The first woman to hold an ambassadorial position in the United States was Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen. . . . Muriel Syefert was the discoverer of thousands of star galaxies and holds an unequalled record as a woman astronomer. . . . Katharaine Fowler Lunn, known as the "Gold Missus," was a pioneer in geological investigations in West Africa. . . . Ellen H. Richards was the first president of the American Home Economics association.

Great Lakes Dredge Carolers Rehearse for Traditional Tour

BY JUDITH CASS.

RESIDENTS of Astor street and State parkway are looking forward to the annual caroling tour of the Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic society, which will go forth late in the afternoon a few days before Christmas, probably on Dec. 23, to bring Christmas music to the near north side. It has been decided that the chorus will not accept hospitality along the route so that it will be able to sing a song or two before each house or apartment that has the proper signal of a candle in the window. Last year there were so many offers of refreshments along the way that some who waited to hear the songs were disappointed.

Rehearsals are being held on Wednesday nights at the Merrill Shepard house in East Elm street, tho Mr. Shepard, now a lieutenant in the naval reserve, departed yesterday for a training course at Columbia university and his wife is in New York. Two of the seven young naval officers who are living in the house are rehearsing with the society, which is brushing up all of the old favorites. John Cromelin, Lieut. Herbert Stratford, Paget K. Cady, Thomas I. Underwood, John R. Winterbotham, John Root, and Frederick H. Spencer are some of the carolers who will take part in the tour this year, complete with lanterns and long red wool scarves.

After their tour the carolers expect to end up at the Saddle and Cycle for a holiday party for soldiers and sailors. Ensign Wilson Graham and Ensign Richard G. Poole are the young officers who will be harmonizing with the songsters this year. Sharing the Shepard home with them are Lieut [j. g.] George H. Clark, Lieut. Samson B. Moxley, Ensign Robert M. Smith, Ensign Edward T. McDonnell, and Lieut. [j. g.] LlewellynF. Hamilton.

Chicagoans to Be Hosts to 55 Australian Flyers.

The 55 young Australian aviators who will arrive on Friday for their last leave before going on active duty overseas will find a warm welcome awaiting them, for Chicago is preparing to take them to its heart. Mrs. Douglas Buchanan of the British War Relief society has planned a crowded schedule of entertainment for the young flyers, who receive their wings today at Camp Borden, Canada.

On Friday night Ernest Byfield and Frank Bering will be hosts to the group in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman. Saturday, after posing for a group photograph, the flyers will attend a USO luncheon. Kenneth Carpenter has arranged a tour of the city for the afternoon, followed by a cocktail party at the Tavern club, a dinner at the Palmer House, and a dance at the Officers' club.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham is asking a number of young women to come to luncheon on Sunday at the Casino as partners for the visitors. The British War Relief society is giving a cocktail party and buffet supper that night at the Sherman, and later the group will go to the ice hockey game. Mayor Edward J. Kelly will entertain the flyers at luncheon on Monday at the Chicago club, and that night is reserved for a supper and dance at the Chez Paree. Tuesday there will be a luncheon at the service men's center preceding the visitors' departure.

Ilka Chase to Be Speaker at University Club Dinner.

Even before University club members had received announcements of its ladies' night program for next Tuesday, the maitre d'hotel was deluged with reservations for dinner. The speaker is to be that popular and attractive author and actress, Ilka Chase, who will take her subject from the 14th chapter of her book, "Past Imperfect." The intriguing title is "The Philosophy of Being a Woman."

The entertainment committee, headed by Harold C. Buell, will have Miss Chase as its dinner guest that night. She is coming from New York and will be staying at the Ambassador East. Others on the entertainment committee are McPherson Holt, Hays Macfarland, William O. Heath, Louis E. Tilden, and Franklin E. Vaughan. The club's next party will be a stag affair on Dec. 17, with the choir at the Great Lakes Naval station giving a program and soldiers and sailors as guests of the club.

The addition of a new debutante to the Christmas list brings the news that Mrs. Robert Joseph Folonie of North State parkway will entertain at a small supper-dance on Christmas night for her daughter, Roberta Josephine. The party will be given at the Racquet club. Miss Folonie, who is called "Bobbie," is in school in Santa Fe, N. M.

Also on the Racquet club's holiday calendar is Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hoskins' tea-dance on Christmas eve for their debutante, Yvonne. The party originally was to have been given at the Fortnightly.

Thru the Looking Glass

When we learned that a house that has produced in the past some excellent toiletries for men had a talcum mitt we were almost afraid to look. It sounded like one of those awful mistakes manufacturers make sometimes. But it's all right. As a matter of fact, it's one of the most amusing small gifts for men that we've seen on the market.

It was inspired by a boxing mitt and looks considerably like one, with a leather back and a palm of terry cloth. It contains five ounces or so of a talcum that men like, since it's cool, refreshing, neutral in tint, and not highly perfumed. The powder is released thru the terry cloth and the whole idea is that the mitt can be used after the bath or after shaving with a minmum of fuss. As a gift idea it isn't bad at all and it's nicely put up. And men do like to use talcum powder.

This same house has other things for men that are less whimsical in presentation but awfully sure-fire as gifts for the fastidious ones. They have some excellent colognes, after shave lotion, and soap, and last year, in one of the best looking bottles you ever saw, they came out with a men's bubbling bath liquid that has been a tremendous success. Their fragrances for men are refreshing and rather crisp, and their ensembles of grooming aids are nicely styled. The decanter bottles, especially, are the kind men like to have around.

If there's a man on your list who likes good grooming aids any of this house's offerings are good bets. If he likes a novelty now and then—as most men do—he'll be greatly enamored of the boxing mitt that packs talc.

Scarf Is Smart Gift Idea; It's Practical, Too

BY REA SEEGER.

Some of the best gift buys are those definitely on the luxury side in appearance but additionally welcome because they're practical as extras with which to vary or dramatize otherwise dull and dated dresses and suits. Neck scarves come under this listing and the present assortments are something to write home about.

Brand new affairs are the gay white silks printed in scarlet, with the entire global map with every new and not-so-new city, town, and country where the men are in service.

◆

If a pivoting globe makes you stand on your head to locate the Solomons, here's the answer, wear the scarf as color contrast and a patriotic reminder, and when you need a good easy reading map of the world whip it off in a second, lay it flat on any space, and the remainder is easy. A clever trick of keeping your throat warm and handsome with all geographical data while you wait.

Of course, the scarves of crocheted wool are tempting loot not only for the heating units therein but because of the glorious contrast of all colors, some of them so vivid that they look as tho every extra half inch of leftover yarn for years has been used in the single scarf.

Both the long wind around your throat a couple of times and the shorter ascot mufflers are stocked in grand varieties along with the fascinator type like shoulder shawls, triangulars and the wide oblongs.

◆

Evening scarves by the hundreds are spangled with beads and sequins, smoldering effects that burst into flashing glory under artificial lights. Most of the effective finds are of wide meshed crocheted wool, assuring warmth along with the decorative beauty. Whites are especially eye-catching when they're spattered with multicolored sequins or copper, silver, or gold paillettes and beads. The last word in whimsey is the evening or daytime crocheted wool scarf tied with tiny bowknots of yarn in contrast color.

Women's Bar Association Meets for Dinner Tonight

Keying the evening to the spirit of Christmas, the Women's Bar Association of Illinois will meet tonight in the Chicago Bar association's rooms at 29 South La Salle street for a party dinner, games, and Christmas caroling. Miss Charlotte E. Gauer will preside, and Miss Doris Nohren Murison will head the hospitality committee.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Clinch and Fadeout.

The Office of War Information moves constantly new wonders to unfold. Its most fascinating new enterprise to come to our attention is the life's work of the OWI magazine division which has produced, after what must be infinite racking of a score of empty brains, a mimeographed dossier on how to write love, adventure, crime, and confession stories for those magazines known as pulps.

• • •

The dossier not only tells you how to write these; it supplies plots, each of which throbs with a groundswell of homely patriotism. All the OWI heroes are 4-F, find romance in the share-your-ride movement, can quote at random mellifluous bits from the censorship code or the Atlantic charter, and speak like a patriotic slogan contest. All the heroines have a somewhat blemished past, but find comfort, solace, new hope, and love in making their coffee out of ground oats and molasses, melting their cold cream down into essential bacon fat, saving hairpins thru the three inch bob, and delicately reprimanding their suitors when they use wartime bear grease on their hair.

• • •

As this may be hard for you or any one either to believe or to digest, we here append a few specimen OWI plots. We offer No. 1 with many blushes. We feel you should know this dark side of life and, as it seems dubious whether any pulp writer will be reduced to using it, here is what may well be your final chance at it:

"For confession stories that might spur recruiting in various health and medical care services the following sample plot is offered: A seduced girl throws herself into this type of war work, say physiotherapy, to forget. Working side by side with crippled doctor, she learns to love him. After crisis in their task, which she helps him meet, she discovers that, altho he knows all about her past, he loves her. Clinch and fadeout."

What pulp writer can outdo that? Tragedy, self-immolation, love, conflict, loyalty, happiness, clinch, fadeout, and a white Christmas.

• • •

But physiotherapy is not singular as a gateway to romance, as you will see in No. 2:

"Girls and young women soon will be driving trucks, with their precious cargo of war materials. On the long interurban highways by day and night there are opportunities for adventure and misadventure, for mistakes of judgment, for chance meetings ripening, after misunderstanding and disappointment, into romance."

". . . opportunities for . . . misadventure, for mistakes of judgment. . . ." Hmmmm. The pickup department, we assume, but what about those "no riders" signs on trucks?

• • •

Our own favorite, written with profound artistry, deals with salvage:

"The salvage setup suggests a story with intriguing possibilities of a young and wasteful generation struggling between ingrained habit and new need to economize, of wrinkled old great-grandmother or great-aunt telling tales of her youth to point the way. It suggests the young girl and her sweetheart in a sun streaked attic, coming on an age yellowed diary in whose moldering pages they find the answers to two problems: That of salvage and of their own boy-girl difficulties, springing out of wartime conditions."

This touching episode would leave us breathless were it not for the OWI discovery that "boy-girl difficulties" spring out "of wartime conditions."

• • •

Somehow it takes the old zest out of our pulp writing. It now seems doubtful whether we ever again will write a true confession story. If so, ours will be shorter than those suggested by the OWI. We offer three samples: [1] Boy meets girl, boom! Girl has long hair. Boy leaves girl, boom! [2] Girl meets another boy. Boy casually produces razor blade. Girl leaves boy, boom! [3] Girl meets boy, boom! Clinch and fadeout.

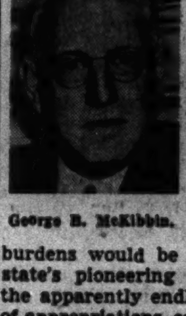
G. O. P. TURNS ITS PROGRAM TOWARD STATE ECONOMY

Pegged Levy to Receive Legislative Scrutiny.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.



George B. McKibbin.

An epic undertaking—reversal of the historic climb of state spending—leads the Republican legislative program for the 62d general assembly, which will convene on Jan. 6. This program, it was learned yesterday, boils down to a single word: "Efficiency."

Harassed taxpayers shouldering fresh federal burdens would be heartened by the state's pioneering action in halting the apparently endless upward trend of appropriations, said leaders in Gov. Green's administration.

Clear Majority in Legislature.

When the new governor got to work early last year he had nominal majorities in house and senate, but on many occasions it was shown that these were "paper majorities." As a result of the Nov. 3 election he now has a house majority of 15 instead of 5, and altho the senate remains 28 to 23, two unreliable senators have been removed.

Despite handicaps, in the 1941 session Gov. Green reversed the climb of appropriations from the general revenue fund. From the all-time high of $286,322,000 for the 1939-'41 biennium, they were brought down to $279,517,000.

Slash in Total Promised.

Total appropriations continued to soar, however, from $511,616,000 to $532,130,000. This included payments on the bonded debt and spending of federal funds received for such heavy items as roads, old age assistance, and aid to dependent children.

"Next year, the total appropriations will be lower—substantially lower," said George B. McKibbin, state director of finance. "I realize that the record appears formidable, without a break in the upward trend, but the break is coming.

"There will be no new projects and no new expenditures. Road building is out. There has been a striking reduction in relief."

Deficits Must Be Met.

Relief savings will pay for deficits being incurred: old age assistance, about 8 millions, half state and half federal; aid to dependent children, about 2 millions, and state institutions, about 5 millions—mainly because of high food costs. Since transfers from the relief fund cannot be made directly, deficit appropriations must be asked, however.

To improve and simplify state tax administration, plans call for dividing the department of finance. Tax collecting work would be done by one department. Another department would do the remaining work, such as state purchasing, printing, and supervision of state accounts.

Accounting to Be Simplified.

An amendment aimed at simplifying state accounts is being drafted. A single statement would present the entire current financial picture so that the average person would be able to understand it at one reading.

In 1941 it was possible for a few bipartisan Republicans to upset the move to investigate the financial operations of Cook county taxing units including the city, county, board of education, and sanitary district.

If Gov. Green decides to revive this proposal, it is probable that the Kelly-Nash legislators could not afford to oppose it, for a pertinent reason.

Pegged Levy Situation.

Examination of the pegged levy laws under which the taxing units of Cook county have assured an ample revenue showed yesterday that 1943 is the latest tax year provided for in most cases. Because the legislature will not meet again in regular session until 1945 after the 1943 session, the local governments must go to Springfield "hat in hand" to get their pegged levies extended for 1944.

CALIFORNIAN NAMED NAVY MOTHER HAS TWO SONS IN SERVICE

Mrs. Irene Shafer.

A nation-wide search for the "typical navy mother" resulted yesterday in the choice of Mrs. Irene Shafer, 819 Glenview road, Glendale, Cal., for this distinction. Mrs. Shafer is the mother of two navy men and the wife of an army man.

Selection of the typical mother was announced yesterday by Mrs. Helen Joyce, president of the Chicago Navy Mothers' club, and Sheldon Clark, president of the Navy league. The search was begun a fortnight ago after Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, invited the Chicago Navy Mothers' club and other similar groups, the Navy league, and the Blue network, which broadcasts the Meet Your Navy show Fridays from Great Lakes Naval Training station, to coöperate in the quest.

Mrs. Shafer will arrive here this week-end at Great Lakes to spend a week at the world's largest naval training station as a guest of Adm. Downes and Capt. F. J. Lowry, commanding officer of the station. She expects to fly here. Mrs. Shafer will watch boys, much like her own, in training for a week, and then will report her experiences and reactions to other navy mothers and fathers over WLS and the Blue network at 9 p. m., Friday, Dec. 11.

Mrs. Shafer, 55 years old, is tiny, 5 feet tall, 110 pounds, gray haired, but energetic. One of her sons, F. G. Shafer, is an aviation machinist's mate somewhere in the Pacific and has seen action in three major battles. Her other son, H. F. Shafer, is in training at the University of Oklahoma. Her husband, Harry Shafer, is stationed in Los Angeles.

CHICAGO STORES TO SET RECORDS IN YULE BUSINESS

Christmas shoppers are setting a record for early buying and for volume of sales, Chicago merchants said yesterday in congratulating buyers for the manner in which they are receiving government regulations on decreased store services. Indications are that Christmas sales this year will be the largest in history.

"Business is very good and running considerably ahead of last year's," Elmer T. Stevens, president of the State Street council, said. "From early reports, this years' business appears to be a record-breaker. Not only are people shopping earlier but they're buying earlier and they're carrying their packages home. Gas rationing has not hurt business so far. Chicagoans are certainly good sports."

Altho stores are handicapped by the shortage of extra help for the Christmas rush, none reported any customer complaints.

B-V... A Contribution to the Wartime Meat Problem

Here's a meal that harks back to the homespun thrift of our pioneer mothers. Here's a meal heartening to the eyes! Just look at this platter of delicious, meat-stuffed onions. Onions, gently parboiled and filled with a cup of meat bits held over from yesterday's roast to S-T-R-E-T-C-H that meat ration to its last bit of goodness, meat-flavored with Wilson's B-V, a fresh beef flavor concentrate.

Menu

Stuffed Onions
With Noodles Creole
Tossed Vegetable Salad
Heated Rolls
Clear Brook Butter
Fruit Cobbler with Lemon Nutmeg Sauce
Beverage

THE LAST OF THE ROAST IN STUFFED ONIONS

Skin six large onions. Parboil ten minutes in enough salted water to cover. Remove centers and fill with following mixture: 1 cup cooked chopped leftover meat, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, chopped onion centers, salt. Moisten mixture with 1 cup hot water in which is dissolved 1 teaspoon of Wilson's B-V. Place in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until tender. Serve with noodles and creole sauce.

• • •

We did it before... Used B-V in the above menu to add unbeatable flavor to the main dish and as a meat extender in the creole sauce. Peps up other sauces, too.

And we can do it again... For "extra zip" add some B-V to your next casserole of pork and beans. Meat flavor stretcher de luxe.

And again... Glamorize steaks, chops and veal birds . . . Dip a small pastry brush in Wilson's B-V and spread on the hot meat before serving. The heat melts the B-V and a rich tasty glaze results. Different and delightful!

And here too! Gravy can be "dressed up" by omitting salt from usual pan or skillet gravy, and adding sufficient B-V to give a rich, well-flavored gravy. Then add salt if desired.

MEAT FLAVOR ABUNDANT

Don't let an "overdrawn" meat allowance put you into a dither. You can still get that all-important meat flavor in your meals by using Wilson's B-V, a rich wholesome extract of prime lean beef with selected vegetable flavoring. B-V retains all of the vitamins and stimulant qualities of fresh beef in concentrated form.

In almost every household the change to longer and more irregular working hours makes meal planning a problem. Quick easy-to-prepare B-V helps solve that problem in many ways.

In planning your meat allowance for the week, remember nothing can take the place of meat on the American table. And nothing can take the place of Wilson's Certified Meats.

NEGLECTED . . . because of her Neglect

POOR GIRL! She didn't guess her husband's neglect was due to her "one neglect"—carelessness about feminine hygiene (intimate personal cleanliness). Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant for this purpose. It cleanses thoroughly, and deodorizes, as well. Yet it's so gentle it won't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow easy directions. Costs so little. Write to Lehn & Fink, Bloomfield, N. [Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

What this country needs is an Institute of American Duck Hunters, with a home economics department equipped with a shining kitchen and a bunch of experts to resolve once and for all the mighty problem of cooking wild duck.

Not that it's difficult to cook wild duck. It isn't. But there seem to be too many differences of opinion on the matter, and every cook who obtains particularly fine results insists that his is the only method of cooking duck. What we need is somebody with authority to decide [after a good deal of experimentation, of course] just which method is best of all. We need somebody to formulate a few rules of duck cookery.

To give you a slim idea of the differences of opinion about duck, let me quote from several of the cook books on my desk:

"Bake it 20 to 30 minutes in a hot oven. Tradition dictates that it should be served rare."

"A duck should be rare, but not raw. Fifteen minutes in a hot oven is average time for a canvasback, redhead, or mallard."

"Put the ducks into a covered roasting pan with an inch of hot water in it. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, then 350 the rest of the time. Young ducks will roast in a little over an hour, older ones take two to three hours."

There's the same difference of opinion about treating the ducks before cooking. Most authorities agree that a duck should hang from three days to a week before cooking, but many of them will argue for hours about whether it should be hung by head or tail, and at just what point it is ready to be cooked.

They argue, too, about preparing a duck for roasting. One cook will stand firm for soaking a duck over night in salt water and vinegar, a practice now frowned upon by the majority. Another will advocate washing the flesh with soap and water. Others declare it sacrilege to touch a duck's raw flesh with anything but lemon juice as a cleanser.

Out of all of this I have evolved my own favorite method for roasting wild duck, which is this one.

Roast Wild Duck.

Hang the duck outdoors for three days before removing the feathers. Clean and draw. Fine down often may be rubbed off. Or it may be removed by brushing melted paraffin over the skin, allowing it to harden, then pulling it off. Wipe inside and out with a dampened cloth. Salt inside of duck and place an apple or onion in the opening. Or fill it with wild rice or bread dressing.

Rub all over with soft fat and place breast up on a rack in an open roaster. Roast in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, until tender, from 30 minutes to an hour, basting frequently with butter. Put no water in the pan. Make a gravy from drippings and giblet stock. Avoid overcooking.

Wild duck is not fat, like domestic duck, and needs oven protection against drying. Oil or butter will do. Some cooks lay bacon strips over the breast before roasting.

I have two wild ducks at home waiting to be cooked. This time I'm going to make them festive by marinating them in burgundy with some herbs over night, then roasting in the usual way, uncovered, and at moderate heat, with butter or margarine for basting. The herb flavored wine will go into a sauce.

IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The autumn pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Girls Must Cope with the War's Effect on Men

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

An interesting letter from one of our feminine readers brings to mind a change in the young men who have been in the service for some length of time. Our correspondent says her young man has been in the army for over a year. The last time he was home on furlough she noticed a decided change in him, which is puzzling her.

She says he used to be so full of fun, that now he's so quiet and serious looking she scarcely could find things to talk about the whole time he was home. They were writing to each other weekly, but since he has returned to camp this last time she has not heard from him at all. She wants to know if she should write to him first.

We'll say that it would be quite all right to write to him, telling him how much she enjoyed seeing him again, and continuing her letter in the same friendly vein. But about the change she noticed, there is this to say:

Many of the men who have been in the service for any length of time have developed a more serious personality. Almost miraculously men have grown leaner, tougher, and older than their years. There's a squareness of shoulder bearing about them, a straightforward look in their eyes, a firmer set to their jaws. Their uniforms give them a proud, clean cut look, but it isn't the uniform alone that accounts for their "transformation." It's the realization of the seriousness of the job they have to do.

What man can go thru all the intensive training he's been thru and not realize it's for a grim purpose? They must have one track minds to succeed at their job. They know that if they are to preserve the freedom with which they've always lived, they have to fight for it. So they have changed. Their seriousness proves they are equal to the test of courage they are bound to meet. The understanding of that change in them, and letting them see you are proud of it, will endear you even more to them.

½ pound seedless raisins, rinsed in hot water
1 pound dates, pitted, and chopped
1½ pounds mixed fruit, chopped
½ pound candied cherries, cut in halves
½ cup sifted flour
¼ cup sherry wine

Cream shortening with brown sugar until light and fluffy. Add jelly, and beat until well blended. Add beaten eggs and sour cream, blending well. Sift flour with soda and add. Combine nutmeats, raisins, dates, and candied fruits and mix with the ½ cup flour. Add to first mixture. Sprinkle wine on top and stir in. Turn into greased pans that have been lined with greased wax paper. Bake in slow [300 degrees] oven for 2 or 3 hours depending on size.

Exhorts Allies to Build for Lasting Peace

The building of an enduring peace in Europe after the war will challenge the united nations to a greater effort, patience, wisdom, and sacrifice than the war itself demands, members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs were told last night at the opening session of their fourth annual state-wide forum.

The speaker was Alfred Dwight Huston, speech faculty member of the University of Illinois and secretary of the state committee on school and college civilian morale services. His address, entitled "Peace Will Challenge the Best in Man," keynoted the meeting, which will continue today at the Hotel Sherman.

"To win the war and lose the peace would be, in effect, a declaration of war in the near future," Mr. Huston said.

Declaring that the citizens of the United States are "Americanized Europeans" who have formed the greatest nation in the world on the "common ground elements" of liberty, opportunity, freedom of religion, freedom of speech, and freedom of thought, he said that the people of Europe, given the leadership and opportunity after the war, could achieve unity for the common good.

Unless the allies can provide leadership toward a European federation and temporary machinery of government, they may find themselves in the paradoxical position of having won the war in arms and lost the final victory, Mr. Huston asserted.

"The emotional and spiritual forces and the tremendous weight of logic" will be on the side of the allies in the move for a united Europe, he asserted.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Preston L. Wettaw. As chairman of war service, Mrs. William T. Bruckner is conducting the forum. Among the speakers today will be Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, Mrs. T. K. Rinaker, Frank G. Thompson, Miss Mary Murphy, Dr. Walter A. Foy, and Joseph T. Meek.

Girl Scout Leaders to Open Three Day Meeting Here Today

The annual conference of the National Association of Girl Scout Executives will be held today, tomorrow, and Saturday at the Palmer House. The subject for study will be Girl Scouting as a community force and the responsible job of the Girl Scout executive in wartime.

Mrs. Paul Rittenhouse, national director of the Girl Scouts, will preside at the opening conference, and other speakers will be Pierce Atwater, executive director of the community fund, and Robert H. MacRae, managing director of the Detroit Council of Social Agencies. The afternoon sessions will be devoted to round table discussions in small groups, and Mrs. Ruth Osborn, war liaison staff member of the Scouts, and Miss Helen Rowe of the children's bureau in Washington will talk on planning for communities and children.

Friday's and Saturday's programs will include group discussions, and Saturday afternoon there will be a forum to consider the responsibilities of professional Girl Scout workers.

Alliance Francaise.

Mrs. Edward Mahon, member of the Alliance Française, will give the program at today's meeting at 3 o'clock in the clubrooms. Mme. Claude Eylan, author and traveler, will lecture Saturday morning.

GREMLINS?

No! The famous little gnomes don't help get breakfast. Wheaties do the trick. Mother simply fills cereal bowls with those wonderfully good whole wheat flakes. Easy. No breakfast worries for Mother . . . but the entire family goes to work—on Wheaties.

INSTALMENT XV.
DELAYED TELEGRAM.

Steelman took a deep breath and started in again with infinite patience. "Dr. Carson, there was evidently something important, terribly important, that your mother wanted to tell you. You protest that you have no idea what it was.

"It is conceivable that some one else did know and was determined to prevent her from telling you. Have you any idea who that some one else might be?"

The dark, tortured eyes never wavered, but there was a tiny nerve of one nostril that quivered.

"No," he said. "No, I don't."

There was a pause.

Then Kate McLaughlin spoke and her voice was bitter as she flung the question at Steelman. "Why don't you ask Tessa Devlin?"

Bart Carson's glance jerked fiercely toward the woman beside him and the air was tense.

But the inspector's voice was quiet. "That's what I'm going to do, Mrs. McLaughlin." But there was no relish in his tone.

There was still less when they had gone and one of his aides brought in the final technical report from the laboratory. He nodded in some grim confirmation as he looked it over and then shoved it across the desk to Nunn. It was Kreshmeier's finger print report.

. . . those of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Devlin, Mr. Jayson Plaice, Mr. William Boomer and Miss Tessa Devlin. The only one of this group to be found on the Carson cottage premises are those of Miss Tessa Devlin which . . .

"And all in the right spots," Steelman said heavily. "On the door, table and the andiron. Come on, Nunn, let's go."

He rose and reached for his hat.

But there was one more detail that intruded before he could break away from the office. It was the local manager of the telegraph office, a man named Ainsworth, and he had in tow a messenger who seemed torn between abject fright and eager excitement. Ainsworth's emotions, too, were divided. He was nervously apologetic toward the inspector and angrily accusing toward the boy.

"I read in the paper this morning about it, Inspector," he said. "I mean about Miss Devlin and the murder, and I came right over. I don't know whether it's got anything to do with it. It was the boy's fault. Just careless, didn't stop to read the address carefully, and maybe it hasn't anything to do with it anyway, but just the same I thought I ought to tell you."

The inspector interposed in the interest of clarity and finally brought out the story.

On the previous afternoon Ainsworth had handed over to the messenger for delivery nine telegrams. Eight of them were to be delivered at the Devlin house and one at the Carson cottage. But the messenger, a careless youth, had delivered them all at the Devlin house.

"He was gone about 20 minutes," Ainsworth continued, "when I got a telephone call from the butler at the Devlin house telling me about the mistake, so when the boy got back to the office I sent him right back up there and he picked up the telegram and took it over to the Carson cottage. He's just a careless brat. It was his fault entirely and—"

Again Steelman interposed to guide the conversation into the more relevant channels of exact time.

"Well, as near as I can remember," Ainsworth said under the inspector's pressure, "the boy left the office at 4. It would take him about 10 minutes to get to the Devlin house. Then at about 4:20 I got the telephone call from the Devlin butler. And maybe 5 minutes later the kid got back and I sent him right away to the Devlin house to pick up the message and take it to the Carson cottage. It don't take more than 5 minutes to get from the Devlin house over to the cottage on Old Lane road, so it must have been delivered there about 4:45."

"And was that the only telegram which you delivered yesterday at Carson cottage?"

"Yes, sir, but three or four lots went up to the Devlins'. You know, with the wedding and congratulations and all that sort of thing."

"Well, thank you very much, Ainsworth."

As Steelman and Nunn rode to the Devlin house, Nunn was busy jotting down notes on an envelope. Steelman watched over his shoulder.

4:00—Messenger left for Devlin house.

4:15—Messenger arrived at Devlin house.

4:20—Telephone call from Devlin house.

4:25—Messenger returns to office and is sent back to Devlin house.

4:40—Messenger arrives Devlin house, picks up telegram.

4:25—Messenger delivers telegram to Carson cottage.

There was a bracket connecting the second, third, fourth, and fifth items with a question mark beside it.

"Meaning," Steelman said, "that the telegram Bart Carson sent to his mother announcing the approximate time of his arrival was at the Devlin house for 25 minutes yesterday afternoon. We're going to have to find out just where Tessa Devlin was during those 25 minutes, just where that telegram was, and whether she had an opportunity to see it."

Nunn nodded.

"Incidentally there seem to be quite a few delays in Dr. Carson's journey. First a plane is grounded. Then he runs into bad roads. Then his fuel line fouls. You'll check all that, Nunn?"

Again the acquiescent nod.

Perhaps one of the most difficult things people do—or rather don't do—is remember time. Exact time. The kind of time Inspector Steelman and Detective Nunn were seeking.

Walter, the butler, who opened the door for them was the most satisfactory of the lot.

The great Devlin house was in confusion, but orderly confusion, for Alice Devlin was nowhere in evidence. There were caterers' trucks lined up at the rear awaiting loading, and inside florist assistants were dismantling dead and drooping decorations whose brief life had served no purpose.

Walter remembered perfectly the arrival of the packet of telegrams the previous afternoon and his time checked with that of Ainsworth.

"A bit after four, sir, they came. I can understand how the boy made the mistake. I made the same mistake myself. In the last three or four days many congratulatory messages have been received, and in the absence of Mrs. Devlin and Miss Tessa I have formed the habit of taking all mail and telegrams straight to Mr. Devlin without sorting it. He was in the library yesterday afternoon and about five minutes later he rang for me and gave me the one that had been delivered by mistake and asked me to telephone the telegraph office."

"And what did you do with the telegram?"

"I left it right on the tray here in the hall." He pointed to a long refectory table along one side of the foyer.

"And it remained there undisturbed until the telegraph boy called for it?"

"Yes, sir. A few minutes later when he called I picked it up and handed it to him at the door."

"And you were in the foyer continuously during the time the message lay there on the tray?"

"Oh, no, sir. We were very busy yesterday afternoon and I had a number of calls to answer."

"From whom?"

The butler thought hard. "Well, Mr. Devlin rang once for me to bring whisky and soda to him in the library, where he and Mr. Plaice were. And Mrs. Devlin summoned me a number of times, and Mr. Boomer called me once to have me change the ferns. He didn't approve of where Mrs. Devlin had them placed."

The butler paused.

"Any summons from Miss Devlin?"

"None that I remember."

"Did you happen to see her during that time?"

"No, sir, but perhaps Beatrice . . ."

Beatrice was slightly more satisfactory, but she was uncertain about time. "Yes, sir, Miss Devlin started out for a walk yesterday afternoon. She said she wanted to get her land legs back."

"Did she go through the front foyer?"

"Maybe. I was upstairs at the time, so I couldn't say."

"At what time did she start off?"

"Oh, some time around 4, 4:30."

Beyond that Beatrice would not go. "The magnificent wages you get in this elegant joint don't hardly allow for diamond wrist watches," she reminded the inspector with asperity.

Steelman asked for Thomas Devlin, and Walter brought back word that the master of the house was dressing and would be with the inspector in a few minutes.

"Every one slept late this morning, sir. Last night was—trying."

Somewhat an understatement, Steelman thought.

Caroling Group Rehearsing for Traditional Tour

tainment of the evening. Gerald Cudahy is captain of the Racquet's team. The hostess club's team was to have been headed by Clarence C. Prentice, but a substitute is being found now that Mrs. Prentice's son, Lieut. Harry P. Wheeler, is arriving today for a brief stopover en route to foreign service with the marines. Lieut. Wheeler's brother, Ensign Leslie Wheeler, already is serving abroad.

Gasoline rationing has caused the group of mothers who annually sponsor a Christmas dinner-dance for the teen-agers to shift their party from the Saddle and Cycle to the Woman's Athletic club, more conveniently located for guests coming in from the country. The party will be given on Dec. 22. Mrs. Herbert S. Stone is chairman of arrangements, and some of those working with her are Mrs. Stuart J. Templeton, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Darrow B. Fulton, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, and Mrs. John Clay.

Many Parties to Precede Sunday's Football Benefit.

There'll be parties galore before the Cardinals-Bears football game on Sunday afternoon at Comiskey park that is to benefit the Travelers Aid. The Theodore Lambs are giving a luncheon at the Tavern for the Henry Kohrings of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. He is a former director of the society. Miss Charlotte Righeimer is giving a "brunch" at home before the game, and Mrs. Herbert Kochs is giving a breakfast in Kenilworth. Mrs. Charles F. Cutter has invited some friends to drop in for a hot toddy before going to the game.

At the Goal Post party following in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House there will be an auction of interesting articles, including a basket of "priorities," coffee, sugar, tea, olives, sardines, etc., which will be started by the Hartmans, who are dancing in the Empire room of the hotel. Pouring at the tea tables will be Mrs. H. Belin Voorhees, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III., Mrs. Melvin Traylor, Mrs. Burr L. Robbins, Mrs. Samuel G. Taylor III., Mrs. Eugene Howard, Mrs. Ronald M. Brown, Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh, and Mrs. Harry Drake.

Mrs. Livingston Fairbank to Be Married Saturday.

Chicagoans who knew Mrs. Livingston Fairbank when she lived here will be interested to hear that she and another former Chicagoan, Lieut. Nelson Trimble Levings, will be married on Saturday in her New York apartment. The bride is the widow of Livingston Fairbank and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. She has two children, Mrs. James Oughten Jr. of Dwight, Ill., who is unable to go east for the wedding, and Livingston Fairbank, a student at St. Mark's. Lieut. Levings formerly was married to Helen Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Dalgety of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Lieut. Fernand B. Hamel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Hamel of Fall River, Mass. The wedding will take place the middle of this month.

Miss Dalgety was graduated from Radcliffe college and at present is with the United States Civil Service commission in Chicago. Her fiancé, a graduate of the University of Montreal, left his dental practice in Taunton, Mass., to enter the army last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ratcliffe [Jane Rodgers] of Evanston became the parents of a son, Robert Jr., on Nov. 27 in the Burrows hospital. The baby has a sister, Jean.

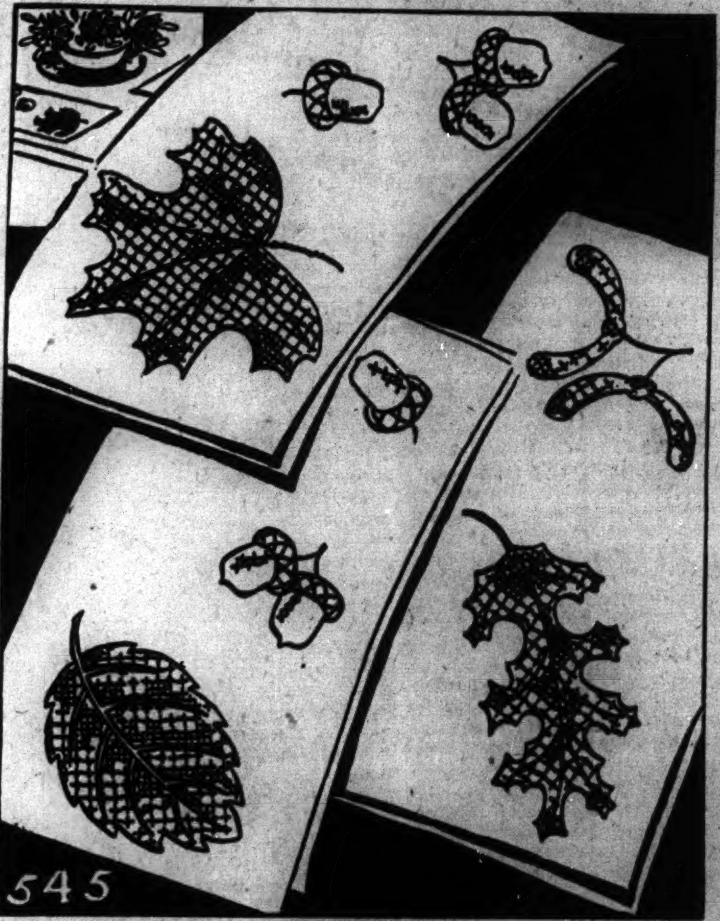
Colorful Luncheon Set



BY NANCY CABOT.

Gaily colored leaves embroidered in a cross-stitch design create a charming luncheon set. The brilliant colors found in our dye-fast flosses do much to catch the charm of autumn leaves, especially when worked on ecru linen. One leaf and 3 acorns are used on each mat. The hot iron transfer pattern contains 21 motifs measuring in size from 1¼ by 2 to 5 by 5 inches.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the autumn leaves, No. 545, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Whenever a declarer has a profusion of trumps, in both dummy and his own hand, he should consider the possibility of an elimination and throw in play. In a deal like the following, for example, an expert thinks about such a play the minute he sees the dummy.

West, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 spade
1 no trump	Double	2 clubs	2 diamonds
Pass	4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds
Pass	Pass	Pass

West's secondary no trump bid was none too good. The rest of the bidding was logical enough.

The club jack was opened, dummy's ace winning. The singleton spade was then led to South's jack in the hope of driving out the ace and establishing a spade trick on which to discard one of dummy's hearts. West, however, won with the queen, and returned another club. Defender ruffed, then ruffed a low spade in dummy. A trump lead to the king now revealed the bad news that a trump trick would have to be lost, and put declarer on his mettle to bring home the sound contract. Another spade ruff was followed by another club ruff, then declarer's last spade, the king, was ruffed with dummy's next to last trump.

Even after reaching this highly favorable end position, many declarers would go astray, I fear. They would ruff dummy's last club, figuring that if West overruffed he would only be using up his sure trump trick. Actually, West would be doing a much greater service for his own team, because if declarer did ruff the club and permit the overruff, West would then have a perfectly safe exit card, his last trump. Dummy would be back on lead with the diamond ace and declarer would have to lose a heart trick, and his contract.

An expert would not give West the slightest chance for escape. He would first cash the diamond ace, then do either of two things, both effective. [a] He would ruff a club. If West overruffed, he would have to lead a heart, permitting declarer to win with the jack, then to cash the ace and king. If West refused to overruff, declarer's ace and king of hearts would be the 10th and 11th tricks. [b] Or, after cashing the diamond ace, South could lead a low heart to the ace, then throw West on lead with the trump. In this case also, West would have to lead a heart to the combined tenace in the North-South hands.

Advises Mother Against Rushing Children to Bed

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Hurry with your supper, Susan."

"Hurry and undress, Billy."

"Hurry into your pajamas, Joey."

Hurry, hurry, hurry thru all the bedtime preparations because mother's busy and mother's had a hard day and mother's tired and daddy will be home soon. This is the sort of thing that has a great deal to do with poor bedtime habits and going to sleep habits.

Late afternoon and early evening should be among the pleasantest parts of the day for children. And I think I could say that the younger the children are, the more important it is. But the end of their day can't be pleasant nor bedtime preparations enjoyed unless mother enters into the spirit of them.

Now I know all about what a busy mother has to do when late afternoon comes and supper time nears. But I also know that the mother who enjoys such things as reading to her children at dusk and having them around her and talking to them while she's getting dinner, having a few minutes for a quiet goodnight kiss and a cozy tucking-in or a little spare time to sit on the edge of the bed to talk can manage some of it each day.

If children go to bed in a warm and interested, and even slightly leisurely atmosphere, they experience a feeling of security which tends to make them sleep soon and sweetly. They're not apt then to whine about wanting to stay up, call for drinks of water when in bed, carry-on after the light is out, or toss and dream.

I don't say that the right going-to-bed atmosphere is either an absolute preventative or cure-all, but I do know that it figures largely in establishing good bedtime and sleeping habits. There will be more about this another day.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

Traveling theatrical road companies are having an increasingly hard time keeping to their commitments as the problems of wartime transportation grow. "Watch on the Rhine," now moving about the south in one night stands, reports many harrowing hair-breadth escapes in the matter of railroad connections, but it is still moving on schedule. The "Claudia" company, which opened at the Selwyn theater here last Sunday, had to call off a performance in Denver when a baggage car went astray and failed to reach the city at the appointed time. With the chartering of special passenger cars forbidden, press agents and company managers have a merry time nowadays obtaining reservations for their personnel when overnight jumps are called for.

The one outstanding exception to the rule is "This Is the Army," the soldier show coming to the Civic Opera house on Jan. 4. When Nat Dorfman, who contributes his time and energy as chief press agent, was here a fortnight ago he chortled with glee at the ease and efficiency with which his cast of 300 is enabled to move from place to place. The billeting of the soldier cast also presents no insurmountable problems, while civilian actors now find metropolitan hotels crowded and expensive.

One of the biggest productions now on tour, "Lady in the Dark," has been forced to adopt Tuesday as its customary opening night in each new city, for week-end transportation congestion makes Monday an uncertain day to announce. Up to now, however, the Moss Hart-Kurt Weill play with music has not had to cancel any performances because of transportation difficulties since the Tuesday opening schedule was adopted. In Pittsburgh an extra matinée on Friday the 13th was added, to take the place of the lost Monday. Nobody came. Miss Lawrence sent a telegram to the management in New York which read, "Never have so many done so much for so few."

In Philadelphia Miss Lawrence was forced to require the cancellation of two performances when an attack of bronchitis robbed her of her voice. This circumstance gave rise to a rumor that the star, upon whose slender shoulders the greatest burdens of the show squarely rest, is in chronically bad health. The management, overwrought by so unfounded a report, says that Miss Lawrence is now completely in the pink, and that no further trouble is to be anticipated. "Lady in the Dark" is due here Jan. 19, following "This Is the Army" into the Civic Opera house.

Pilgrim Colony Will Have Luncheon Meeting Today

Pilgrim colony of the National Society of New England Women is meeting at the Blackstone hotel today for its Christmas luncheon. Grace Bush, pianist and writer of music and verse, will give a program, "Christmas in Many Lands." The group is headed by Mrs. Howard W. Evans.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 2.—Hollywood's still capturing names. The latest to fall is Wendell Willkie, who'll do the foreword to "The Hangman," which is the story of Heydrich and the Czech town of Lidice. Emil Ludwig, who wrote the screen play, first he's ever done, is doing another story which is to be produced by Angelus Pictures. Its title is "Château Thierry," which is the tale of a man who fought in the first World war and then went back to die in this.

No White Christmas.

It's tough to be a movie star, says Ingrid Bergman, who was looking forward to spending Christmas with her husband and child in Rochester, N. Y. Now she returns here Dec. 15 for retakes on "The Bell." . . . Sonny Tufts, that new actor at Paramount, keeps the studio in stitches. On the set the other day he went up to Veronica Lake and said, "You look like Veronica Lake—but, shucks! —You couldn't be. Your hair's combed!" . . . Loretta Young solved the location problem. She took her trailer along to Mint canyon and is living in it while working in "China." But we haven't all got trailers, Loretta. . . . Director Willie Wyler, overseas, wrote his wife a few lines the other day, and guess what he asked her to send him. A wad of chewing gum!

Again on Top.

I'm sure happy for Tallulah Bankhead. She returned to her own country, after being the toast of London, only to find herself in a succession of bad plays, until she sank her teeth into "Little Foxes." In fact, before then, even some of her best friends walked out. But on opening night of "Skin of Your Teeth," after 17 curtain calls, Tallulah comes down to the footlights and says, "Why don't you all go home?" . . . Cedric Hardwicke pulls out for Broadway as soon as he finishes "The Moon Is Down." Says Col. Lanser is really a great part but it's tough on an actor. If it turns out well, the critics will say it's an actorproof part. . . . Marlene Dietrich leaves this week for New York to decide whether she will or will not do that play. Then, too, she has a heavy date in Washington, D. C.

Right Idea.

On the desert Priscilla Lane told me she hadn't given up pictures— only bad parts. When she gets a good one, she'll come flying back from Victorville, but prefers staying with her husband, doing all the cooking and scrubbing, to waiting around in Hollywood, being bored. There's a girl loving life, and living it. . . . Claudette Colbert and her husband, Lieut. Joel Pressman, had a delightful week-end in their own home. Entertained Miss Smith, a nurse who saw duty on Bataan. She's giving Claudette plenty of tips on how to play a nurse in "So Proudly We Hail." . . . Eric Von Stroheim Jr., has it bad for Mary Lou Simpson, society girl. . . . John Murray Anderson is again paging Leon Errol for the new edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies." And Leon says, "My legs won't stand another Ziegfeld season," so he'll remain here.

She Fooled Them All.

The town's preparing a big welcome for Myrna Loy. No, she's not going into a picture. She's just accompanying her husband, John Hertz Jr., west on a business trip. . . . Bonita Granville won't even speak about her broken romance with Jackie Cooper, but she's mighty pleased over messages from Tim Holt. . . . The sight of the week—Charles Laughton reading Mother Goose rhymes to 12 tiny tots to quiet them, so they could go on making "This Land Is Mine." When I caught him at it, he started bellowing like Capt. Bligh. Then the children went out of control again!

If You Care ——

There'll be a reconciliation between the Jimmy Ritzes, thank goodness. . . . They sure looked that way at Sugie's Tropics. There, too, was Pat Dane, just back from seeing Maj. Anatole Litvak off to Africa, and she said they'd almost reached the altar in Washington, but changed their minds at the last moment. . . . Pat's carrying such a torch that she won't even dance with anybody except soldiers at the canteen. This time she'll really work on her career. She's up for a part in "Cry Havoc," also "I Dood It." . . . Groucho Mark went to the Hour of Charm concert, and he kept shouting, "Amazing!" Amazing!" "What's so amazing?" asked the person next to him. "Why," said Groucho, "the fact that 28 women are sitting in the same room wearing the same dress, without flying at each others throats!"

Knows What He Wants.

Metro wanted George Raft to do "Bataan Patrol" with Robert Taylor. George asked two questions: "Do I get the girl" and "Am I killed?" The reply was, "No girl in picture—and you die." He wouldn't even read the script. . . . Just shows what can happen to a girl when she takes the wrong turning. After Stephanie Bachelor finished a play in San Francisco, she dedcided to have one go at movies before pushing on to New York. Asked the way to the casting office, and bumped slam-bang into Director William Wellman, who liked her looks, gave her a test. Now she's a princess in "G-String Murder." . . . Mother's doing well, but Father Bob Fender had to take a vacation and snap pictures of his new baby daughter.

Library Association Defers Institute to Jan. 30 and 31

The experimental institute scheduled by the American Library association for Chicago on Dec. 28 and 29 has been tentatively postponed until Jan. 30 and 31 in order to comply with a request from Washington to eliminate holiday meetings which would involve travel. The institute is the first of a series of about 20 to be held under the association sponsorship.

Soviet Soldier Made Hero of Stirring Movie

"IN THE REAR OF THE ENEMY."

Produced by Sergei Yutkevich in Moscow. Directed by Eugene Schneider. Presented at World Playhouse.

THE CAST.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

In Russia there is a strange, powerful, and wonderful creature.

He can fly like a bird—over the mountains on his skis. . . . At will he can become one with the snows, the dark pines, and the shadows—as sinister and silent as a tiger on prowl. . . . Suddenly, as a snake strikes, he can loom large and spring into fast and devastating action. . . . And he can laugh—and maybe sing—as he corners his kill and, perhaps in the killing, meets his own hero's death.

He is Russia's common soldier.

Its producers call "In the Rear of the Enemy" the "Russian 'Sergeant York'" because it tells a story of individual bravery and achievement.

The principal character is Boikov, head of a detail of three sent out to find and repair a break in a telephone wire. . . .

From this central situation branches one of the most thrilling of war pictures. A brief and potent narrative thrown against a wild, white background, where howling winds, swirling snow, bitter cold, and precipices add their menace to man made peril.

The suspense is tremendous. The acting is completely convincing. . . . Hard to believe that the action was staged—but it was.

This is the first Russian movie to use English dialog. I don't think the players talk, but their lips move and synchronization is perfect. . . . So are photography and direction.

"In the Rear of the Enemy" is a superfilm in miniature.

See you tomorrow.

BOWLERS WARM UP TOMORROW FOR TITLE SHOW

Hold Sweepstakes at Auditorium.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Bowling's classiest show of all time opens tomorrow.

The National All-Star Tournament, featuring a field of 100 bowlers from 42 cities in 16 states actually gets under way for a nine day run in the Auditorium Theater Service Men's center on Saturday, but its introductory phase, the men's and women's sweepstakes, starts tomorrow.

Fans' interest centers on the show that is to determine the 1943 national individual match game champion by way of a tournament whose size has never before been attempted in tenpins. But the fact that this program has been dropped in a setting that is unique in the sport's long history indicates that the big Auditorium theater also will be well filled for tomorrow's sweepstakes.

It's a Spectator's Show.

This show, incidentally, isn't just a bowler's show. It's perhaps the first tournament ever undertaken in which all the spectators' seats are to be behind the alleys—which also makes it a fans' show.

It's long been argued that bowling isn't a spectator's game, and those who have believed it could be made one have said the fans would flock to a tournament if they could be assured of seats behind the alleys.

The All-Star event is the answer. All of the 3,000 seats in the Auditorium theater except a few boxes are behind the alleys.

Tickets for tomorrow's sweeps will be priced the same as those for the main show, 85 cents and 55 cents reserved, and 40 cents general admission for the afternoon and $1.65 and $1.10 reserved and 55 cents general admission for the evening.

Women to Compete, Too.

The afternoon program will be put on exclusively by the All-Stars, each entrant bowling four games. It will start at about 2 o'clock, the exact time depending on the entry. All-Stars who haven't yet entered and wish to shoot in the sweeps will have a final opportunity to do it tomorrow morning when the All-Star cast assembles at the Medinah club. The meeting will start at 10:30.

Tomorrow's evening program will open with a three game sweepstakes for women. The 12 leading teams in the Congress Women's Classic league will bowl, including the Logan Square Buicks, world champions; Goranson's, city champions, and Budweisers, state champions. This competition will start at 7 o'clock.

Day and Crimmins Ready.

The size of the All-Star field will necessitate opening the daily program during the six days of preliminaries at 11 a. m. Squads of 10 will go on at 75 minute intervals, with the fifth and last of the afternoon group scheduled at 4 p. m. The evening show will start at 6 p. m. with the same pattern being followed. The last evening squad goes on the approaches at 11 o'clock and probably will finish at midnight.

Ned Day and Johnny Crimmins, who are to shoot a 90-game match on two center alleys, will roll a five-game block each afternoon at 2:15 and five-game evening blocks at 7:15 and 9:45.

More of the All-Stars reached Chicago yesterday. Among them was Buddy Bomar of Houston, Tex., who finished well up in the 1941 All-Star tournament. Bomar warmed up with a four-game match with Joe Wilman yesterday afternoon. He fired an 808 to Wilman's 801. Then Wilman got 97 in a game rolled in the headpin tournament being put on thruout the city for the service men's center benefit. Top possible score is 100.

The bulk of the field is expected today, starting this morning when New York's five-man delegation reaches Chicago on the Century.

IT'S YOUR TOURNAMENT!

Bowling tournaments usually are players' events, with the fans crowded in wherever there's room. But that's not true about the All-Star Tournament. This biggest of all tenpin events, opening tomorrow in the Auditorium Theater, may be for Match Game Champion Ned Day, Johnny Crimmins, Joe Norris, Buddy Bomar, Joe Wilman and nearly 100 other bowlers, but it's primarily for you, Mr. Fan. All of the 3,000 seats are BEHIND the alleys. Get your tickets now. Prices:

They'll Meet Again as All-Stars

It'll be Chicago against the world during the All-Star bowling show which opens with sweepstakes in the Auditorium theater tomorrow, and in a preliminary skirmish, a four game event yesterday between Buddy Bomar (left) of Houston, Tex., and Joe Wilman of Chicago in Dearborn-Jackson recreation, Bomar won, 808 to 801. Both are seeded in the tournament. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BATTLE OF LINES SEEN WHEN IRISH, SAILORS COLLIDE

Seven of the 11 football teams which have played Great Lakes this fall have failed to gain 100 yards by rushing. This is evidence of the Bluejackets' defensive strength which Notre Dame must overcome if the Irish are to finish their 1942 campaign with a victory Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field.

Northwestern was held to a net of 12 yards by rushing in Great Lakes' last triumph on Thanksgiving afternoon. Iowa netted only 16 yards in the second game on the Bluejackets' schedule and was beaten 25 to 0. The Wildcats yielded seven touchdowns while losing 48 to 0.

The other opponents of the Sailors who have failed to plunge and run for 100 yards are Pittsburgh, 38 yards; Marquette, 41 yards; Purdue, 43 yards; Michigan State, 67 yards, and Illinois, 78 yards. All were beaten by Great Lakes except Michigan State.

The Irish Have a Line.

Intriguing as these figures may be, they must be discarded in appraisal of the possibilities in the season's finale in Soldiers' field. One must go all the way back to the Great Lakes-Wisconsin game, the fourth on the Bluejacket schedule, to find a line that could stand up to the aggressive and heavy Sailors. In fact, it is not too much to say that only Michigan and Wisconsin have had line material to match the Great Lakes' forwards. Incidentally Great Lakes was beaten by both of these college teams.

Notre Dame not only has an aggressive line but it will not be outweighed nearly as much as some of Great Lakes' opponents.

Forwards Average 199 Pounds.

Nineteen linemen saw service for Notre Dame against Southern California last Saturday and this list does not include Lou Rymkus, regular left tackle who was out because of an injury. James White, 210 pound sophomore, started against the Trojans. He has been Rymkus' relief man all season and is highly regarded.

Program weights, which are not always accurate, since they are compiled at the beginning of the season, show that the Irish line last Saturday averaged 192 pounds from end to end. The second Irish line averaged 201 pounds and the average for the 19 linemen who played against Southern California was 199 pounds.

Tickets for Saturday's game, which completes the season for both teams, are on sale at The Hub, State street and Jackson boulevard. They are priced at $4.40, $3.30, $2.20, and $1.10. Great Lakes' tentative game in Memphis Dec. 12 against a team representing the Southeastern conference has been canceled.

Big Ten Curtails Schedule in Basketball to 60 Games

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[SCHEDULES ON NEXT PAGE.]

The 1943 Western conference basketball schedule, which has been revised by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Big Ten, at the request of the directors of athletics, now comprises 60 games. It will start on Jan. 9 with five games.

The new schedule, which is the second drawn up since the special meeting of the conference directors three weeks ago, follows the policy adopted at that meeting to cut travel 50 per cent by the basketball teams. The original 1943 program called for each university to play 15 conference games and 12 of these were with 6 conference opponents on a home and home basis.

Three to Play 13 Games.

The new schedule provides for 15 fewer games than the original 75. Three universities, Indiana, Northwestern, and Ohio State, each will play 13 games. All of the others will have 12 conference games except Chicago. The Maroons will meet each of the other Big Nine teams in single games, a plan that was incorporated in the original program to equalize Big Ten competition since Chicago, in recent years, has infrequently had a squad of average ability.

In addition to the cut in the number of games, the policy of "double headers" has been adopted for most of the schedule and the more distant members, such as Ohio State and Minnesota, do not meet. There are some exceptions, notably the Indiana-Purdue rivalry which, as usual, will be played on a home and home basis. The Boilermakers play in Bloomington on Jan. 30, while Indiana travels to Lafayette on March 1.

No Illinois-Purdue Game.

The more centrally located universities have travel advantages, but this does not apply to Illinois and Purdue, for instance, or to Illinois and Indiana. While the air line distance between these rivals is short, travel by train makes competition impracticable. The Illini, defending conference champions, will not meet the Boilermakers for the first time since 1936. Illinois meets Northwestern in the Chicago Stadium Feb. 22 where last year these two quintets established a record attendance of 19,000.

Wisconsin, which is said to be a contender for the title the Badgers won in 1941 when they continued on to take the NCAA championship, plays a home and home series with Illinois. The Badgers also have home and home series with Northwestern and Minnesota, play double headers with Michigan and Indiana, and have single games with Purdue and Chicago.

Iowa Plays Great Lakes.

Iowa will play half of its 12 games at home and has five of the so-called double headers which are played on Saturday and Monday nights and require no extra travel. The Hawkeyes meet Purdue and Chicago in single games on one trip.

The number of nonconference games is a question to be decided by each university. Iowa now has scheduled only two such games. The Hawkeyes will meet Nebraska at Lincoln on Dec. 12 and have another game with Great Lakes. This date has not been selected.

Illinois, according to Coach Doug Mills, now has arranged five nonconference games and may add another during the Christmas holidays.

Spring Sports to Be Discussed.

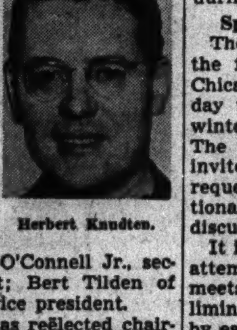
The directors of the conference and the faculty committee will meet in Chicago next Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss curtailment of other winter and spring sports schedules. The football coaches also have been invited and each university has been requested to send at least one additional representative for the schedule discussion.

It is reported that the Big Ten will attempt to retain the conference meets such as in track and that preliminary competition will be arranged by each university without benefit of complete conference schedules. The faculty committee also will discuss a proposition to make freshmen eligible for varsity teams. This was voted down at the May meeting.

The directors already have gone on record as in favor of continuing intercollegiate football in 1943. Schedules have been drawn.

KNUDTEN AGAIN HEADS ILLINOIS SKATING GROUP

The Illinois Skating association last night named its officers for the 1942-'43 season when Herbert J. Knudten was reëlected president for a second successive term.



Herbert Knudten.

Sid Novak, who has been secretary and treasurer for five years, again was selected to that post. Other officers: Carmen J. Tortorello, first vice president; George O'Connell Jr., second vice president; Bert Tilden of Glen Ellyn, third vice president.

Philip Pritikin was reëlected chairman of the registration committee, with William Himmer Jr., Leo Freisinger, Fred Gohl, and Tom Croke appointed as his committee members.

The schedule of meets will be drawn up at the next meeting of the association. The Chicago Tribune A. A. has applied for Jan. 16 and 17 for the annual Silver Skates Derbies.

SOX, CUBS MAY QUIT CALIFORNIA TRAINING BASES

Magnates Puzzled Over Eastman Letter.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The National and American leagues worked long, mysteriously, and separately yesterday and at 10 o'clock this morning in the Ambassador West hotel will meet jointly with Commissioner K. M. Landis presiding. Today's get together of the two rival big leagues may bring a considerable revision of 1943 schedule plans, pertaining particularly to the curtailment of travel.

With the beginning of the major-minor league conventions now in session in the Palmer House, it was made known that the 1943 league schedules and the spring training plans and calendars had been drawn and probably would be approved as a more or less routine matter. But before all the nabobs got here came the rather startling, tho somewhat vague letter from Director Joseph Eastman of the Office of Defense Transportation, publicized several days ago and worried over ever since. Mr. Eastman's communication asked the baseball folks to do everything possible to cut down transportation.

Try to Save More Mileage.

At the conclusion of the National league meeting shortly after 5 o'clock, President Ford Frick announced that after a digest of the Eastman letter it was decided to try to cut another 1,000 rail miles off the travel prescribed under the chartings previously drawn. Frick pointed out that the first drawn 1943 schedule represents a saving of 22,000 to 23,000 rail miles over those of recent years.

The league prexy also said in connection with the discussion of the Eastman letter that a telegram had been sent at the close of the meeting, assuring the ODT chief that the league would coöperate with his office in every manner suggested. He said that at present it was believed the ODT office is opposed to zig-zag exhibition trips and that all back tracking and side trips will be eliminated.

No Action by Sox, Cubs.

The two Chicago clubs thus far have not indicated they have acted on Director Eastman's apparent hints that ball clubs should train as close to home as consistent with weather conditions.

Tho it is believed the Sox might find good March weather closer than their long time training base at Pasadena, Cal., and that the Cubs might condition their supple muscles closer than the announced new plan that would keep them off of their old spring base, Catalina Island, there has been no news about alternate plans, not even teensy bits of gossip. There has been a recent smothering, however, of the plan to train for 10 days or so in Mesa, Ariz.

It was held likely that the Cubs might choose Mesa as the training base for the entire training period,

To You.

The darkest night, tho black it seems,
Retreats, surrenders to the gleams
Of morning, when God's world abounds
With a waking medley of summer sounds
Sweet to my ear, yet I, long after,
Still cherish more your lilting laughter.
Tho summer fades and roses die,
Young dreams grow dim, and visions lie
Tho winter claims the glens and moors,
Your rapt allure, my dear, endures.
So like the moon, in its star-lit flight,
Sails the cloistered seas of night—
None to impede her haughty pace,
So shall my swift thoughts e'er replace
The void of mortal joys I'll miss
With the deathless memory of your kiss.

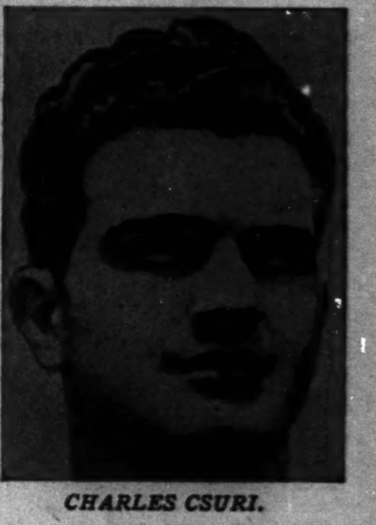
ACE TACKLE 8TH CANDIDATE FOR TRIBUNE AWARD

Reaches His Peak in Michigan Game.

Columbus, O., Dec. 2 [Special].—Charles Csuri, iron man left tackle of the championship Ohio State football team, today was named the most valuable player of the 1942 Western conference champions by his teammates. Earlier this week he had been unanimously selected as 1943 captain of the Buckeyes.

Csuri becomes eligible for the full sized silver football trophy awarded annually by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to the most valuable player in the conference.

Jack Graf, star full back of the 1941 eleven, was named by the Buckeyes for the honor last year and he went on to be named most valuable in the conference by THE TRIBUNE'S board of selection.



CHARLES CSURI.

Calls Him All-American.

In commenting on Csuri's selection, Coach Paul Brown said, "I'm most happy for Charlie and if he doesn't make All-American it'll be a great injustice. No one deserves it more.

"His play this year has been absolutely remarkable. Why, he hasn't been handled by any team we've played and he's done his job against them all. Every week we have studied the pictures of the preceding game and it's been the same story: The thing that impressed us most was Charlie's play. His reactions are uncanny and his play is as perfect as you'll ever find. He gets blocked but he spins away and still meets the play coming in. I don't think a tackle ever played a better game than Csuri did against Michigan."

He's Popular With Mates.

This sentiment echoed the opinions of the entire Ohio State squad. Csuri, a favorite with his teammates on and off the football field, had the faculty of doing his job with ease and quiet efficiency.

The big moment in Charlie's career came in the Michigan game when he broke thru and blocked one of Tom Kuzma's punts, the Buckeyes taking the ball on their own 35 yard line. Three plays later they had their first touchdown of the game, which ultimately gave them the Western conference title. He played 60 minutes against the Wolverines.

Csuri, the name is pronounced "S-urri" like in hurry, is 20 years old and of Hungarian extraction. His home is in Cleveland. He started his football career as a tackle and general utility man at Cleveland West Technical High school.

Has All the Requirements.

In his freshman year at Ohio State he started as an end and later was moved to quarter back and half back, returning to tackle when his turn to actually play arrived. As a sophomore last year he alternated with Capt. Jack Stephenson at left tackle, and actually had more playing time to his credit than did the Buckeye leader.

He is 6 feet tall, weighs 195 pounds, and has the speed and coördination which go to make up a great tackle. He is as noisy on the field during the game as he is quiet and reserved off the gridiron. He is an industrial designing student in the fine arts college and hopes to become a designer of automobiles. His excellent grades place him consistently on the honor roll.

The Honor Roll

EIGHT Western conference schools have chosen the players considered most valuable to their respective teams. They now are eligible for the full size silver football awarded each year by The Tribune to the man voted most valuable in the Western conference. Northwestern's selection tomorrow will complete the poll. The list follows:

OHIO STATE—Charles Csuri, tackle.
ILLINOIS—Elmer Engel, end.
MICHIGAN—Al Wistert, tackle.
INDIANA—Lou Saban, quarter back.
PURDUE—Bill Buffington, full back.
WISCONSIN—Dave Schreiner, end.
MINNESOTA—Dick Wildung, tackle.
IOWA—Tom Farmer, quarter back.

SELL BOWL GAME TICKETS ONLY TO HOME FOLKS: ODT

Discourage Long Trips, Eastman Asks.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The Office of Defense Transportation today suggested to organizations sponsoring New Year's day football games that tickets be sold only to those persons living in the area where the games will be played.

Immediate responses of coöperation came from the five major bowls and also from the officers of the East-West game in San Francisco which is played annually for the benefit of the Shrine hospital in the California city.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the ODT, telegraphed managers of the games and the participating schools that long distance travel of fans and team followers must be discouraged.

He cited as an example the Army-Navy game of last Saturday which was switched from Philadelphia early last month by President Roosevelt for a similar reason. The 1942 game, to which only persons living in Annapolis were eligible for tickets, was played before 11,700 instead of the customary 102,000.

Attendance Falls This Year.

The directors of all the games replied to Eastman's suggestion with statements that they had done virtually no out of town advertising this year and Oscar E. Dooly Jr. of the Miami Orange bowl added that 85 per cent of the tickets to the Boston college-Alabama game already had been sold in the Miami area. He also declared that, while no efforts would be made to sell tickets outside Florida, it was unlikely that the bowl would refuse mailed requests.

Altho there is little way of determining how many of the spectators were out of town guests, a total of 320,000 saw the five major bowl games and the East-West contest on Jan. 1, 1941.

Approximately 250,000 paying customers were in the stands on New Year's day of this year, altho the Rose Bowl game and the annual Shrine contest were moved to new sites following the army's edict that jammed California highways might interfere with the prosecution of its duties in case of an attack by Japan.

Enough Home Town Fans.

The last Rose bowl game played in Pasadena, that of Jan. 1, 1941, attracted an estimated 90,000. The city has a listed population of 81,864.

The Sugar bowl contests of the last two years have attracted 73,000 spectators each. New Orleans has a population of 494,537.

Dallas, where the Cotton bowl crowds have averaged 38,000, has a population of 294,734. El Paso, Tex., site of the Sun bowl game, where the attendance averages 14,000, has 96,810 persons within its city limits.

Miami, site of the Orange bowl, and San Francisco, where the East-West battle is produced each New Year's day as a benefit for the Shrine hospital, also have populations large enough to assure crowds of 35,000 and 63,000, respectively, which witnessed previous games there. Miami would have approximately 200,000 residents from which to draw its throng, and San Francisco's 1940 population was 634,536.

Budweisers Win 3 with 3,302 Total

The Budweisers rolled a three game total of 3,302 last night in making a sweep of their Classic league series with the Washington Shirts. The game totals were 1,074, 1,075, and 1,153, the latter being the high team game for the league this season.

The Budweisers' sweep was the only one of the session, the other matches being settled on a two games to one basis. Prima Pilsner took two out of three from Meister Brau and went into a tie for first with the Gills and Schlitz. The Gills won one from Ambrosia Beer and Schlitz likewise was able to salvage only a single from the Monarchs. Thompson's Restaurants took two from the U. S. Beers.

Hawks, N. Y. Meet Tonight for Third Time

Games Tonight

New York at Chicago.
Toronto at Montreal.

The Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Rangers will meet tonight in the Stadium for the third time in this National Hockey league season. Both previous matches went to the New York team by 5 to 3 and 2 to 1 scores.

Despite the defeats handed the Rangers during that time Walter Buzinski was in their nets, the Rangers are only three full games behind Detroit, the league leaders. In fact, the last place Montreal Canadiens, who will be the Hawks' opponents here Sunday, are only three and a half games from the top.

Goldup Delivers Early.

Since the Rangers played here they have acquired Hank Goldup and Red Garrett from the Toronto Maple Leafs. Both came in exchange for Babe Pratt, defense man. Goldup has played two games for the Rangers and already has picked up three goals and two assists. He is considered one of the most versatile players on the big time, playing left or right wing or defense with equal facility. Garrett is a rookie.

Jimmy Franks, who made his goal tending debut here, has definitely improved the Rangers' chances for victory.

The acquisition of Goldup and Franks and the consistently good offensive play of the great Patrick-Watson-Hextall string, which now leads all the league's forward lines in points, make the Rangers a formidable foe in any game.

Thoms at Defense.

There will be three important changes on the Hawks' line for tonight's encounter. Bill Thoms, who has been playing right wing alongside Max and Doug Bentley, will be shifted to a defense post with Red Mitchell as line mate while Reg Bentley, playing his first major league team, will replace Thoms. This will bring together, for the first time in hockey history, three brothers on one line.

Michigan Club to Hear Ceithaml, Crisler Tonight

The Chicago University of Michigan club will hold its annual football dinner at 6:30 o'clock this evening in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. Lieut. Col. Chester L. Fordney, marine recruiting officer in the Chicago area, will be toastmaster.

Among those he will introduce are Fritz Crisler, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Michigan; Wally Weber, freshman football coach at Michigan; George Ceithaml, captain of 1942 team; Col. William A. Ganoe; Paul White, captain elect of the 1943 Michigan eleven, and Al Wistert, recently named Michigan's most valuable player of the season.

Movies of the Michigan-Notre Dame football game will be shown. Patricia Melville, accordionist and pianist, also will entertain.

End Bowling School Today at South Shore

School Facts

Facts of today's Chicago Tribune Bowling school sessions, conducted by Andy Varipapa, follow:

PLACE — South Shore Recreation, 6838 Stony Island avenue.

TIME—2 p. m., lecture and instruction; 11 p. m., match, Varipapa vs. Worf Brewer.

The Chicago Tribune Bowling school sessions, which have been running for the last 10 days, will end today at South Shore Recreation, 6838 Stony Island avenue, but only until the All-Star tournament is over.

Andy Varipapa's afternoon instruction and his night game and fancy shot show have been booked for a return engagement at Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway, on Tuesday, Dec. 15. Other bookings may keep it in Chicago for a week after the All-Star tournament closes Dec. 13.

Andy taught south siders along the 24 lanes of the South Shore establishment all yesterday afternoon. Despite the bitter temperature, the lines were well filled. Last night he lost to George Morrison, 1,088 to 985, in a five game match. He repeats the same program today, starting his instruction at 2 p. m. and continuing for three hours, then putting on a match at 11 p. m. with Worf Brewer.

Beginning tomorrow Andy will shoot in the All-Star sweepstakes and tournament.

St. Sabina Basketball Tournament Starts Today

Thirty-two grammar school basketball teams will play in the fourth annual St. Sabina early season tournament which opens today in the St. Sabina Community center, 78th street and Racine avenue. The feature game of today's first round will be between St. Kilian's, the defending champion, and St. Ita's, at 7:15 p. m.

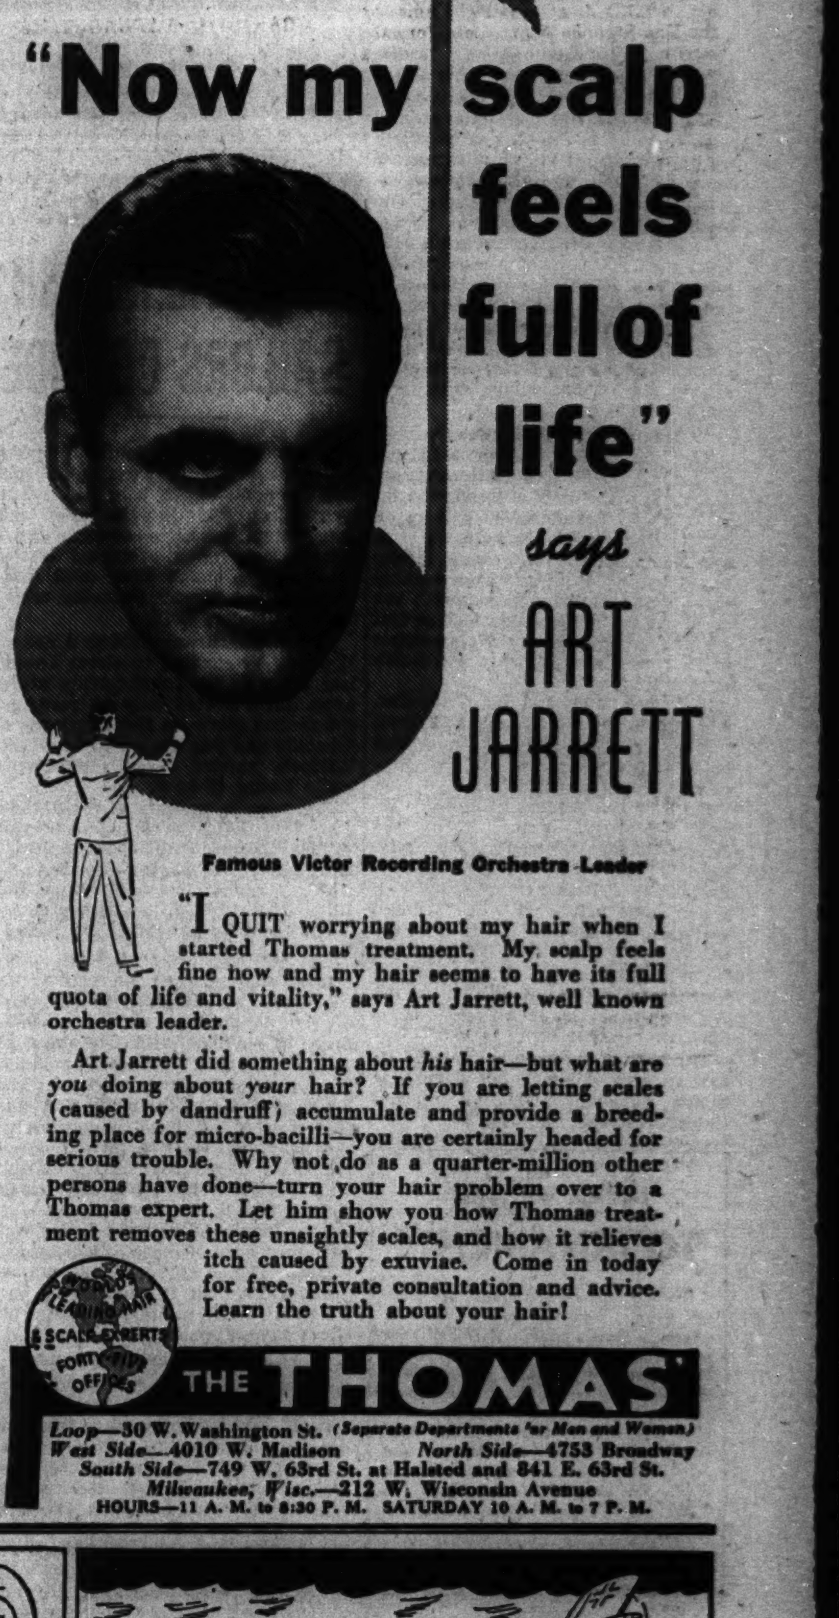
NORTHWESTERN'S BANQUET WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Speakers for Northwestern university's annual football banquet tomorrow night were announced yesterday. They will be Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, Adm. John Downs, commandant of the 9th naval district, Capt. Ernest C. Wills, of the 6th service command, and President Franklyn B. Snyder of Northwestern.

The banquet, which will start at 6:30, will be held in Evanston for the first time due to the transportation situation existing from gasoline rationing.

At that time football letters will be awarded, the captain for 1943 will be elected and the team's most valuable player will be selected to compete for THE TRIBUNE's annual award.



"Now my scalp feels full of life" says ART JARRETT

Famous Victor Recording Orchestra Leader

"I QUIT worrying about my hair when I started Thomas treatment. My scalp feels fine now and my hair seems to have its full quota of life and vitality," says Art Jarrett, well known orchestra leader.

Art Jarrett did something about his hair—but what are you doing about your hair? If you are letting scales (caused by dandruff) accumulate and provide a breeding place for micro-bacilli—you are certainly headed for serious trouble. Why not do as a quarter-million other persons have done—turn your hair problem over to a Thomas expert. Let him show you how Thomas treatment removes these unsightly scales, and how it relieves itch caused by exuviae. Come in today for free, private consultation and advice. It's ridiculous!

That's how we feel about the rumor that Martin's V.V.O. is hard to get. True, there was a temporary shortage, during which we had to ration some of our best dealers. Too, people who have known for years that V.V.O. is a superior Scotch, did lay away extra supplies.

But lately, regular and large shipments of this wonderful liqueur Scotch have been coming from abroad. You can get it at your favorite dealer's and at taverns. And of course, you pay no more for famous V.V.O. quality—including the advantage of 88 proof instead of 86.8.

SUSPEND JOCKEY ON A CHARGE OF USING BATTERY

San Mateo, Cal., Dec. 2 (AP).—Stewards of the Bay Meadows track tonight suspended Jockey Fred Becker of Norfolk, Neb., for the remainder of the meeting on a charge of using a battery on his mount in today's third race. Presiding Steward George Schilling said that a patrol judge saw the rider move as if he were applying a battery to his horse and that immediately after the race the stewards found the buzzer in Becker's blouse.

Becker's mount, Tonas, was ninth and last thru most of the early stages of the race. He moved up to fifth at the finish of the mile and an eighth run.

GLENVIEW BEATS MAROONS, 39-37, IN 2D OVERTIME

George Stallings' basket, with only five seconds remaining in the second overtime, gave the Glenview Air Base basketball team a 39 to 37 victory over the University of Chicago last night at Glenview in the opening game of the year for both teams.

After the two teams had traded the lead back and forth thruout the game, Ken Polivka's free throw tied the score for Glenview at 32 to 32 in the final minute of the regulation game. In the first overtime both teams scored five points, with Ed Nelson temporarily staving off defeat for the Maroons with his long shot that tied it again at 37 to 37 with 10 seconds left.

Stallings, Jack O'Hara, and Chuck Epperson combined to tally 30 of Glenview's points, while the Maroons were led by Harold Ellman's six baskets.

Detroit Eleven Leaves for Game in California

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP).—The University of Detroit football squad left today for San Francisco, where on Sunday the Titans close their season against St. Mary's.

Sox and Cubs May Give Up Coast Camps

May Drop California Bases.

If the California thing is out for the Chicago clubs, as it appears to be, similar abandonment probably will affect the Pittsburgh Pirates, who had planned to return to San Bernardino, Cal., and the St. Louis Browns who were to establish their camp in Anaheim, Cal., for the first time.

In any event, there is to be a revision of exhibition schedules, even if four teams train in California. The Sox and Pirates, who had planned to make several stops, may hop from El Centro, Cal., to Fort Worth, Tex., or to Wichita, Kas. The Cubs have insisted all winter that an extensive exhibition schedule will not be possible. The Cubs have thought some of stopping at San Antonio, Tex., or Kansas City, Mo., but since the Eastman letter was received they may swoop home in one ride, wherever the training camp may be.

May Start Training Later.

In some years one of the Chicago teams has left for California as early as St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14. This year the departure date had been set for the first week in March. With the exhibition possibilities now awry, the 1943 assembly date may be set as late as St. Patrick's day, March 17.

It was reported late last night that the National league had decided to let Gerry Nugent, president of the financially embarrassed Phils, work out his own problem. This was taken to mean that the league would remove its restriction against Nugent selling players to raise funds and let him keep control if he can satisfy his creditors. The league has loaned the Phils $100,000, but is not pressing for payment.

WHITE SOX QUEST FOR BOB JOHNSON ENDS IN FAILURE

But Dykes Is Dickering with Three Other Clubs.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

James Dykes, who manages the White Sox, was a disappointed but at the same time a hopeful man yesterday after doing lobby work during the second day of the major league meetings in the Palmer House.

Dykes was shoved toward the depressed side when politely told by his one time employer, Connie Mack of the Athletics, that there didn't appear to be any chance for doing a little ivory swapping between themselves.

So that, according to Dykes, definitely finished the week old rumor that First Baseman Joe Kuhel and Second Baseman Don Kolloway of the Sox would be shipped to the Athletics in exchange for Dick Seibert, also a first sacker, and Bob Johnson, the veteran outfielder. Dykes suspected that Mack had already closed a deal for Johnson, but the eventual landing place of the athlete wasn't known, altho there was a hint that it might be Boston, New York, or Washington.

Hope in Other Quarters.

Fuel for Dykes' hopes was furnished by the fact that a few of the other managers in the league continued to display interest in whatever he had to say. Lou Boudreau, the youthful leader of the Cleveland Indians, refused to give up on a proposition supposed to involve transfer of an outfielder from the Indians to the Sox in trade for a pitcher. Discussions with the Yankees and Browns also were in Dykes' affairs during the day, so there remains a chance that sooner or later he is going to snare at least one badly needed fly chaser of experience.

Dykes undoubtedly would have been much easier in his haggling if he had known what happened to his No. 1 enemy, Umpire John Quinn. The American league included in its post-meeting announcement the fact that Quinn had "resigned" for personal reasons, which of course could cover his troubles with managers other than Dykes. Quinn had been with the league for eight seasons.

Wilson Gets Around, Too.

Jim Wilson, Cub manager, was every bit as busy as Dykes and with the same results. He and Mel Ott of the Giants talked some more and finally agreed that the Giants couldn't help the Cubs, but that the latter could help the Giants. Catcher Harry Danning was the only man in whom Wilson displayed any interest, but they couldn't come even close on a price.

Wilson wants a catcher because of his fear that Clyde McCullough will be called into service within the next few months.

The Cub boss also talked briefly with the Cincinnati club notables who would like to land a hitter of some kind along with a few other guys, in a swap for Pitcher Paul Derringer. These negotiations broke off quickly when Wilson learned the Reds wanted about four men for the veteran right hander.

DE PAUL DEFEATS NAVY PIER, 51-28, IN SEASON DEBUT

De Paul's Blue Demons made an impressive start on their basketball season last night as they overwhelmed Navy Pier, 51 to 28, in the pier fieldhouse. It was the first of a 21 game schedule which will pit the Demons against leading teams of the country.

George Mikan, the 6 foot 8 inch sophomore center from Joliet, served notice that he would be one of the big factors in De Paul's future as he dropped in five field goals to tie Forward Jimmy Cominsky for scoring honors. The Aero-Macs were paced by Bob Curran, former star forward at Holy Cross, who made three field goals and three free throws for nine points.

De Paul will play its next game on Saturday, when it meets Chicago Teachers college in the latter's gymnasium, 2235 Sheffield avenue. This will be the second of three practice games before the Demons play Purdue in one of the double headers in the Stadium on Dec. 12.

JOCKEY'S FATHER DIES.

TABER, Alta., Dec. 2 [AP]. — Herbert Longden, 79 years old, father of Jockey Johnny Longden, died today at his home. He had been ill since Sunday.

Mr. Durocher Talks Again, So All's Well

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, showed improvement yesterday in his battle with an infection originating in a thumb. Leo Durocher, Brooklyn manager and only other cripple among those in attendance at the baseball meetings in the Palmer House, shook off a flu attack to the extent that he was able to talk out loud.

The New York Yankees yesterday signed as trainer Eddie Froelich, who has been serving in that capacity with the Chicago White Sox and the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team. Froelich succeeds Earl [Doc] Painter who was released by the Yanks following last fall's world series.

The White Sox shortage of outfielders is becoming more acute. Frank Kalin, purchased from Hollywood, expects to enter the armed forces. However, the club hopes to purchase a couple of well aged minor league gentlemen for emergency assistance.

The idea that the Yankees owed a player to the Washington club to complete the deal by which Roy Cullenbine went from the latter to the former during the last season, was all wrong. The New York club declared there was nothing on the cuff.

After their joint session this morning the big league magnates expect to be able to announce just how they are going to make further contributions to the various service benefit funds.

Gabby Hartnett has been dickering with the Giants as well as the Reds. Both clubs want a coach who can catch if necessary.

Col. George M. Trautman, president of the American association, has returned as active head of the organization. He resigned his commission when the army specialist corps was discontinued.

The confusion caused by the shortage of cork and rubber was a bit too much for the club owners. After listening to discourses on balata, golf ball cores, etc., the two leagues decided the wartime problem should be settled between Presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge of the National and American leagues. No matter how the ball is altered it will be the same for both leagues.

Bob Mattick, the youngster whom the Cubs purchased from Los Angeles and traded to Cincinnati in the Billy Myers deal two years ago, may be forced to abandon baseball. His sight was impaired by a beaning while in the Pacific Coast league and an operation failed to bring about the desired results. The little fellow thinks he might continue if some club would provide him an opportunity to take up pitching.

The New York writers were so startled by the antics of Charley Grimm and Bob Lewis at the Chicago chapter's annual dinner Tuesday night that they issued an invitation to the pair to steal the Gotham show in early February. The Chicago writers refuse to waive on their beloved property.

The St. Louis Cardinals paid off a bit last night for their pennant winning job in the National league. The managers' dinner was held at a north side retreat and Billy Southworth, being the Cardinals' pilot, was tendered the check.

WILLIE MOSCONI BEATS RUDOLPH IN BILLIARD MEET

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP).—Willie Mosconi of Jackson, Mich., grabbed a commanding lead at the half way mark of the world pocket billiards tournament tonight by downing Erwin Rudolph of Chardon, O., 125 to 48, in eight innings. It was the undefeated Mosconi's fifth victory.

Ralph Greenleaf of New York beat Defending Champion Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., 125 to 61 in 18 innings. The victory was Greenleaf's second in five starts. Mosconi earlier defeated Greenleaf, 125 to 96, in 10 innings.

Other results were: Jimmy Caras of Philadelphia defeated Andrew Ponzi, also of Philadelphia, 125 to 115, in 23 innings, and Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., beat Rudolph, 125 to 110, in eight innings.

BEARS STOPPED—AND THE SCORE IS ZERO TO NOTHING

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Chicago Bears yesterday encountered two opponents who threw them for a loss—the weather and gasoline rationing.

The National Football league champions took three turns around Wrigley field, whereupon the shivering coaches waved them into the warmth of the clubhouse.

"We will beat this weather rap," Heartly [Hunk] Anderson said confidently as he dialed the phone to order half a dozen cabs which would transport the squad to an indoor training spot on the north side. A minute later the Bear coach, shaking his head, said: "No cabs."

Since gasoline rationing started, the Bears, most of whom have automobiles in first class working order, have been using the elevated and buses as substitutes.

Bears Go Home.

So there they were, stranded in their own park. They went home.

This was the log of their first workout of the week for Sunday's game with the Cardinals in Comiskey park, which will be the finisher of the city's 1942 pro season.

Coach Anderson, who has a storm coat and a pair of Alaskan musher boots, warned the players no such concession would be made to the weather the rest of the week. Thursday is always reserved for defensive work and the champions will go thru their chores today out of doors regardless of the temperature.

"We might have to play the game under the same conditions," said Anderson, "so we'd better get used to it."

Later in the day Anderson and Coach Paddy Driscoll, sitting in the warmth of the Bears' loop office, studied scout reports of the Cardinals' recent games.

Penalties Puzzle Hunk.

"The Cards got past the 10 yard line against the Redskins three times," hmmed Heartly, "and each time drew a 15 yard penalty. Our reports show they also played a good game against the Giants in New York Sunday."

Mention of penalties moved Anderson to wonder out loud why the officials in games played by the Bears don't watch the other teams for an occasional rule infraction.

"They foul as much as we do," declared Hunk. "If Lee Artoe smashes thru and tackles a fellow trying to pass, it's unnecessary roughness and 15 yards. But if some one fouls Lee, why, that's just a good play."

Latest league statistics show the Bears are leading in 18 departments, as follows:

First downs rushing, 80; most yards gained, 3,652; average distance kick off returns, 28.4 yards; number of penalties, 88; yards penalized, 786; total touchdowns, 50; touchdowns running, 30; extra points, 43; total points, 355; fewest opponent points allowed, 77; fewest opponent yards allowed, 1,647; fewest opponent yards allowed rushing, 536; fewest opponent first downs, 93; fewest opponent first downs rushing, 35; fewest opponent rushing attempts, 275; most opponents' passes intercepted; most yards interceptions returned, 402; most touchdowns on intercepted passes, 3.

100 to Tee Off Today in Miami Open Golf Meet

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP).—Fellow professionals tabbed Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia the favorite today to set the pace for a hundred or more golfers who will tee off tomorrow in the $5,000 Miami open—the winter's only money tournament.

After watching McSpaden break the Miami Springs course record Monday with a practice round 63, Leonard Dodson of Kansas City said: "I'll put myself right on the spot. McSpaden will win it by six strokes."

Johnny Bulla, the former Chicagoan now registered out of Atlanta; Ben Loving of Miami and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., chimed in with predictions of a triumph for McSpaden.

The big mystery on the eve of the tournament was the whereabouts of Byron Nelson, who telegraphed last week that he would arrive in time to seek his third consecutive Miami open triumph. He was not on hand for a final workout today.

FARM MACHINERY STOCKS BOLSTER RAGGED MARKET

Industrial Issues Buying Revives Slightly.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—A moderate revival of buying in industrial shares coinciding with a further tapering of tax selling gave the stock market an appearance of strength today, altho numerous issues finished lower.

There were indications that many market followers were continuing to readjust speculative positions on the belief that the war may end sooner than previously expected.

The farm implement shares attracted a following along with steels, chemicals and various industrial specialties. Boeing had a fair advance but other aircrafts lost ground.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite advanced .2 of a point to 40.0. Transactions totaled 539,921 shares against 561,220 yesterday. Of 775 stocks traded 322 advanced, 216 declined and 237 closed unchanged.

Rails hardened in the final hour, with Southern Pacific and Santa Fe achieving the best advances.

Coca Cola dropped 2 on light selling and United States Rubber preferred fell back 1½.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices were irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. On turnover of 19,000 shares, 44 issues advanced, 37 declined, and 26 closed unchanged. Volume leaders included Midland United A preferred, Commonwealth Edison, Consolidated Biscuit, Armour & Co., and Merchants and Manufacturers Securities corporation. Chicago corporation rose ⅞ to a 1942 high at 34⅞. In the final hour Santa Fe and Swift were down ¼ and Stewart-Warner down ⅛ from the New York close.

Offer Export Subsidy

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The agriculture department announced today a new subsidy program designed to expedite the export of wheat to Mexico, Cuba, Colombia, Ecuador, Venezuela, and Central America. The government will pay bounties to exporters on sales made for export to these countries. The export rate will be announced from time to time. The initial rate will be 20 cents a bushel. It will be in effect until Dec. 22.

Grain prices advanced on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, wheat and corn showing net gains of 1 cent or more a bushel and climbing nearly 2 cents at one time. Trading was described by brokers as the heaviest in seven months or more.

Strength in the cash markets with old crop No. 2 yellow selling at 89½ cents, said to be the highest price for that grade since 1937, and reports that bakers and the government were inquiring for 600,000 barrels or more of flour brought heavy buying of futures and closing sales were near the top.

Wheat Futures Higher.

Wheat futures closed ¾ to 1 cent higher, corn 1 to 1⅛ cents, and rye 1⅞ cents. Oats, altho inclined to lag because of reports of increased offerings of Canadian grain in the east, finished ¼ to ½ cent higher. Liquidation developed in soy beans and the close was ½ to 1⅛ cents lower with December selling at $1.58⅝, the lowest in more than a year.

There was a pronounced letup in the liquidation of December grain contracts, brokers said, and a broader general commission house demand. Millers were persistent buyers of wheat futures, regarded as removing hedges against flour sales. It is estimated that about 3 million bushels of cash wheat will be required for flour for which inquiries have been made.

Hold Back Grain.

The upturn in corn has been caused primarily by lack of pressure of the cash grain, altho the department of agriculture estimates that there are about 3 billion 677 million bushels, the largest on record, available for use during the 1942-'43 crop year. Farmers are said to be holding back their grain in expectation of higher prices as Illinois producers can pledge their corn for loans at 79 to 84 cents a bushel, equal to 90 cents or more here.

Reports say that part of the million bushels or more cash corn delivered on December contracts in the last few days will be shipped to eastern ports before the close of lake navigation.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

HOLDS 'MISSION' OF NEW DEALERS THREAT TO U. S.

Aiken Tells People to Guard Rights.

Sen. Gearge D. Aiken [R., Vt.] warned last night that "certain high Washington officials in their zeal to carry democracy to the rest of the world" may bring the United States government to totalitarianism. He urged the American people to guard their rights against such an occurrence in an address at the annual dinner of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation in the Morrison hotel.

Sen. George D. Aiken.

The warning by Sen. Aiken was only one of the rumblings heard yesterday in farm groups against the administration's "blue printing" of agriculture by remote control. New plans for more rigid government control of agricultural production and prices drew resentment and condemnation from the farm groups. Under them, it was charged, production of the vast quantities of food needed in the war will be an impossibility.

Be Practical, He Warns.

Sen. Aiken asserted tnat the nation's postwar task includes rescuing of the oppressed and feeding the starving, but warned "we must approach these problems and work upon them in a practical manner, no matter how much our hearts tell us to throw wide the gates to American resources and invite the entire world to come in and carry away what they will."

The strong dissatisfaction with administration farm controls and predictions of concerted opposition were expressed in formal addresses and informal discussions at various meetings.

They came on the eve of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard's conference in Chicago today with middle western state Agricultural Adjustment administration chairmen and other agriculture department employés. It was reported that the conference is being held to "sell" the AAA's new program of enforcing crop goals by means of marketing quotas and penalties.

Predicts Farmer Opposition.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, asserted that the nation's farmers will balk at this latest effort of the administration to tell them what and how much to produce regardless of need or what they will be paid for their efforts to meet the higher goals set by the government. He said that the farmer wants to coöperate with the government, but will rebel at coercion.

In an address before the annual convention of the milk producers' federation O'Neal said that "more food production might be in prospect for next year if the administration had been as zealous in making needed equipment and lavor available to the farmer as it has been in hamstringing them with regulations and restrictions designed to keep food prices down."

Urges Boost of Working Hours.

He recommended that with every one working 54 hours a week millions of persons could be released for farm labor. Members of the federation also recommended that the largely increased number of federal jobholders could be reduced to aid the farm labor shortage.

O'Neal said that farmers and their families, working 70 hours a week and more to meet government food goals, have "little patience or sympathy" with industrial labor working an average of 43 hours. He urged stronger farm organizations and united action to obtain "agriculture's rightful position in the national economy."

Sen. Aiken also a speaker on the earlier program, said that the new AAA crop goal program is "the last straw in exhausting the farmers' patience." He predicted that the program will soon precipitate a "showdown" because unless thru congress the farmer forces the administration to relinquish some of its powers over agriculture, the administration will continue to take on more and more powers.

U. S. Must Feed World.

"Farmers will not express their revolt by laying down on the job," Sen. Aiken said. "It is simply a case of their not being able to continue any longer under such conditions. It is an inescapable fact that the United States must feed the world sooner or later, yet the farmer is told to produce more and more and is given less and less with which to do it."

The realization that the nation faces a food shortage for its armed forces, civilians, and allies, combined with the increase in actual food rationing, is proving that a philosophy of abundance is sounder than government planning based on temporary expediency and viewing a surplus as a calamity, John Brandt, president of the milk producers' group, said in his annual address.

Discuss Plan to Send Oil Equipment to Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2 (AP).—Experts representing the United States and Argentine governments began talks today on a proposed agreement under which Argentina would obtain oil equipment from the United States in return for the contribution of Argentina's tankers to an American tanker pool.

Nelson Hears Farm Woes, but Can't Help

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, today listened with a sympathetic ear to the woes besetting the nation's farmers as described by state agriculture commissioners, but explained that he had no control over price fixing, rationing, and crop restriction programs which are irritating them most.

He agreed that "it sounds perfectly logical" when Tom Linder, commissioner of agriculture for Georgia, protested against crop restrictions, such as on peanuts, when more and more production is needed. Linder said there is a waste of man power in having more farmers produce the same crop when without restrictions fewer farmers could produce the same quantity.

To strong protests against price ceilings on farm products and rationing policies Nelson replied, "Thank God, that isn't mine. That's under Leon Henderson."

Illustrating the confusion prevailing thruout the country over the war administration machinery, the members of the National Association of Commissioners, Secretaries and Directors of Agriculture, holding their 25th annual session, were surprised to find that Nelson was not in supreme control over Leon Henderson, chief price fixer and rationer.

Nelson, in his impromptu remarks, had to explain that in matters of price fixing and rationing Henderson had authority apart from the WPB, and was subject only to the President thru Director of Economic Stabilization James F. Byrnes.

Admits Confusion.

The war production chief admitted that there is confusion in Washington but he asserted "I can honestly say there is less and less each day."

One commissioner protested that "it's harder to get priorities for farm materials than it is to get the materials," explaining that the county boards dealing with priorities are so scattered around that it is difficult to get them together for action.

There were also complaints about inability to get repair parts for farm machinery, saying that all the farmers want is parts for repair rather than new machinery. Nelson said the WPB policy definitely is to get repair parts to the public as it would ruin the nation's economy to shut off repair parts as well as new machinery.

Tale of a $2.50 Shirt.

Ralph Moore of Texas declared that a $2.50 shirt contains about 10 cents' worth of cotton, but that under the policies of "Mr. Henderson, Mr. Byrnes and Mr. Roosevelt they're trying to control the price of the shirt by controling that 10 cents' worth of cotton."

"Unfortunately, I don't have anything to do with that," replied Nelson.

The association adopted a modified resolution criticizing some administration policies, after ordering a redraft of the original resolution which demanded lifting of price ceilings and removal of crop restrictions. The resolution finally adopted, attacked by some outspoken commissioners as "pussyfooting," merely cited the importance of agriculture in winning the war.

DESCRIBES OPA'S RESTRICTIONS ON WOODEN SPRINGS

The Office of Price administration has placed restrictions on the use of wooden springs in furniture and bedding and has given manufacturers permission to use solid bases in upholstering, Koppel Wekselblatt of the OPA announced yesterday at the annual meeting of the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers in the Palmer House.

Wekselblatt said manufacturers could use solid wooden bases, woven webbing, and other substitutes for steel coil spring in furniture, mattresses, and bed springs. Products made with these substitutes must comply with price regulations set by the OPA, he said.

All wooden springs must be tested and the manufacturer must submit this test to the government with his application for pricing, Wekselblatt said. Manufacturers may exhibit their product before permission is given for selling, he said.

Aircraft Firm Reports Dip in Year's Profit

Altho sales were more than doubled, net income of the Cessna Aircraft company, Wichita, Kas., fell after unusual deductions to $738,202 in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, from $1,796,594 in the preceding year, the company reported yesterday. Earnings per share were $2.11 and $5.13, respectively.

Net earnings were after tax provisions, a deduction of $1,254,462 for policy adjustments and conversion from war to peacetime operation, and a provision of $4,800,000 for a refund on government contracts resulting from renegotiation, the report said. The company's tax bill of $5,432,952 for the 1942 fiscal year included $751,511 for federal income taxes, and $4,500,300 for excess profits tax after deduction of a postwar tax refund of $39,385. In 1941 taxes aggregated $2,112,607. Net sales climbed to $37,588,529 from $13,646,040 in 1941.

Still Subject to Revision.

The report said a proposal of downward adjustment of net profit which was tendered the company by a representative of the war department price adjustment board had been rejected by the company "as of Nov. 25, 1942." Effect of the proposal, if accepted, would further reduce net profit for the 1942 fiscal year before federal and state income taxes, by approximately $1,850,000.

"The net profit indicated," the report continued, "is therefore subject to subsequent adjustment pursuant to any renegotiation agreement that may be consummated between the company and the government."

DEC. 31 IS LAST DAY TO CLAIM INSULL PAYMENT

Holders of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., debentures and Corporation Securities Company of Chicago serial notes were reminded yesterday that Dec. 31 is the deadline for filing claims against the companies in the equity proceedings in bankruptcy.

Altho relatively few holders have failed to file their claims for liquidating dividends authorized by federal court several years ago, several hundred checks are being held awaiting correct addresses or the surrender of certificates of deposits.

Garfield Charles, special master in both cases, whose office is at 100 West Monroe street, said that unless claims are filed by the end of the year, the holders of I. U. I. debentures cannot participate in liquidating dividends totaling $44.50 for each $1,000 debenture, because the statute of limitations will have expired. Neither will the holders of Corporation Securities serial notes be entitled to the dividend of $47.50 for each $1,000 note.

FCC REFUSES PHONE COMPANY'S PLEA FOR TOLL CUT DISMISSAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The Federal Communications commission denied today the request of the American Telephone and Telegraph company that it dismiss or at least postpone until April 1 an inquiry aimed at bringing about reductions in long distance telephone rates.

The commission's order to A. T. & T. to show cause why such rates should not be lowered was issued Nov. 20 and called for a written reply Dec. 1, and a public hearing on Dec. 16.

The company replied Tuesday that a reduction in rates would stimulate telephone traffic "at a time when such stimulation would be contrary to public interest."

The commission told A. T. & T. to appear at the hearing as scheduled Dec. 16 and to set forth in writing at that time the nature of the evidence it contended would require more time to prepare for the inquiry.

WLB Asks End of Walkout in Big Shipyard

South Portland, Me., Dec. 2 (AP).—The War Labor board in Washington appealed today to officials of the AFL Boilermakers' union to direct their members to return to their jobs immediately at the yard of the South Portland Shipbuilding corporation.

The telegraphic appeal was sent to William J. Buckley, union representative at Portland, and to international officers in Washington. It said, referring to a board order of two weeks ago relating to minimum wages paid by the company, that "the board will not take further action in connection with its directive order until or unless this work stoppage ceases and production is resumed."

The walkout, which began yesterday and kept the plant idle last night, centers about a dispute over reclassification of the workers under a pending new wage scale—the management contending there are four classifications and the union, two.

Union representatives termed the walkout "unauthorized." A less extensive work stoppage took place early in October at the yard whose production record has been described by congressional investigators as the worst of any Liberty ship contractor.

Will Decide Ferry Case.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—An official source said tonight the War Labor board had agreed to take jurisdiction of a strike of railroad ferry workers on Lake Michigan. A union spokesman had complained earlier that the national mediation board refused to provide mediation services immediately.

The same source said the case might precipitate a showdown over what agency has jurisdiction in railroad disputes during the war.

Mardy Polaner ,secretary-treasurer of the Great Lakes district of the AFL Seafarers' union, said the walkout of 140 car ferry employés of the Grand Trunk Western railway was called last night after a month's attempt to get government mediation assistance. The strike tied up two ferries in Milwaukee, Wis. Company officials said the stoppage was a violation of the railway labor act.

EXPECT AFRICAN WAR TO INCREASE SUPPLY OF FATS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The department of agriculture said today the military campaign in North Africa should improve materially the united nations' supply of edible fats and vegetable oils.

"Large quantities of peanuts and peanut oil which are known to have been going to Germany from West Africa will now be available for allied use," the department said. "Allied control of the Mediterranean would mean that return loads of Egyptian and Indian cottonseed could again be sent to England for crushing. Fortunately, it appears that British crushing and edible oil storage capacity was little affected by bombing."

50c Dividend Authorized by Reo Motors

Directors of Reo Motors, Inc., Lansing, Mich. yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable Dec. 23 to voting trust certificate holders of record Dec. 12. The payment is the first since the company was incorporated in Michigan in January, 1940, as successor in reorganization to the Reo Motor Car company.

President H. E. Hund announced the company has made final payment to the Reconstruction Finance corporation of a balance due on the 2 million dollars loan made at the time of the reorganization. Under the reorganization plan, payment of the loan will terminate the voting trust set up under the plan. The company, which manufactures trucks, is engaged in war production.

Payments on Arrears.

The Central Illinois Public Service company, Springfield, Ill., announced payments of $3.50 a share on the company's $6 preferred and 6 per cent preferred stocks to apply on accumulations in arrears. The dividends bring total 1942 payments to $8 on each of the issues, three previous payments of $1.50 on arrears having been made on each issue this year.

Directors of the American Power and Light company, part of the Electric Bond and Share Utilities system, omitted payment "at this time" of dividends on the $5 and $6 preferred stocks. Last previous payments were 62½ cents on the $5 and 75 cents on the $6 stock, paid Oct. 1.

Declaration on Tuesday by the Beatrice Creamery company, Chicago, of a 75 cent extra dividend in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents on the common stock was erroneously reported as bringing total 1942 payments on the common to $3. These disbursements, in addition to a quarterly payment of $1.25 on the preferred stock, were declared payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 11. Common dividends for 1942 total $2.

2 Examiners Recommend New Air Line Link Route

United Air Lines announced yesterday it had been advised that two Civil Aeronautics board examiners have recommended to the CAB that the air line be authorized to establish a new route from Washington, D. C., to Toledo, O., connecting at Toledo with United's transcontinental planes to Chicago and the Pacific coast. The recommendation is subject to board action.

PREDICTS STEEL OUTPUT AT NEW MONTHLY PEAK

WPB Expert Terms Supply Adequate.

Steel production in the United States soon will reach the record breaking monthly total of about 8,250,000 tons—about 99 million tons on a yearly basis, Hiland G. Batcheller, head of the iron and steel branch of the War Production board, disclosed yesterday. The record breaking total will be reached on completion of facilities under construction.

Batcheller made public the steel production figure in a talk in New York at a meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers. He said production at the time of Pearl Harbor was 7,150,000 tons monthly and in October of this year an all-time high of 7,584,000 tons was reached.

Steel mills in the Chicago area produce about a sixth of all the nation's steel.

Optimistic on Supplies.

Batcheller said he believes manufacturers can be reasonably optimistic about obtaining a balanced supply of raw steel materials in the near future. He attributed the improvement to the cutting down of nonessential civilian items and to the new controled materials plan.

Meantime, Iron Age, steel industry publication, reported recent adjustments of war contracts are causing confusion for many companies which are receiving stop orders on war material items of which it once seemed the nation could not obtain enough.

The machine tool industry was reported as having had an increase in cancellations partly the result of the switch in emphasis to ships and fighting planes. The structural and reinforcing fabricators also are reported to have been given many cancellations because of WPB's decision to curtail construction programs to make materials available for direct military use.

URGES LATE SHIPPING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, today urged Great Lakes ship operators to continue iron ore shipments from upper lake ports this month and announced they would be compensated for extra costs.

The shipping season normally closes about Nov. 30, after which time expenses increase sharply because of operating difficulties in cold weather. Insurance rates are boosted every five days after Nov. 30, and other costs increase because trips usually require more time in winter months.

Eastman said the War Shipping Administration has agreed to pay the extra insurance charges and that the Office of Price Administration has permitted an increase of 31.25 per cent in ore shipping rates to cover carriers' additional out of pocket expenses. OPA ruled the increased freight charges are to be paid by the ore buyers.

KAISER TO TELL CARGO PLANE AIM IN TWO MONTHS

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, said today he would be able to define publicly in two months the plans for the giant cargo planes to be built by him and Howard Hughes.

"We are planning," Kaiser said, "to build these cargo planes for permanent use. They must not be confused with passenger ships. They will be designed to carry heavy freight and we are building them from plans to produce the greatest possible mileage at the lowest possible cost."

Kaiser, who will speak here Friday night at the convention banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers, said the ships will "certainly be able to fly over the ocean, land cargo and fly back without refueling."

TELEPHONE GAINS IN REVENUE ARE DISCLOSED BY FCC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The Federal Communications commission reported today that during the first nine months of this year the nation's major telephone companies had aggregate net operating income of $196,962,728, an increase of 4.6 per cent over the corresponding 1941 period.

Operating revenues totaled $1,190,477,032, an increase of 12 per cent, and operating expenses were placed at $765,924,655, an increase of 11.5 per cent over the 1941 period.

Half Canada's War Expenses Paid by Taxes

Canada is raising relatively more of its war funds thru taxation than is the United States, and is borrowing correspondingly less which must be repaid in the future, a study of the dominion's financial statistics showed yesterday.

In the 38 months from the start of the war on Sept. 1, 1939, to Oct. 31, 1942, Canada paid more than 50 per cent of all government costs out of taxes and other current revenues, the highest ratio of any of the united nations.

Canadian war and other costs during the 38 months totaled 7 billion 495 million dollars, including 2 billion 217 millions for financing British war purchases in the dominion. Taxation and other current revenue provided 3 billion 899 millions of this total, and the remainder was obtained thru victory loans and other dominion securities sold to the public.

Banks Provide Smaller Part.

Canadian banks are providing a smaller share of the funds than in the United States.

Excluding Canada's contribution to Britain, thru machinery corresponding to lend-lease in this country, the dominion raised 73 per cent of the war costs thru current revenues.

United States figures cannot be broken down on an exactly parallel basis because of various factors, but the most recent estimate of constantly shifting budget figures indicated taxes would provide only 32 per cent of this country's federal expenditures during the fiscal year ended next June 30.

The Public Administration Clearing house, estimating the current fiscal year's federal expenditures would reach 78 billion dollars, said that taxes would cover 24 billion 843 million dollars, or 32 per cent of the total.

Public Debt Is Smaller.

Canada's public debt is smaller per capita than America's, but interest rates and interest charges per capita are materially higher, reflecting the difference in credit ratings and the United States' policy of forcing low interest rates.

Canada's 11.7 million population had a per capita debt of $568 at the close of the fiscal year on March 31, 1942, when the dominion's direct and guaranteed debt totaled 6 billion 648.8 million dollars. Interest charges averaged 3.15 per cent and represented an annual per capita cost of $17.25.

U. S. DEBT IS VAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The federal debt passed the 100 billion mark Monday for the first time in history, the daily statement of the treasury department disclosed today. America ran deepest in debt on the same day the government started its drive to borrow a record 9 billion dollars in December.

As treasury department officials estimated the public debt would soar above 140 billion dollars in the next seven months, its spokesmen sounded out public opinion on the best ways to raise new and heavier taxes.

The public debt has risen some 39 billion dollars during the last year. Treasury figures show that it has risen some 78 billion dollars since the advent of the New Deal.

The federal debt soon will reach its statutory limit of 125 billion dollars, according to treasury officials.

DECLARES WPB HARD BOILED IN TAKING TRACKS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP). — Charging the War Production board with arbitrarily requisitioning tracks of branch line railroads by a "hard boiled, bureaucratic procedure," Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] expressed determination today to ferret out the official responsible.

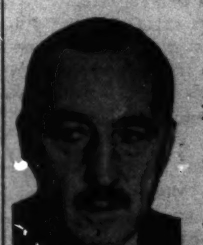
Johnson, chairman of an Interstate Commerce subcommittee, made his statement after Andrew Stevenson, head of WPB's transportation equipment division, told the committee he had more than 4,400 miles of relay and new rail not now in use, of which 1,500 miles was immediately available.

With that much rail available, Johnson asserted, he did not see the reason for forcing abandonment of branch lines to obtain trackage without the customary Interstate Commerce commission hearings as to the necessity for the lines.

WIN WAR, THEN SHED CONTROLS, SAYS WITHEROW

Fights for America, He Declares.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—"I am not making guns or tanks to win a people's revolution—I am making armament to help our boys save America," William P. Witherow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today at the opening of the wartime convention of the association." I don't want any modified free enterprise or bill of rightless democracy."



William P. Witherow.

Witherow, whose speech dealt primarily with the difficulties of industry and business under wartime controls and with the desire of business for quick postwar relaxation of these controls, was echoed by J. Howard Pew, president of Sun Oil company and a vice president of N. A. M.

Load on Industrialists Heavy.

Witherow described "rationing, renegotiation, shortages, investigations, indictments, questionnaires, anti-trust suits, conflict, overlapping, red tape and confusion, National Labor Relations board, War Labor board, and other alphabetical slowdowns that took the time of management" as so many things in the knapsack industrialists have to carry.

"Immediately after the war," he said, "government aid to war torn countries is a foregone conclusion. But not the rehabilitation of their economy or the reforming of their lives. I am not fighting for a quart of milk for every Hottentot, or for a TVA on the Danube, or for governmental handouts of free Utopia."

"Since the very survival of our country now depends on industry's output of war materials it follows that we must hold firmly to that system which will give us the maximum of goods for our war effort," said Pew. "Even if totalitarian effort were more efficient than our American way, we dare not change over night the patterns of thinking that have guided us for over a century."

Fight Industrial Penalties.

"Any action that penalizes ingenuity in industry would result inevitably in so cutting down our production that we would lose this war.

"This is the catastrophe that threatens us today, as Washington, with tongues of Babel and in pell mell fashion, proclaims directives on top of restrictive orders and restrictive orders on top of directives."

Pew objected to the limitation on net salaries to $25,000 a year during the war as injuring the 3,000 men who, "more than any others have been responsible for making possible the largest war production of any people at any time in history."

Eugene E. Wilson, president of United Aircraft corporation, said:

"Mankind needs the American type of leadership; let it not be discredited by those who are out of sympathy with it, who don't understand it, or are incompetent to administer it.

"In America, the demand for the power to compel is confession of incompetence to lead."

View of WPB Official.

The United States may be called upon to supply a "rejuvenated" French army, the vice chairman of the War Production board told the N. A. M. Ferdinand Eberstadt, the WPB executive said, "You must not forget that war is a matter of change and hazard and that what is true today my not be true tomorrow.

"We may, for example, [it is to be hoped], have the privilege of supplying a rejuvenated French army which, altho it would cause a change in our calculation, would be a very agreeable burden indeed."

November War Bond Sales Fall 65 Million Under Goal

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced today that sales of war bonds in November fell $65,400,000 short of the 800 million dollar quota.

RULES ARE ISSUED ON $30 AND UP SALARY FREEZE

Level of Oct. 3 Is Fixed; Cuts Restricted.

prove that they have not violated the law.

Specific authorization by the commissioner of internal revenue will be required in a great many cases and employers will be held strictly accountable for all increases made without direct approval.

Exceptions to Freezing.

The regulations set forth the following conditions under which specific authorization will not be required for salary increases:

1. Individual promotions or reclassifications.
2. Individual merit increases within established rate ranges.
3. Operation of an established plan of salary increases based on length of service.
4. Increased productivity under incentive plans.
5. Operation of a training system or
6. Such increases or circumstances as may be prescribed in rulings or regulations promulgated by the commissioner from time to time.

Bonuses Part of Salary.

The regulations made plain that bonuses, gifts, loans, commissions, fees, additional compensation and other remuneration in any form are considered to come within the definition of salary or salary payment and are thus subject to the provisions of the stabilization order.

However, the way is left open for an employer to pay year end bonuses to his employés provided he has paid similar compensation in the past. It is provided, however, that such bonuses shall not exceed the rates paid in previous years.

In his original order the President directed that salaries should be frozen at the levels existing Sept. 15. Today's regulation, however, sets Oct. 3 as the base in most instances.

Basic Top Is $68,200.

The provisions relating to the higher salaries are intended to put into effect the ceiling of $25,000 after federal income taxes called for by the Presidential order. For the purpose of the regulations, the phrase "income taxes" is so defined as to make the basic salary allowable $68,200.

High salaries may be paid under some circumstances. Allowances over and above the $67,200 are permitted to an employé "to maintain his customary contributions to charitable, educational or other organizations."

To qualify for such allowances the employé must establish to the satisfaction of the commissioner that he cannot maintain these contributions from other income "without undue hardship."

Insurance Allowances.

Similar allowances are made for insurance premiums. These are permitted when it can be shown that the recipient of the salary cannot keep up his premiums "without disposing of assets at a substantial financial loss resulting in undue hardship."

Certain relief is also given to persons in the higher salary bracket who cannot meet their income taxes without sacrificing assets.

The regulations not only prohibit salary increases, with the exceptions specifically provided for, but also prevent employers from reducing salaries in most cases below present levels. On salaries of less than $5,000, decreases cannot be made below "the highest rate paid for such work in the local area between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942." The salary of a person who gets a demotion may be cut altho it is less than $5,000. Salaries over $5,000 may be cut to the $5,000 level without specific authorization of the commissioner of internal revenue.

ELECTRIC POWER OUTPUT DECLINES IN HOLIDAY WEEK

The nation's electric power production for the week ending Nov. 28 was slightly below the record breaking preceding week, but 12.8 per cent above the corresponding period a year ago, the Edison Electric institute announced yesterday.

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, output last week totaled 3,766,381,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 3,795,361,000 the preceding week. Production for the corresponding period a year ago totaled 3,339,364,000 kilowatt hours.

The southern states led all other regions, with an increase of 29 per cent above a year ago. Output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies totaled 168,542,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 4.5 per cent above the 161,255,000 hours for the corresponding week last year. Production for the preceding week totaled 171,190,000 kilowatt hours.

January Eggs 0.10 Cent Higher; Close at Ceiling

January egg futures advanced 0.10 cent a dozen to close at their ceiling of 37.9 cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and January onions rose 1 cent to $1.60 a 50 pound sack. The severe cold and cash market strength stimulated demand. Butter, December eggs, and January potato contracts continued at ceiling levels.

Railroads' October Profits Placed at 134.9 Millions

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that the nation's class 1 roads had estimated October net income of $134,900,000, against $53,675,973 in October, 1941. Estimated profit for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 was $707,900,000, compared with $413,333,947 in the corresponding period last year.

Important Excerpts from Internal Revenue Salary Regulations

The following are important excerpts from the regulations issued yesterday applicable to all salaries over $5,000 and other salaries of $30 a week or more paid to individuals employed in executive, administrative, or professional capacities:

EXECUTIVE EMPLOYES

Section 1002.3—An individual "employed in a bona fide executive capacity" means any employé!

[a] Whose primary duty consists of the management of the establishment in which he is employed or of a customarily recognized department or subdivision thereof, and

[b] Who customarily and regularly directs the work of other employés, and

[c] Who has the authority to hire or fire other employés or whose suggestions and recommendations as to the hiring and firing and as to the advancement and promotion or any change of status of other employés will be given particular weight, and

[d] Who customarily and regularly exercises discretionary powers, and

[e] Who is compensated for his services on a salary basis at not less than $30 per week [exclusive of board, lodging, or other facilities], and

[f] Whose hours of work of the same nature as that performed by employés not employed in an executive, administrative, or professional capacity do not exceed 20 per cent of the total number of hours worked in the workweek by the employés under his direction; provided that this subsection [f] shall not apply in the case of an employé who is in sole charge of an independent establishment or a physically separated branch establishment.

ADMINISTRATIVE

Section 1002.4.—An individual "employed in a bona fide administrative capacity" means any employé—

[a] who is compensated for his services on a salary or fee basis at a rate of not less than $200 per month [exclusive of board, lodging, or other facilities], and

[b] [1] who regularly and directly assists an employé in a bona fide executive or administrative capacity [as such terms are defined in these regulations] where such assistance is nonmanual in nature and requires the exercise of discretion and independent judgment; or

[2] who performs under only general supervision, responsible nonmanual office or field work, directly related to management policies or general business operations, along specialized or technical lines requiring special training, experience, or knowledge, and which requires the exercise of discretion and independent judgment; or

[3] whose work involves the execution under only general supervision of special nonmanual assignments and tasks directly related to management policies or general business operations involving the exercise of discretion and independent judgment; or

[4] who is engaged in transporting goods or passengers for hire and who performs, under only general supervision, responsible outside work of a specialized or technical nature requiring special training, experience, or knowledge, and whose duties require the exercise of discretion and independent judgment.

PROFESSIONAL

Section 1002.5. Any individual "employed in a bona fide professional capacity" means any employé who is—

[a] Engaged in work

[1] predominantly intellectual and varied in character as opposed to routine mental, manual, mechanical, or physical work, and

[2] requiring the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment in its performance, and

[3] of such a character that the output produced or the result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time, and

[4] whose hours of work of the same nature as that performed by employés not employed in an executive, administration or professional capacity do not exceed 20 per cent of the hours worked in the work week by such employés; provided that where such nonprofessional work is an essential part of and necessarily incident to work of a professional nature, this subsection [4] shall not apply, and,

[5] [A] requiring knowledge of an advanced type in a field science or learning customarily acquired by a prolonged course of specialized intellectual instruction and study, as distinguished from a general academic education and from an apprenticeship, and from training in the performance of routine mental, manual, or physical processes; or

[B] predominantly original and creative in character in a recognized field of artistic endeavor as opposed to work which can be produced by a person endowed with general manual or intellectual ability and training, and the result of which depends primarily on the invention, imagination, or talent of the employé and

[b] compensated for his services on a salary or fee basis at a rate of not less than $200 per month [exclusive of board, lodging, or other facilities] provided that this subsection [b] shall not apply in the case of an employé who is the holder of a valid license or certificate permitting the practice of law or medicine or any of their branches and who is actually engaged in the practice thereof.

SALARY PAYMENTS

Sec. 1002.6.—The terms "salary" and "salary payments" mean only such salaries over which the commissioner has jurisdiction. [See section 1002.10 of these regulations.] These terms are not used in any restricted, narrow, or technical sense, but encompass all forms of direct or indirect compensation for personal services of an employé which is computed on a weekly, monthly, annual, or other basis, other than wages [as defined in the general regulations and in orders or rulings of the board]. Bonuses, gifts, loans, commissions, fees, additional compensation and any other remuneration in any form or medium whatsoever are considered as falling within the concept of "salary" or "salary payment." Any compensation which is not regarded as wages in the commonly accepted sense of the term is salary notwithstanding that it may be computed on an hourly, daily, or piecework basis.

Retainer fees paid to an individual, not otherwise an employé, are not to be considered as salary. Insurance and pension benefits in a reasonable amount are likewise excluded from the terms "salary" and "salary payment."

Altho the term "salary" and "salary payment" do not include any compensation other than for personal services of an employé, the commissioner is not precluded from determining, after investigation, that amounts denominated, for example, as dividends, rents, or royalties, are in fact salary payments subject to the controls set forth in these regulations.

All amounts paid to, authorized to be paid to, or accrued to the account of any employé during a calendar year for services rendered or to be rendered are to be included as salary for such year.

SALARY RATE

Sec. 1002.7.—The term "salary rate" means the rate or aggregate of rates or other basis at which the salary for any particular work or service is computed, either under the terms of a contract or agreement, express or implied, or in conformity with custom or usage existing in the employer's business establishment. For treatment of commissions and bonuses on a percentage basis see sections 1002.13 and 1002.14.

AMOUNT OF PAYMENT

SUBPART B—JURISDICTION OF COMMISSIONER.

Sec. 1002.10—The general regulations provide that the commissioner shall have authority to determine, under regulations to be prescribed by the commissioner with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, whether salary payments are made in contravention of the act. The commissioner's jurisdiction is confined to—

[1] salary payments in excess of $5,000 per annum, in the case of individuals employed in any capacity whatsoever; and

[2] salary payments of $5,000 or less per annum, in the case of individuals [i] who are employed in bona fide executive, administrative or professional capacities, and [ii] who, in their relations with their employer, are not represented by duly recognized or certified labor organizations, and [iii] whose services are not within the meaning of "agricultural labor" as defined in paragraph [1] of section 4001.1 of the general regulations.

Other salary payments are subject either to the jurisdiction of the board of the secretary of agriculture, as prescribed in the general regulations. If, for example, a salary is to be increased from $4,500 per annum to $5,200 per annum [and subdivision [2] is inapplicable], approval of such increase, if required, must be obtained from the board.

CONCLUSIVENESS OF DETERMINATION

Sec. 1002.11—[2] Any determination by the commissioner that a salary payment is in contravention of the act is conclusive in every respect upon all executive departments and agencies of the federal government for the following purposes:

[1] Determining costs or expenses of any employer for the purpose of any law or regulation, either heretofore or hereafter enacted or promulgated, including the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, or any maximum price regulation thereunder;

[2] Calculating deductions under the revenue laws of the United States, or,

[3] Determining costs or expenses under any contract made by or on behalf of the United States.

[b] Any such determination of the commissioner is final and not subject to review by the Tax court of the United States or by any court in any civil proceedings. Nothing herein is intended, however, to deny the right of any employer or employé to contest in the Tax court of the United States or in any court of competent jurisdiction the validity of—

[1] Any provision of these regulations, on the ground such provision is not authorized by law, or

[2] Any action taken or determination made under these regulations, on the ground that such action or determination is not authorized, or has not been taken or made in a manner required, by law.

[c] No increase in salary rate shall result in any substantial increases of the level costs or furnish the basis either to increase price ceilings of the commodity or service involved or to resist otherwise justifiable reductions in such price ceilings.

APPROVAL REQUIRED

SUBPART C—SALARY INCREASES.

Section 1002.13—The burden of justifying an increase in salary rate shall in every instance be upon the employer seeking to make such increase. Increases in salary rates will not be approved unless necessary to correct maladjustments or inequalities, or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war. A promise made by an employer to his employés prior to Oct. 3, 1942 that salaries would be increased in the future is generally to be ignored in determining whether an increase after that date should be approved. The same rule is applicable with respect to a promise made by an employer prior to Oct. 27, 1942, in the case of employés whose salary rates are $5,000 or less per annum. A salary increase, however, may be approved, as to salaries below $5,000 per annum, if to deny such increase would be to force the continuation of a salary which is below the general level existing for the same or comparable work in the local area on Sept. 15, 1942.

Payment for overtime will constitute an increase in salary rate, and thus will require the approval of the commissioner, unless the customary practice of the employer has been to pay for overtime, and the rate has not been changed.

A bonus or other form of additional compensation based, for example, upon a fixed percentage of gross or net profits or sales of the employer which exceeds in rate of computation or in amount [even tho the rate of computation is unchanged or reduced] the bonus or other form of additional compensation to such employé for the last bonus year ending before Oct. 3, 1942 constitutes a salary increase for the purposes of these regulations which requires approval by the commissioner. For a bonus based upon a percentage of salary, see Section 1002.14.

APPROVAL NOT REQUIRED

Sec. 1002.14—The commissioner's approval is not required where an increase in salary rate is made in accordance with the terms of a salary agreement or salary rate schedule in effect on Oct. 3, 1942, or approved thereafter by the commissioner, and is a result of—

[1] Individual promotions or reclassifications.

[2] Individual merit increases within established salary rate ranges.

[3] Operation of an established plan of salary increases based on length of service.

[4] Increased productivity under incentive plans.

[5] Operation of a trainee system. Or

[6] Such other reasons or circumstances as may be prescribed in rulings or regulations promulgated by the commissioner from time to time.

A bonus or other form of additional compensation which does not exceed in rate of computation or in amount the bonus or other additional compensation to such employé for the last bonus year ending before Oct. 3, 1942, does not require approval by the commissioner even tho based upon a fixed percentage of gross or net profits or sales of the employer. In addition a payment under bonus based upon a fixed percentage of salary where the percentage has not been changed, does not require approval by the commissioner even tho the amount may be increased due to an authorized increase in salary. Where the compensation, or part thereof, is paid on a commission basis and is based upon a fixed percentage [which has not been changed] of sales made by the employé, a payment does not require approval by the commissioner even tho the amount may represent an increase due to increased sales by the employé. See, however, subpart F of these regulations.

SALARIES UNDER $5,000

SUBPART D—SALARY DECREASES.

Sec. 1002.15. In the case of a salary rate existing as of the close of Oct. 3, 1942, or established thereafter in compliance with these regulations, under which an employé is paid a salary of less than $5,000 per annum for any particular work, the general rule is that no decrease can be made by the employer in such salary rate below the highest salary rate paid for such work in the local area between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942. A decrease is permitted, however, with the approval of the commissioner, in order to correct a gross inequity in any case or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war. Where such decrease is permitted, the salary rate may be reduced below the highest salary rate paid for the work in question between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942. Except as otherwise provided in this section, any decrease in such salary rate after Oct. 3, 1942, shall be considered in contravention of the act if it is made prior to the approval thereof by the commissioner.

Except as may be otherwise provided from time to time by the commissioner an application for approval of any salary decrease shall be filed in the same manner as in the case of an application for approval of a salary increase. See section 1002.13 of these regulations.

The commission's approval is not required, for example, in the following cases where salary decreases are made after Oct. 3, 1942:

[1] The new salary rate does not fall below the highest salary rate existing between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942, for the particular work in question or for the same or comparable work in the local area.

[2] An employé has been demoted to a lower position than that filled by him between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942, and the salary rate for such lower position is not less than the highest salary rate existing for that position during the same period.

[3] An employé has been relieved of substantial duties and responsibilities.

A disparity between salaries paid by a particular employer and those paid by employers generally in the local area does not necessarily constitute justification for decrease in salary rates paid by such employer.

MULTIPLE EMPLOYES

Sec. 1002.23—Salaries payable to an employé from more than one employer may, for purposes of subpart F, be treated as if all such salaries were payable by a single employer, regardless of the financial or other relationship of the several employers. For example, individual A received a salary as an employé of the X corporation and also as an employé of its subsidiary, the Y corporation. Both the X corporation and the Y corporation are required to adjust their salary arrangements with such employé to conform with the provisions of these regulations. If individual B is employed by the M corporation and the N corporation, both of whom are owned, directly or indirectly, by the same person or persons, the M corporation and the N corporation must adjust their salary arrangements with B to conform with the provisions of these regulations. If individual C is employed by the R corporation and the S corporation and both corporations have knowledge of that fact, they must adjust their salary arrangements with C to conform with the provisions of these regulations.

AMOUNTS DISREGARDED

SUBPART G — EFFECT OF UNLAWFUL PAYMENTS.

Sec. 1002.28—[2] Section 5 [a] of the act provides in effect that the President shall prescribe the extent to which any salary payment in contravention of regulations promulgated under the act shall be disregarded by executive departments and other governmental agencies in determining the the costs or expenses of any employer for the purposes of any other law or regulation. In any case where a salary payment is determined by the commissioner to have been made in contravention of the act, the entire amount of such payment is to be disregarded by all executive departments and all other agencies of the federal government for the purposes of—

[1] Determining costs or expenses of any employer for the purpose of any law or regulation, either heretofore or hereafter enacted or promulgated, including the emergency price control act of 1942, or any maximum price regulation thereof.

[2] Calculating deductions under the revenue laws of the United States, or

[3] Determining costs or expenses under any contract made by of on behalf of the United States.

CRIMINAL PENALTIES

Sec. 1002.29 — Section 5,[a] of the act provides in substance that no employer shall pay, and no employé shall receive, any salaries in contravention of the regulations promulgated by the President under the act.

Section 11 of the act provides that any person, whether an employer or employée, who wilfully violates any provision of the act or of any regulation promulgated thereunder, shall be subject, upon conviction, to a fine of not more than $1,000, or to imprisonment for not more than one year, or to both such fine and imprisonment.

EXEMPT EMPLOYERS

SUBPART H — EXEMPTIONS.

Sec. 2002.31—The provisions of these regulations, except those contained in Subparts F and G thereof, shall not apply in the case of an employer who employs eight or less individuals in a single business. An employer is subject to the provisions of these regulations if at the time a salary increase is to take effect he has in his employ more than eight individuals in a single business. It is not necessary that each employé be paid a salary provided all the individuals employed receive compensation for their personal services. If it is subsequently determined that the number of employés has been temporarily reduced by the employer, or that the employer has utilized any other improper device, for the sole purpose of claiming the exemption provided in the general regulations and these regulations, then such exemption shall be deemed to have been improperly obtained and of no force or effect.

HOGS DIP 5 CENTS TO LOWEST PRICE IN EIGHT MONTHS

Hog prices declined 5 cents a hundred pounds more yesterday to the lowest since last March as farmers increased the selling of their record crop of 1942 pigs. Prices averaged $13.45, lowest since March 26 and $2.15 below the 22 year peak of Oct. 8. However, the price was higher than any corresponding December day since 1919. December prices exceeded the 1942 level in only three years on record.

Farmers, by reducing shipments, halted the wide decline of the cattle market which in two days wiped out all of last week's price gains. Arrivals totaled 8,500, second smallest for a Wednesday since July 8.

Lambs were mostly steady, the bulk from $15 to $15.50. Top loads reached $15.60.

JURY CLEARS HOG PACKERS IN U. S. MONOPOLY TRIAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 2 [Special].—After seven minutes deliberation a jury in United States District court here today acquitted three corporations and two individuals charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The defendants were: Kingan & Co., the Indianapolis Live Stock exchange, Kennett Murray Co., Inc.; Charles J. Renard, and Lewis H. McMurray.

After the testimony of one witness was described by Daniel L. Britt, Chicago, chief of government counsel, as typical of cumulative evidence, Judge Robert C. Baltzell indicated he could detect nothing to support the charge in the indictment that the defendants had conspired to fix prices and restrain trade in hogs on the Indianapolis market.

Britt conferred by telephone with his superiors in Washington, then asked that Judge Baltzell withdraw a juror and declare a mistrial in order that government counsel could consider the case all over again. Judge Baltzell refused to do so.

WORLD SUPPLIES OF WHEAT PLACED AT RECORD LEVEL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2 (AP).—The department of agriculture reported today that world production of wheat this year was above average and that supplies were at a record level.

It estimated production, exclusive of Russia and China, for which figures were unavailable, at 3 billion 980 million bushels, or about 230 million more than was reported last year. Production for the same areas averaged 3 billion 915 million bushels during the 1931-'40 period.

Most of the present stocks are in the western hemisphere and Australia.

TAX AGREEMENT.

I own bonds issued by the Canadian province of Manitoba. I was told recently that all Canadian provinces have withdrawn from the collection of personal and corporate income taxes, their principal source of revenue, under an agreement with the dominion government. Any information you can provide on this agreement, particularly how it affects revenues of each province, will be appreciated. Has Manitoba reduced its debt since 1940?—F. B.

Answer: Under a taxation agreement dated May 1, 1942, the provinces of Canada withdrew from the collection of personal and corporate income taxes, leaving that function solely to the dominion government. The dominion raised its income tax rates to a level sufficient to provide revenues equal to the aggregate amount formerly collected by the provinces, plus additional funds required to finance Canada's war effort.

During the life of the agreement, which extends one year beyond the end of the war, the dominion reimburses each province with the amount of revenue each collected from these sources in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1941.

As a result of the agreement, about two-thirds of total revenues of each province in the fiscal year is guaranteed by the dominion. Also, the dominion guarantees to reimburse each province with the amount of any decrease in gasoline tax collections from the fiscal year ended April 30, 1941.

In the case of Manitoba, for example, the remaining third of total annual revenues is derived principally from liquor and auto licenses. Future revenues from auto licensing are an uncertain factor.

The province of Manitoba has decreased its debt from $130,276,000 on April 30, 1940, to $123,176,000 on Nov. 1, 1942.

DEBT REDUCED.

Has the New York Central railroad reduced its outstanding obligations to any extent in the last 10 years? —B. G.

Answer: Total outstanding obligations of the New York Central and its lessor companies have been reduced 185 million dollars since 1932, F. E. Williamson, president, announced recently.

ACCUMULATIONS.

How much are accumulations on the $7 preferred stock of the Pennsylvania-Dixie Cement company?—A. C.

Answer: After payment of a $1.25 dividend on the issue on Dec. 15, accumulations will amount to $83.75 a share.

DON'T BORROW
Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.

Steer of Boy, 16, Wins Championship—Tom M. Girdler Weds—Insull's Old Armored Car to Be Scrapped

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Description passed by military censors says these are United States troops executing "present arms" as a contingent of French soldiers marches thru a railroad station at Oran, Algeria. The description adds that the French soldiers are about to board trains to take them to Tunisian battlefronts.
